BRITAIN, FRANCE, RUSSIA BATTLE TO SAVE LEAGUE

Agree It Must Go to War to Exist.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, July 1.—Statesmen of the league of nations, who have earned their living for the last fifteen years by promising peoples of the world to organize collective security, today filed a petition in bankruptcy on behalf of the Geneva peace bank.

While delegates of Great Britain and France said they would not recognize Italy's annexation of Ethiopia, and along with Russia said there was nothing else to do but lift sanctions, smaller nations, particularly South Africa and the South Americans, made veiled hints of withdrawals from the league.

One by one the leading shareholders of the institution founded by Woodrow Wilson stood before the assembly and admitted that their failure to save Ethiopia from conquest by Italy means the league as a whole has not the resources to fulfill the obligation it has assumed.

Not Willing to Fight.

Their excuse was they had acted in good faith in what they thought was the best interests of the masses who had trusted them.

Each in one form or another pledged himself to work for a reorganized league which will at least pay the taxpayer something back on his dollar.

Underlying each speech was a clear realization that collective security, based on the league covenant with its sanctions, has broken down because the aggressors always are prepared to fight while the sanctionists are not.

Follow Own Interests.

Capt. Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary, expressed this idea in the following words:

"Was the failure due to the fact that there are certain risks which the nations are not prepared to run save where their own interests are more directly at stake than they were in this case?

"Clearly the ideal system of collective security is one in which all nations are prepared to go to all lengths—military lengths—to deal with any aggressor.

"If such an ideal cannot at the present be attained—and I agree with Premier Leon Blum of France that a heavily armed world greatly increases the difficulty of its attainment—it is surely our duty to amend not necessarily our rule of law but the methods by which it is to be enforced so these may correspond to the action which the nations are in fact willing and ready to take."

Eden called for the continuance of mutual assistance pacts in the Mediterranean. He suggested the question of league reform should be taken up at the September assembly.

States Idea of Reform.

Blum, making his maiden speech before the assembly, struck a note like Eden's when he said:

"International engagements are defied or prostrated when those who sign them are not prepared to go the limit. The risk of war must be accepted if peace is to be saved."

In the next sentence Blum pointed toward the kind of reorganized league most delegations here have in mind.

"The covenant imposes this dilemma [to be willing to risk war in order to maintain peace] on all powers without distinction. Our project for reform would limit it to powers which are the nearest geographically or politically to the power which is attacked, though more or less generally the risk remains."

Sanctions Unenforced.

Maxim Litvinov, Russian foreign commissar, urged reform of the league along the same general lines—military assistance to the attacked power to be obligatory only upon its allies in the framework of a regional pact with the coöperation of other countries limited to economic sanctions against an aggressor.

Litvinov, however, handicapped his colleagues in the league in their attempt to play the rôle of an insolvent but honest debtor by demonstrating that even economic sanctions had not been seriously applied against Italy by many nations which voted for them.

It was the South African, Charles Te Water, however, who really exposed the reformers.

"Can it be said, can it justly be claimed," he asked, "that the triumph

LABOR DEFIES STEEL PLANTS IN UNION DRIVE

A. F. of L. Divided Over Campaign.

The movement of John L. Lewis and other labor leaders to organize the 500,000 steel workers of the country into "one great" industrial union will continue, in spite of the vigorous opposition of the steel industry and in the face of threatened disciplinary action by the American Federation of Labor. This was the assertion yesterday of Van A. Bittner, labor organizer who has been put in charge of the campaign in the Chicago area.

VAN A. BITTNER. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Bittner said that the steel industry, through the American Iron and Steel institute, has "declared war on union labor" and that the group headed by Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, is ready to accept the challenge. But President Green of the A. F. of L. has threatened expulsion of Lewis and his backers from the big labor organization. So it becomes a three cornered fight.

Civil War in A. F. of L.

The drive by the Lewis group threatens to bring to a head the internal struggle in the ranks of the A. F. of L. The Lewis group is composed of unions that favor industrial organization as contrasted to the traditional federation policy of trade or craft unions. The unions backing the Lewis plan number about 1,000,000 workers and comprise about one-third the membership of the A. F. of L.

Under the industrial union plan all workers in a single industry belong to one large union, regardless of their occupations. Under the craft union idea the worker's occupation determines the kind of union he joins. In the craft system, for instance, electrical workers, whether they are employed in steel mills, auto plants or other industries, all are members of an electrical union.

See Big Controversy Ahead.

Yesterday's development bore out earlier indications that the industrial unionization campaign now opening promises to become one of the great labor controversies in recent years. The developments were:

1. The Iron and Steel institute issued a statement declaring that participation of workers in the steel companies' employé representation programs has increased steadily in the last two years. It announced that 92 per cent of the workers in the industry participated in the recent elections held under these programs in thirty leading mills. The institute previously has charged that the present unionization drive is designed to impose a "closed shop" on the industry and "that there are disturbing indications that the promoters of the campaign will employ coercion and intimidation of employés in the industry and foment strikes."

A. F. of L. Summons Leaders.

2. Leaders in the campaign to organize the steel workers in a single union have been summoned to appear before the executive committee of the A. F. of L. next Tuesday and answer an ultimatum to disband or face suspension from the federation. Lewis has called a meeting of his industrial union committee in Washington today to consider a course of action in connection with this summons.

3. The Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation, largest subsidiary of United States Steel corporation, warned workers against "outside unions" and declared it would maintain the open shop.

There appeared also a disposition to inject politics into the conflict. The employers see the Lewis movement encouraged, perhaps not openly, by the administration in Washington, including the department of labor; the other element charges that steel, coal, and automobile companies will welcome "a general strike" in order to turn "the great American middle class into a protest against class warfare."

The position of the Iron and Steel institute is that the industry's em-

ENTOMBED MINER'S SCREAMS FOR HELP SPUR RESCUE CREW

Shamokin, Pa., July 1.—(AP)—"Please hurry, I am being squeezed alive," an entombed miner screamed tonight as rescuers dug at a 40 foot wall of coal and rock.

Enoch Kulshinskie Jr., 35, lay pinned in a small room of a makeshift coal hole on North mountain, and his 60 year old father, rescued only a few hours earlier from a similar fate, worked with miners digging through the pile of heavy rock, coal, and timbers.

George Jones, superintendent of the Cameron colliery of the Stevens Coal company, near the Kulshinskie's independent working, estimated it would require hours of almost superhuman work to reach the trapped man. By that time, Jones said, Kulshinskie might die of suffocation. Rescue, if made, was not expected before daybreak.

PORTO RICAN GOES ON FOOD STRIKE; DISLIKES FOURTH

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, July 1.—(AP)—Dr. Clemente Pereda, former professor of the University of Porto Rico, protested today against celebration of the Fourth of July by sitting down in the center of the capital's main square and refusing to eat.

He contended there should be no observance here of the United States independence because Porto Rico should itself be independent.

Two years ago Dr. Pereda spent holy week in the plaza in a strike against the introduction into the Porto Rican legislature of a bill for the island's admission into the union as a state.

Planet Saturn Puts on Show for Scientists

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Lo, these are part of His ways: but how little a portion is heard of Him? but the thunder of His power who can understand?—Job xxvi., 14.

In the quiet of the early morning hours today and tomorrow, when humanity's uneasiness is hushed, when the earth is a dark place of rustling tree tops and dim waters, old Dearborn observatory on the Northwestern university campus in Evanston is a place to take a memorable journey to another world than ours.

It is a journey that would take 4,000 years on a railway train, but on the wings of thought and through the eye of the 18½ inch telescope set in position by Dr. Oliver Justin Lee, director of the observatory, we are instantly transported to the realm of the ring planet Saturn, son of sky and earth, the plane of whose rings is now directed toward the earth so that their edges for the first time in fifteen years may be measured by astronomers.

Like a Golden Lamp.

While astronomers all over the world are making their calculations and observations, trying to determine whether these rings are 10 miles or more in thickness, the ordinary observer may look upon the whole marvelous spectacle of the planet. It shines like a golden lamp in the southeast sky about 2 a. m., with at least 3 of its 10 moons visible, and its uncounted moonlets strung on a threadlike line which is reflected on the surface of the planet, extending in a circle like a hat brim.

Saturn makes one complete circuit around the sun every 30 years and twice during this period the rings are directly in line with the earth.

These three thin, flat, concentric rings are in the plane of the planet's equator.

Rotates in 10¼ Hours.

Dark belts mark the surface of Saturn and wisps of cloudy substance seem to be crossing it. The rotation period of the planet has been found to be 10 hours and 15 minutes. It has an atmosphere and a brilliant white spot was seen in its equatorial zone in 1933.

A year on Saturn is as long as thirty of our years. The planet is 734 times larger than the earth but its density is only about one-eighth that of the earth. Its diameter is 74,100 miles.

If one took a rocket journey to Saturn, Dr. Lee explains, it would be necessary to disembark and take a submarine when the planet is reached, for it is only two-thirds as dense as water. The boat would penetrate the planet and probably find a liquid interior.

Rings Discovered by Galileo.

It is the rings that make Saturn unique. They were first discovered in 1610 by Galileo, and now have been divided into three rings, the outer one 10,000 miles wide, with a division of 3,000 miles between that and the second brighter ring. There is another division of 1,000 miles and then the "crape" ring, which is semi-transparent, 11,500 miles wide.

It is now agreed that these rings are a swarm of separate particles, little moonlets, each pursuing its own independent orbit around the planet and forced by the law of gravitation to move in a flat plane.

In addition to the millions of moonlets Saturn has the ten moons, although the tenth, announced in 1905 by Pickering, is not held confirmed by all astronomers. The largest moon, Titan, has a diameter of 2,500 miles, while Phoebe, the smallest, has a diameter of about 150 miles.

FIRECRACKER TOSSED INTO LAP; GIRL, 6, IS CRITICALLY BURNED

Marie, the 6 year old daughter of Policeman James Dunn of the New City station, was gravely burned yesterday when her clothing was ignited by a firecracker thrown by a playmate near her home at 7915 South Aberdeen street yesterday. Her father and her grandmother, Mrs. Ella Kelly, were severely burned while ripping the burning clothing from the girl's body.

Playmates said that Marie was sitting in an areaway near her home when a boy threw the firecracker into her lap, then fled. The girl ran screaming into the house, where her father, off duty, was asleep.

At St. Bernard's hospital it was found that the girl had been burned about the face, chest and arms, and her father about the arms and feet. Mrs. Kelly was given first aid at home. Police of the Gresham station began a search for the boy who threw the fireworks.

Father to Test Boy's Story of Hotel Murder

BY KAY HALL.

Police hope of solving the mysterious murder of Mrs. Florence Thompson Bolin Castle, young night club hostess, rested last night in the amount of confidence that a 7 year old boy has in his father and in the father's ability to get the truth from his son.

The father is James V. Thompson, the first of Mrs. Castle's three husbands. He arrived by airplane last evening from Boston to assist in the murder investigation.

The boy is James V. Thompson Jr., son of Thompson's marriage to Mrs. Castle. Young Jimmie has told the investigators that he lay beside his mother in bed early last Monday morning when she was beaten to death with a brick in her room at the Devonshire hotel, 19 East Ohio street—that he saw and conversed with the slayer, whom he described as "a black man."

Father to Question Son.

The police believe, however, that at least part of his story is mere childish fancy. For that reason they turned him over last night to his father, who they hoped could separate fact from fiction and get an accurate account of the murder, if indeed the boy saw the crime.

Thompson, now an electrician of Revere, Mass., who divorced Mrs. Castle in 1931 and remarried, told Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan on his arrival here that he had hurried to Chicago as soon as he read in a Boston newspaper that the police "were beginning to suspect the boy himself."

Well dressed and quiet spoken, Thompson suggested immediately that he be allowed to have Jimmie to himself for forty-eight hours.

Theory of the Father.

"I believe that he has made some childlike elaborations and used his imagination a little," the father said.

"And I share in that belief," said Chief Sullivan.

The chief pointed out that, although the murder of Mrs. Castle occurred about 1 o'clock in the morning, Jimmie waited until daylight before notifying the hotel clerk that his mother was dead. It is this delay and the fact that the boy gave no alarm while the crime was being committed which have caused the police to believe that, while he may have been partly awake and have seen some of the things he described, he did not realize fully what was going on.

"Alone with his father Jimmie may be able to straighten the events out as they happened," Chief Sullivan said. "As for any thought that the child may have been involved, why he couldn't have lifted even half a brick." [The brick used in the killing was found split in half beside the slain woman's head.]

Meet in Chief's Office.

The meeting between father and son took place in Chief Sullivan's office at the detective bureau. Afterward Thompson and Jimmie went to Thompson's room in the Stevens hotel, where they will be together until tomorrow. If by then the boy has not been able to straighten out his story to his father's satisfaction

ACTRESS TAKES STAND TO FIGHT $100,000 SUIT

Describes Meeting with MacArthur.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Helen Hayes, one of the recognized great actresses of the legitimate stage and recently triumphant in the play "Victoria Regina," yesterday interested a crowded courtroom for 45 minutes while she testified in a low, clear voice, with swiftly changing facial expression, in the Circuit court before Judge Walter J. LaBuy.

Miss Hayes was the first witness in the $100,000 suit filed over 4 years ago by Carol Frink, Chicago newspaper woman and motion picture critic, charging her with "maliciously and wilfully" stealing the love of Charles G. MacArthur, well known playwright, and breaking up their home.

Miss Frink and MacArthur, former Chicago newspaper man, were married Aug. 29, 1920, and were divorced in 1926. Miss Frink failed in her efforts to have that divorce set aside on the grounds that she had tried to have her suit dismissed. Then MacArthur and Miss Hayes were married on Aug. 17, 1928.

Tries to Delay Hearing.

When the case was called yesterday morning Attorney Samuel Golan, saying he had decided to enter the case as Miss Frink's attorney only the previous day, asked for a continuance. His client was ill in a hospital, he said. Attorney Jay Frederick Reeve, who with Attorneys Howard Ellis and John B. Martineau represented Miss Hayes, opposed a continuance.

"The defendant is here in court," Mr. Reeve said, pointing to the wide eyed, demurely smiling Miss Hayes, seated at counsel table, "and wants this disposed of now. So seriously has she taken this charge that she closed the Broadway play, 'Victoria Regina'—is that it?" he asked, turning to her, and at her nod, continued, "and came here to dispose of this before reopening there."

Has a 5 Year Old Daughter.

Miss Hayes smiled more broadly when she heard him, continuing, say, "In addition to being the idol of millions of persons, she is the mother of a 5 year old girl, and she would like to have this serious charge disposed of."

Attorney Golan pleaded that of the 12 or 13 times the case has been continued, eight or nine continuances were at Miss Hayes' request. Judge LaBuy ruled that Golan should call his client's physician and see if she were able to come to court. If she were not the court would appoint a physician to examine her, he said.

Attorney Golan, talking in chambers on the telephone, said: "Oh, yes, doctor. Then she's suffering from a nervous manifestation? But you think she'll be able to be in court today?" He then reported that he could go ahead with the trial at 2 o'clock.

Miss Hayes First Witness.

At that hour Miss Hayes herself was called as first witness for Miss Frink, under the new practice act which permits the plaintif in a damage suit to make the defendant his or her witness while not being bound by that testimony.

Small and upright, wearing a blue and yellow print dress with a high neckline and matching jacket of puffed elbow-length sleeves, a small off the face blue hat with a veil she had pushed back and kid gloves of blue, she walked quickly to the witness stand.

Crowd Notes Expression.

Her face was tranquil, though flushed beneath her sun tan, and her short nose was slightly shiny, as she turned her steady gaze toward Attorney Golan, her questioner. During his examination of the actress the crowd closely watched the play of expression on her face. At one minute her wide, mobile mouth smiled, and the courtroom rippled with laughter.

At another, her far apart brown eyes would become pensive, and the lines around her mouth reflect sadness, as in her tone of voice alone she gently reproached her inquisitor. This occurred when, asked if she had said that MacArthur had been "fired off every Chicago newspaper," she replied softly: "I didn't know that he had been."

Most of the questioning revolved around an interview Miss Hayes had had with Dena Reed, which appeared in a Hollywood motion picture magazine in 1932. A few questions concerned an interview with Adele Whitely Ormiston Fletcher, published in another magazine the same year.

[It was in 1932 that Miss Hayes, who for a time played in motion pictures before her return to the stage in "Mary of Scotland," won the award of the Motion Picture Academy of Arts and Science as the outstanding motion picture actress of the year. The picture which won for her that acclaim was "Arrowsmith." Other motion pictures she starred in were "The Sin of Madelon Claudet," "A Farewell to Arms," and "White Sister."]

Conflict of Dates Arises.

In Attorney Golan's opening statement, he had declared Miss Reed would be a witness. The magazine articles were the only anticipated evidence he outlined other than relating to the MacArthur-Frink romance and marriage. By the articles only, apparently, he expects to substantiate Miss Frink's claim that Miss Hayes alienated Mr. MacArthur's affections. Attorney Reeve for Miss Hayes claims that she did not meet him until December, 1924. In her declaration Miss Frink claims the alienation began in June, 1922.

While Miss Hayes was on the stand, Miss Frink watched her from her seat at the counsel table. Miss Frink's attorney had pointed out during his opening statement that on one Christmas during the Frink-MacArthur marriage he had given her a child's sled, "because she was a tiny little thing when he married her."

Now plump, Miss Frink wore a black coat trimmed in broadtail, a dress with a black organdie jabot at the throat, trimmed with white ric-rac braid, and a pert black hat with a crisp white grosgrain ribbon around it, under which her straw colored hair showed. Her clear, fresh skin colored frequently during the proceedings as she coolly examined Miss Hayes on the stand.

MacArthur on Stand Today.

MacArthur was not in court because he was nursing a bruised arm, injured in a recent automobile accident, in the Ambassador East hotel, it was reported. Attorney Golan said he expected to place him on the stand today to identify letters he had written his former wife.

One of the questions asked Miss Hayes by Attorney Golan, and her reply, was:

Q.—Do you know Miss Dena Reed? A.—Only through her interview with me and a visit she made to my dressing room. [This, according to her attorney, had been "to apologize to Miss Hayes for the interview, after Miss Reed saw the trouble it had caused."]

Tells of Leasing House.

Attorney Golan then asked Miss Hayes if she had ever leased an old farmhouse at Siosset, L. I. She replied that she had, in the early spring of 1925, from Paul Hammond, who still lives there, to the best of her knowledge.

Q.—And did Charlie MacArthur ever visit there? A.—Yes.

Q.—When did he start coming there? A.—In May, 1925, six weeks after I leased it.

Q.—How many times was he there? A.—Four or five times.

Q.—When did you give the interview with Dena Reed? A.—I don't remember. I must have given 200 such interviews. I didn't read it until after this case came up.

Q. [In amazement]—You didn't? A.—No, I never did read any of them—for my peace of mind.

Q.—When did you marry Charles MacArthur? A.—Aug. 17, 1928.

Q.—And when did you become engaged to him? A.—In November, 1927.

Engagement Is Informal.

Q.—Did you announce your engagement at that time. A.—[Huskily, with a tremor in her low voice] We didn't announce it. He just brought out an engagement ring and asked if I'd be engaged to him, and that was all that was done about it.

Q.—Did you tell Miss Reed in the interview that he was the son of a Baptist minister? A.—[With a swift smile] I doubt it, because he's the son of a Presbyterian minister. She must have been inaccurate about that, too.

Then followed a series of questions relating to the interview, which Attorney Golan said he would show were relevant to the issues later.

Q.—Did you tell her he was married when you met him and hadn't bothered to get a divorce? A.—They gave out so much publicity from the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer publicity bureau——

ATTORNEY GOLAN—Answer 'yes' or 'no.'

MISS HAYES [with a dazzling smile]—I'm sorry, I don't remember.

Q.—Did you tell her you had to wait three long years for Charlie to get his freedom? A.—Possibly, I don't know.

Q.—Did you tell her you first met him at Neysa McMein's studio party? [This was in December, 1924, according to Attorney Reeve's opening statement.] A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you tell her that George Gershwin and Irving Berlin were there and played the piano, and that there was some brilliant conversation? A.—Yes.

Smiles at Memory.

Q.—And did you say you were petrified in a corner when Charlie came over to you?

To this Miss Hayes, smiling happily, apparently enjoying the memory, nodded. She was asked to answer aloud, and, laughing at herself, said "Yes."

Q.—And did you tell Miss Reed that Charlie was eating peanuts when he came over? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you say that you said to him, in a rather silly way, "Are those peanuts?" And that he gave you some, and said, "I wish they were emeralds?" A.—[Her dark brown eyes shining.] Yes.

Q.—Did you say to him that you liked the romance of that? A.—[frowning, then laughing, as the court crowd did likewise.] I'd rather say I didn't say it.

Q.—Then did you say that at any rate he drove you home that night? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you say it was a case of love at first sight? A. [With a flash of imperiousness suggesting her regal rôles]—I don't think I could have said such a thing. It isn't the sort of thing I would say. I wouldn't know what his state of mind was.

Q.—Did you tell Miss Reed that you found it hard waiting three years? A.—No, she said that to me. She asked me if it wasn't rather dreadful waiting, and I said yes.

Q.—Did you say that you 'can stand anything for love?' A.—No, she said that.

Q.—Did you say, 'Simple as it all sounds, it was the one great romance of my life?'

Here Miss Hayes made a face indicating her repugnance for expressing such sentiments, and said loudly and firmly, "No!"

She admitted telling her interviewer that she had no honeymoon, returning the night of her marriage to her rôle in the stage play, "Coquette."

It was during this play, which ran for two years, that Jed Harris, producer, announced he had been forced to close the play in July, 1929, because of Miss Hayes' condition, which he termed an "act of God" when members of the cast sued him for two weeks' salary. He lost. Mary, the MacArthurs' daughter, was born in February, 1930.

Poise Shaken Once

Only once did Miss Hayes' poise apparently forsake her. Attorney Golan asked:

"And did you tell her [Miss Reed] that you were frightfully shy as a child and had never really gotten over it?"

Miss Hayes colored visibly, started out, "Perhaps——" and covered her face with one gloved hand.

Arising, Attorney Reeve said soothingly: "Just answer the question."

She recovered herself, and said: "I don't remember telling her that."

Asked about the purported interview with her by Mrs. Fletcher entitled "You Can Have Anything You Want," she denied that she had said she leased the farmhouse "because it was the sort of place Charles loved" and denied that she said she "could just see him poking around in the cupboard and lounging on the sofas" in the farmhouse.

The final question put to Miss Hayes she disposed of neatly with a smile. Asked how long she knew MacArthur before she knew he had a wife and was undivorced, she said: "The first time I met him."

Attorneys' Versions Differ.

Earlier in the afternoon Attorney Golan and Attorney Reeve presented clashing versions of the MacArthur-Frink romance and marriage in their opening statements. Golan's account was filled with sordid and dreary happenings, including a statement that MacArthur pawned the wedding ring he gave his wife, Carol, for $6, none of which she got, and that, since he had never given her an engagement ring, he offered, in 1926, to buy her a handsome diamond bracelet as a "divorce gift."

Attorney Reeve dismissed the "apparently bitter strife" between MacArthur and Miss Frink more briefly, declaring he found nothing in Attorney Golan's statement to indicate Miss Hayes had any part in it.

Cites Divorce Bill.

He had not recited one action which indicated any alienating of MacArthur's affections, Attorney Reeve argued. No affection existed for his wife on MacArthur's part, he said, and pointed out that in Miss Frink's original divorce bill, filed in September, 1923, she accused him of repeatedly using obscene epithets, of threatening her with violence, and at their second wedding anniversary reunion in Hartford, of striking her and pushing her between two beds because he did not like her apparel.

Attorney Golan, in beginning his opening statement, said that he would present evidence to show that Miss Frink was born in Chicago and that one of her ancestors was Frink of Frink & Walton, who operated a stagecoach out of Chicago.

"After receiving a liberal arts education at the University of Michigan," he said, "she became a reporter for the Herald and Examiner in 1918. She did pretty well, and in 1919 or 1920, when she met Charles MacArthur, she was earning $75 a week. He had come to the Examiner as a rewrite man from THE TRIBUNE and was only getting $70 a week.

"She saw him around the office, but for a time she did not know he was particularly interested in her," he went on. "Later MacArthur would follow her, by taxi, on foot, and even on street cars. Once she was taking a street car on an assignment, and when she got off she found Charlie there in a cab. He invited her in, and after that they continued to see each other often, at least in the office.

Gets a $500 Bonus.

"She got a $500 bonus from Walter Howey, her superior, for her good work. When Charlie MacArthur first came to her home Miss Frink was counting that money. She said she intended to go to New York on a vacation, and he asked her not to go. She did go, however.

"They were married Aug. 28, 1920, in New York, by his father, the Rev. William T. MacArthur. As he put it, they'd save $2 by having his father do it."

Go to California in 1921.

In the spring of 1921, after applying her pay check as well as his to his debts weekly, he said, the couple went to California "because he was threatened with tuberculosis." Here "Charlie lolled on the beach, while she worked doing interviews with movie stars," he said. He conceded that MacArthur eventually obtained a job on the Los Angeles Examiner, and that when they returned to Chicago later they lived at the Hotel Ambassador.

Charlie then went to New York and worked for $100 a week on the New York American, while Miss Frink "stayed here to pay his debts out of her salary," joining him in November, 1921. Reproaching him for having run up a bill there at the Commodore hotel, he said to her, according to the lawyer's statement, that "he had to pay his share of parties given by Jimmy Whittaker and his wife, Ina Claire [the actress, since divorced] and their swell friends."

Charlie Tries Writing Plays.

"Carol Frink had written a number of one act plays," he said, while Miss Hayes twisted her mouth in a scarcely repressed smile, "and Charlie never had at that time. She collaborated with Ned Sheldon [a producer] and one day Ned said to Charlie, 'Why don't you try it?' So he started a play, 'Iva.' It was never produced.

Meanwhile he had started his second play, "Lulu Belle," which subsequently was produced in 1926, being highly successful. It is for his work in collaborating with Ben Hecht on "The Front Page," however, that MacArthur is best known.

THE DEFENSE STATEMENT

Attorney Reeve in his opening statement presented an entirely different picture. MacArthur, now 40 years old, entered newspaper work when 17 years old, and interrupted his career twice to enter the military service, he said. He served at the border and with the 149th field artillery in France as a private for two years. While in France he saw a letter "To a Doughboy" drop to the ground and, picking it up, was struck with its beauty and replied to the writer, a girl in Boston, he said.

"Charlie was on his way to Boston to meet this girl, it happened, when Carol asked him to stop by and see her in New York," said Attorney Reeve. "He did, and while in New York he told Carol he had a feeling he'd get married in Boston.

"He told her he was a genius and needed a particular type of wife. Then, I don't know whether he or she suggested it, but they got a license. Then they went to his father, who married them."

"It was an unhappy marriage from the beginning, according to her divorce bill," he said. [Miss Frink has refused to accept $4,000 as a property settlement in her divorce action, which sum her former husband left with his attorneys as a partial settlement in lieu of alimony.]

Sketches Miss Hayes' Career.

Helen Hayes he described as "an extremely hard working girl with no frivolity about her." Her first stage appearance was at the age of 6 years in Washington, where she was born, and later she played the part of Pollyanna in "Pollyanna," and that of Penrod in "Dear Brutus." In 1922 she was playing "To the Ladies," and became interested in Kenneth McKenna, an actor in the play, to whom she became engaged in 1926 after he was her leading man in "What Every Woman Knows."

During all the years after 1922, when the purported alienation began, until her marriage, she had many beaux, he said, including Fred Keating, Alexander Clark, Edgar Scott, and David Wallace, but "shied away from matrimony" because her mother had taught her it would ruin her career.

THREE DETAIL HOTEL SCENES IN SUIT BY JOHN EDGAR, DETROIT

Miami, Fla., July 1.—(AP)—Three employés of the fashionable Deauville hotel testified today they and others of the staf often witnessed illicit relations between petite Kathryn Crawford Edgar of New York and Lewis E. Mallory III., wealthy young Bradford, Pa., oil man.

John Edgar Jr. of Detroit, former husband of the one-time film actress, is suing Mallory for $300,000, charging seduction and alienation of her affections.

A bell captain, a steward, and a watchman testified they watched Mrs. Edgar and Mallory in the latter's ground floor room, with the shades of six windows up and the lights on, several times last March.

The Edgars were divorced in Detroit last Friday and she resumed her maiden name of Crawford.

ALEX BERKMAN, ANARCHIST, KILLS SELF IN FRANCE

Deported to Russia with Emma Goldman.

NICE, France, July 1.—(AP)—Rejected by both old and new orders of radicals, Alexander Berkman, the anarchist who spent 14 years in prison for a murderous attack in 1892 on Henry Clay Frick, Pittsburgh steel magnate, died from a self-inflicted bullet wound and was buried yesterday—information which police did not disclose until today.

Emma Goldman, his free love mate, co-worker in anarchism and with whom he was deported from the United States in 1920, arranged a simple funeral at a small cemetery on the outskirts of Nice. There were no religious ceremonies.

Berkman, who was 65 years old, was suffering from uremia and underwent an operation four months ago. On Saturday, the 67th birthday of Miss Goldman, Berkman's housekeeper left his poorly furnished fifth floor apartment on an errand. When she returned she found him with a bullet wound in his stomach. The police secretly removed Berkman to a Nice hospital where he died Sunday.

Miss Goldman has been living at nearby Saint Tropez. She was occasionally visited by Berkman and paid him visits here.

FIRED BY HAYMARKET RIOT.

Berkman and Miss Goldman were leaders of groups of anarchists which sprang up after the 1886 Haymarket riots in Chicago. They preached their doctrins throughout the country until they were deported, with 247 Reds, to Russia, Dec. 21, 1920.

Berkman was born Nov. 21, 1870, in Vilna, now a part of Poland. He later moved to Kovno, Lithuania, where he met Miss Goldman.

Berkman came to the United States in 1887 and became a job printer, working in a number of cities. The Haymarket bombing and subsequent executions of the perpetrators "made me think and brood," Berkman once said.

During the Homestead, Pa., steel strike, on July 22, 1892, Berkman got into the office of the late Henry C. Frick, shot him twice in the neck and stabbed him twice with a dirk.

After Frick recovered, Berkman was imprisoned until the spring of 1906. He came to Chicago and rejoined Miss Goldman, who had been working under an assumed name as a nurse.

Wanderer Since 1922.

The two were held to be directly or indirectly responsible for a series of anarchistic outrages which included the attempt to kill Russell Sage, New York financier, with a bomb in 1891; the assassination of President McKinley in 1901; the dynamiting of the Los Angeles Times building in 1909, and the bombing of the San Francisco preparedness parade in 1916.

Berkman admitted that an explosion in July, 1914, at 133d street and Lexington avenue in New York, in which three men were killed, resulted from efforts to manufacture a bomb that was to have been used against John D. Rockefeller and his son.

Berkman was arrested in 1917 for plotting to obstruct the military draft and was released only to be deported. After a year the communists expelled him and Miss Goldman from Russia. Since 1922 both have been wanderers, unwelcome everywhere. France deported Berkman twice before letting him return to a secluded life at Nice.

SON OF SLAIN HOSTESS GREETS HIS FATHER

Jimmie Thompson's father, James Sr., arrived here from Boston by plane yesterday to aid police in unravelling the mystery of the brutal slaying of the boy's mother, Mrs. Florence Thompson Castle, who was beaten to death in her hotel room as her son lay beside her. The father will seek to straighten out Jimmie's story of the killing.

he will be returned to the police for more questioning.

Jimmie was taken to the detective bureau early in the evening by Policewomen Mary Riley and Therese Thompson, who have had him in charge at 4114 Sheridan road since Monday evening.

The boy, clad in a white one piece suit with red sailor collar and white and red socks to match, took a few running steps toward his father when they met, but neither showed any emotion. They had not seen each other since March. Jimmie had been with Thompson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Thompson, in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., until he arrived in Chicago last Sunday morning for a two month stay with his mother.

Thompson said he was unable to understand how the boy could have shown so little shock if he had in fact witnessed the death of his mother. He added that he thought excitement had inflamed the boy's imagination.

"He's 'up' now and he thinks it's swell," Thompson said, with his arm about Jimmie. "Do you like to make up stories, Jimmie?"

"No," said the child with a sweet smile for his father.

Cool to Convict Clew.

Earlier in the day Chief Sullivan disavowed any keen interest in the search for an ex-convict, Edward Lynch, alias Ernest La Vergne, who served time in the Colorado state penitentiary at Canon City where Mrs. Castle's second husband, J. W. Bolin, is still a prisoner under a robbery conviction.

Suspicion turned to Lynch after it was learned that Mrs. Castle had asked whether the federal government was offering a reward for his apprehension. She was told that the government, while seeking Lynch as an interstate fugitive on a robbery charge, would pay no money for his arrest.

Whether Lynch learned that Mrs. Castle had it in mind to perform a betrayal of him in the manner of Mrs. Anna Sage, the nemesis of John Dillinger, could not be determined, but it was considered certain that if he did he would have entertained no kindly feelings for her.

Edward Mack, 27 years old, and his wife, Helen, 24 years old, were being questioned at the East Chicago avenue police station last night. They are residents of the Devonshire. Mack was questioned on information that he had quarreled with his wife when she found a woman named "Micky"—Mrs. Castle's nickname—in his room. Mack declared that the "Micky" he knew is a blonde. Mrs. Castle was a brunette.

HENRY LYTTON, NEAR 90, GOES ON VACATION TODAY

Henry C. Lytton, State street merchant for forty-nine years, will leave today for a vacation at his summer home on Long Island, N. Y. There on July 13 he plans to observe his ninetieth birthday anniversary with his family. He is president of Henry C. Lytton & Sons, operators of The Hub. Mr. Lytton was born in New York in 1846. His first job was that of an errand boy when he was 15 years old. At 21 he entered the clothing business in Ionia, Mich., and forty-nine years ago he came to Chicago and founded The Hub. On his seventieth birthday anniversary he retired, but resumed leadership in 1933 after the death of his son, George Lytton, for eighteen years president of the concern.

EIGHT INJURED AS CABLE SNAPS IN PARK DEVICE

Eight persons were injured, two seriously, last night when a cable snapped on the Aerostat, a flying ride at Riverview park, and the occupants of a car were flung against the side of the car. Miss Cecilia Styburski, 16 years old, 2251 Cortez street, and her cousin, Dorothy Styburski, 15 years old, 910 North Central avenue, were taken to St. Mary's hospital, suffering from internal injuries. The other injured persons were treated at the office of Dr. M. M. Taylor, 1949 Fullerton avenue. Two policemen were sent to the park when the mishap was reported to the North Damen avenue station, but they found the park closed and no accident report was made at the station.

SUPREME COURT RULES OUT A FEW SONSTEBY RULES

Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby's much publicized 435 rules governing Municipal court practice have been curtailed in effect, it became known yesterday, by an opinion handed down by the Illinois Supreme court on June 17.

The rules, written by Judge Sonsteby to replace the 37 that formerly were used in the City court, were adopted by a majority of the judges over the objections of Judge Edward B. Casey who, as Republican nominee for chief justice, will be Sonsteby's opponent in the November election, and of Judge Edgar A. Jonas.

"It has been repeatedly urged upon this court," wrote Justice Elwyn R. Shaw in the Supreme court opinion, "that the Municipal court is an entirely independent and self-governing island in our judicial system. "There is nothing, however, that can be construed as a grant of power to the judges of the Municipal court to pass rules of practice in conflict with the general legislative provisions applicable to the whole state.

"We are of the opinion that the judges of that court are without power to establish a rule of practice contrary to or inconsistent with the provisions of the civil practice act."

LUCKY IN GAMES, UNLUCKY IN LOVE; DIVORCE GRANTED

Mrs. Mary Jane Straus Gross, 21 years old, 180 Euclid avenue, Glencoe, who testified that she was lucky at gambling but unlucky at love, was granted a divorce by Judge Joseph Sabath in Superior court yesterday from Millard B. Gross, 32 years old, 6737 Oglesby avenue, an insurance broker. Mrs. Gross is the daughter of Harry C. Straus, stock broker.

Questioned by her attorney, Harry X. Cole, Mrs. Gross said she and Gross eloped to Waukegan on April 10, 1935, and that his cruelty forced her to leave him last May 24.

"Last July 4," she said, "I won heavily at roulette, and my husband struck me because I wouldn't split my winnings with him. That was repeated on Aug. 1. On May 12 I won the jackpot in a quarter slot machine and my husband mussed me up by diving for the money."

All the gambling was done in Cook county, Mrs. Gross admitted.

HELD IN KNIFE SLAYING.

William Smith, colored, 25 years old, whose address is not known, was fatally stabbed at 3101 South State street yesterday by William Thomas, colored, 59 years old, 3010 South Dearborn street, who was held by the Stanton avenue police.

DOWER WAIVER A 'TRICK,' SAYS ROGERS' WIDOW

Tells of Expressing View of Mate's Incompetence.

MRS. PAULINE V. ROGERS.

Under cross-examination Mrs. Rogers testified that she had expressed an opinion that her husband was incompetent when he signed his last will Jan. 24, 1934, the day on which she executed a document purporting to waive her dower rights.

This opinion was expressed in August, 1935, about a month after Col. Rogers' death, Mrs. Rogers related, at a time when she, her stepdaughter, Mrs. Millicent Rogers Balcom, and Mrs. Balcom's former husband, Arturo Ramos, were at Southampton.

Discuss Threat to Break Will.

"Did you discuss with Millicent a threat by her brother, Henry, to break the will?" inquired Thomas D. Thacher, attorney for Mrs. Balcom.

"Naturally," Mrs. Rogers replied.

"You two ladies were very much concerned, were you not?"

"I wouldn't say that I was exactly concerned."

"Did you say, 'Millicent, this is your father's will and we must stand together and uphold his wishes'?" the lawyer asked.

"I don't remember saying that, because I never felt it really was my husband's will," said Mrs. Rogers. "I told Millicent that I wouldn't like to have a contest of the will because I would then have to testify that my husband was incompetent, and I was in love with my husband and I wouldn't want to have to say that."

Tricked on Waiver, She Says.

Earlier Mrs. Rogers had testified that she was tricked into signing the disputed waiver by Adrian M. Larkin, her husband's personal attorney, who, she declared, persuaded her to sign without reading the document.

Mrs. Rogers, whose income is estimated at $125,000 a year under the terms of Col. Rogers' will, testified that she married the financier on Aug. 28, 1933, and that she was 46.

The disputed will provided that Mrs. Rogers should have the exclusive use for life of the Rogers estate, "Port of Missing Men," at Southampton, on condition that she notify the executors of the estate within six months of her intent to occupy the estate. Otherwise "the port" was to become the property of Peter Salm, the 12 year old son of Mrs. Balcom.

A. CONAN DOYLE ENGAGED TO WED LONDON ACTRESS

LONDON, July 1—[Havas.]—A. Conan Doyle, son of the late Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, creator of Sherlock Holmes, is engaged to marry Miss Rita Cooper, young West End musical comedy actress, it was learned today.

Miss Cooper, who is 24, stepped out of the chorus four years ago to substitute for Miss Harriet Bennett in the leading rôle of "Wild Violets" at the Drury Lane theater for her first principal part.

Arrested for Offenses Against Two Little Girls

Abraham Rosen, 40 years old, 6146 University avenue, a newspaper vendor, was arrested in his room last night by the Woodlawn police after the father and uncle of two 9 year old girls had complained that Rosen lured the children to his room and mistreated them. Police said the prisoner admitted the charge.

MORGAN CARRIED HOME; UNABLE TO MOVE HIS LEGS

"Neuritis," Say Sons of Noted Financier.

New York, July 1.—[Special.]—Pale and weak, and unable to move his legs, J. P. Morgan was carried to his estate at Glen Cove, N. Y., today.

He was taken there in a private ambulance which waited for his specially chartered train at the Mill Neck, N. Y., station.

The 68 year old financier, who was stricken with what was described by a son as neuritis while visiting his sister, Mrs. Stephen Van R. Crosby, at Manchester, Mass., arrived at Mill Neck at 7:55 a. m., after a record-breaking run from Pennsylvania station, New York. The banker's two sons, Junius and Henry, met him.

Deny Father Is Paralyzed.

"Reports that my father is paralyzed are totally erroneous," said one of the sons. "He had a slight upset and doctors ordered a rest two weeks ago. He is rapidly getting better. I don't know what his plans are for the future, but I think he is going to Scotland as usual this summer."

Despite the son's assertion that Mr. Morgan was suffering from neuritis, a member of the North Country Community hospital staf was quoted here tonight as saying that the banker had an attack of coronary thrombosis two weeks ago.

The physician is quoted as saying that the dangerous stage of the ailment, which comes from the formation of a clot in one of the arteries leading from the heart, had passed. Dr. Everett C. Jessup of Roslyn, Long Island, Morgan's local physician, also a member of the North Country hospital staf, declined to be quoted.

Reported Resting Comfortably.

Tonight the financier was reported as resting comfortably.

After Morgan's arrival home Junius Morgan issued a statement denying the banker was seriously ill, but admitting he had suffered a heart attack two weeks ago while in Massachusetts.

At the Morgan office at 23 Wall street a secretary said the banker is "perfectly all right now."

Mr. Morgan's condition at the time of the train's arrival was such that his special guards became enraged when news photographers snapped pictures, and one of the guards slugged a photographer when the latter ventured near the ambulance to obtain a photograph.

The ambulance, which had been hidden in a clump of woods until the train arrived, drew up to the platform. Mr. Morgan leaned against a window and waved weakly to some friends.

The financier was carried from the train in a wheel chair, his legs dangling limply.

Clad in Blue Pajamas.

He was set on the railroad station platform and then placed in a cot on wheels. Although he adjusted the upper part of his body himself, aids had to lift his legs to the cot.

He was dressed in blue pajamas and a blue dressing gown.

While the guards were lifting the cot into the ambulance one of the men slipped and Mr. Morgan was bounced against the ambulance ceiling. He was unhurt, however.

At that point a photographer placed his camera against the glass of the ambulance and snapped a picture. A guard punched him on the jaw, knocking the photographer's glasses off.

At Sister's Estate Since June 11.

Holding his camera with his left hand, the photographer fought back with his right. The fight lasted a few moments, and then the photographer called on a policeman to arrest his assailant. The guard, however, sped away with the Morgan chauffeur, ignoring the policeman's order to halt.

Mr. Morgan was carried on a stretcher to a special train in Manchester last night. It was explained that the stretcher was used "to spare him the pain of walking."

The banker had been at his sister's estate since June 11. On June 12 he had attended the commencement of the Groton school at Groton, Mass., from which his grandson, John Pierpont Morgan III., 16, graduated.

'Chief' Is Freed

Robert Redwing, 37 years old, 3021 North Ashland avenue, who claims to be a Cherokee Indian chief, was acquitted of disorderly conduct yesterday by a jury in Municipal Judge Charles S. Dougherty's court. He was accused of causing a disturbance June 16 in the lobby of a loop hotel. Redwing, through his attorney, Samuel A. Hoffman, denied the charge and said that at the time he was talking with Miss Madelon Meioma, 1032 North Dearborn street. His testimony was corroborated by Miss Meioma, University of Chicago music student, who said she was an Indian princess.

JUDGE QUIZZED ON GIVING CONVICT SLAYER FREEDOM

Six members of the Chicago Bar association's committee on criminal justice called upon Judge Charles A. Williams of the Superior court yesterday to make inquiries concerning the release of Vincenzo Ciollaro from the Stateville penitentiary on Jan. 6, 1927. They will report their findings to the full committee of 17 members.

Ciollaro was serving a life sentence for murder when he was released by Judge Williams on a writ of habeas corpus obtained by his colored attorney, William G. Anderson. The release was not generally known until recently when Ciollaro applied for citizenship papers. Judge Williams expunged the release order when it was shown that the writ was not based on valid grounds and Ciollaro is now being sought.

Judge Williams told Attorney Grenville Beardsley, representing the committee, that, to the best of his recollection, both the attorney general and the state's attorney were represented at the habeas corpus hearing. He said that no record of the hearing was kept, and expressed his opinion that his court was not imposed on.

AVIATOR LANDS IN FARM FIELD; CUTS LIGHT LINE

An aviator and his woman companion caused a flurry of excitement in Palatine township in the northwest end of the county last evening when he landed his plane in a hayfield of Henry L. Moehling near Dundee road.

In making a landing one wing of the plane severed a 2,300 volt feed wire of the Public Service company of Northern Illinois, cutting off all electric lights for the farm community.

Moehling made the aviator pay for damage to the field. Then the sky rider and companion waved goodbye and took off. Highway police later said they learned that the couple were Mr. and Mrs. Al Gemende, 1219 Fletcher street. The plane's number was NC 922E.

U. S. MOUNTAINEERS WILL TRY TO CLIMB AN UNSCALED PEAK

VANCOUVER, B. C., July 1.—(AP)—Two parties of mountaineers, one listing a woman as a member, packed equipment today for separate attempts to climb Mount Waddington, 13,260 feet high. The peak has never been reached.

One was an American party, composed of Miss Elizabeth D. Woolsey, New Haven, Conn.; Fritz H. Weissner, New York City; William P. House, Pittsburgh, and Allan Wilcox, New Haven. The other party was composed of British Columbia climbers.

Both were to leave later today by boat, the Americans going to Knight inlet. Weissner said the American group probably would establish a base camp on a nearby glacier.

PAN-AMERICAN HIGHWAY THROWN OPEN TO TRAFIC

Laredo, Tex., July 1.—(AP)—The nine year old dream of Mexican officials—the Pan-American highway—came true today as the 17 million dollar thoroughfare was opened to trafic with Vice President Garner and Mexican dignitaries joining hands in an international expression of friendship. The highway links the Texas border with Mexico's scenic interior.

In Washington President Roosevelt congratulated the Mexican people "on the auspicious occasion of the opening of the Mexico City-Nuevo Laredo highway."

Other American officials present included Ambassador Josephus Daniels and Senators Tom Connally of Texas and William McAdoo of California.

The Pan-American highway extends from Canada to the Mexican capital, Mexico City, but in time will be built through Central and South America.

While the highway officially is open Chicagoans who have made the trip report several sections only partially finished. These parts of the trip make for hazardous driving, it is said.

HERE'S HOW
1. Make coffee extra strong to allow for ice dilution. To make 9 large glasses of iced coffee, use 6 cups of boiling water with 9 measures of Royal Jewel.
2. Pour hot coffee over ice cubes in glass. Serve with or without cream and sugar.
ICED OR HOT, Royal Jewel Coffee today has the same delicious coffee flavor that made it Chicago's preference . . . in the Jewel taste-test by 4648 Chicago families. MOVE FOR SAFE FOURTH IN CITY GAINS SUPPORT Legion Plans Program at Soldiers' Field.

Detailed plans were announced by the American Legion yesterday for a "safe and sane" Fourth of July for the Chicago area at Soldiers' field as bans on fireworks were encouraged by public spirited groups.

A firecrackers ban was voted by some 450 young Chicagoans, members of the Chicago Boys' club, who will spend the July 4 week-end at Winona lake, Ind., without a single "bang."

Brookfield to Be Quiet.

Another zone of quiet, but within street car distance of the loop, will be the 133 acres making up the Chicago Zoölogical park at Brookfield, where fireworks of all descriptions have been forbidden.

"I have always been in favor of a safe and sane Fourth, and especially so here at the zoo," Edward H. Bean, director, declared yesterday. "Guards and attendants have been instructed to see that the ban is enforced."

Additional pleas for celebrations without fireworks were voiced during the day by the Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness and the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers.

The second annual Fourth of July celebration sponsored by the Cook county council of the American Legion, to be held Saturday night at Soldiers' field, will include two hours of military and patriotic drills and one hour of fireworks. More than 80,000 spectators are expected to attend.

Aviators in Show.

The military demonstrations include aërial maneuvers by the Hell Divers, flyers from the Great Lakes naval training station, and aviators of the 33d division, Illinois National guard, an exhibition of riding and jumping by the officers' riding team of the 124th field artillery, a saber drill by the Chicago park district post of the American Legion, a mounted drill by the Lancers, 122d field artillery; a gun drill by the Illinois naval reserve, and a concentration of American Legion drum and bugle corps in a massed concert.

The fireworks display, while containing most of the well known pyrotechnic figures, such as Liberty Bell and Statue of Liberty, also will include a pageant, "The Romance of a Nation."

A sham battle, with 2,500 men participating, and a 21 gun salute, fired at noon, will mark the Fourth at the Great Lakes naval training station. The sham battle will be held at 10 a. m. on Ross field.

The Independence day event at Fort Sheridan will occur at 8:30 a. m. when 1,163 students of the Citizens' Military Training camp will take the oath of allegiance. A 48 gun salute will be fired at noon.

Predicts 630 Deaths.

The National Safety council yesterday predicted there will be 630 accidental deaths, exclusive of those from fireworks, in the country Saturday and Sunday. R. L. Forney, council statistician, estimated that there will be 20,000,000 automobiles on the highways for the double holiday and 300 deaths will result from highway accidents. Based on the ratio for previous years, 200 will drown and 130 will die in falls, Forney said.

Woman Named in Sterilization Case Posts Bond

Mrs. Maryon Cooper Hewitt McCarter (center), assisted by nurse as she appeared yesterday in Jersey City before Judge Anthony Botti to answer charges of attempting suicide and being fugitive from California, where she was charged by her daughter, Ann Cooper Hewitt, with having sterilization operation performed. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

MRS. M'CARTER POSTS BOND ON FUGITIVE CHARGE

New York, July 1.—[Special.]—Pale, appearing very tired, and leaning heavily on the arms of two nurses, Mrs. Maryon Hewitt McCarter shuffled, in slippered feet, into the First Criminal court in Jersey City today and pleaded not guilty to charges of attempted suicide and being a fugitive from justice.

Defendant in a mayhem action brought by her heiress daughter, Ann Cooper Hewitt, who charged that her mother had her sterilized illegally, Mrs. Hewitt came to court from the Jersey City Medical center, where she has been recovering from effects of an overdose of a sleeping potion.

Judge Anthony Botti fixed bail at $3,500, which was provided. The court ordered Mrs. Hewitt held for the Hudson county grand jury, which does not meet until Sept. 24.

Formerly a great beauty, married and divorced several times—always sensationally — Mrs. Hewitt was dressed somberly in a dark blue coat and black skirt.

The attempted suicide charge results from the drug, police allege, which she took while staying at the Plaza hotel in Jersey City under the name of Jane Merritt.

ACT TO ASSURE DETENTION OF LEO BROTHERS

A certified copy of a murder indictment against Leo Brothers, former St. Louis gangster, was sent yesterday to the warden of the Joliet penitentiary by the circuit attorney's office of St. Louis, Mo. The indictment charged him with the killing of John Di Blasi, a St. Louis cab driver, on Aug. 2, 1929.

Brothers is now serving a 14 year term at Joliet prison for the slaying in 1930 of Alfred [Jake] Lingle, a reporter of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. When he applied for executive clemency recently to the state board of pardons and paroles the warden sent a letter to the St. Louis police, saying he needed the copy of the indictment to place a detainer on Brothers in case his sentence should be commuted and he were released from prison.

State's Attorney Courtney announced yesterday that he would oppose Brothers' release, and would assign one of his assistants to attend the meeting of the pardon board July 14 in Springfield, when the case will be considered. The conviction for the murder of Lingle was upheld by the State Supreme court.

PASSENGER WANTED FOR PICCARD STRATO HOP; FARE $100,000

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 1.—(AP)—There's a passenger seat vacant in the gondola for the next stratosphere flight by Dr. Jean Piccard.

The fare—$100,000.

Dr. Piccard and his wife came to Pittsburgh today to confer with Roy Hunt, president of the Aluminum Company of America, and made an appointment with John Butler of a concern making gas for stratosphere balloons.

Dr. Piccard said he is planning a flight twenty miles above the earth as soon as he can obtain $100,000.

His wife added:

Construct Atom Smasher, 2 Floors High, at U. of C.

A huge scientific instrument designed to smash the nuclei of atoms is nearing completion at the University of Chicago. The apparatus, which is two floors high and will develop 800,000 volts of electricity, has been under construction for six months in Eckhart hall on the Midway campus. It is expected to be ready for operation by September. Prof. Samuel Allison of the university's physical department will use the apparatus to study atomic structures.

LABOR DEFIES STEEL PLANTS IN UNION DRIVE

A. F. of L. Divided Over Lewis Campaign.

ployé representation affords "an ample and effective opportunity for collective bargaining." The institute's statement asserted that 254,029 out of 275,674 employés of thirty companies eligible to vote had cast secret ballots, electing 1,898 representatives for "collective bargaining with management."

"The high percentage of participation in the 1936 elections," the institute said, "indicates increasingly active interest by employés in the employé representation plan.

"In the elections held one year ago ballots were cast by 90 per cent of the employés while in 1934 approximately 85 per cent of the employés voted in the election.

"Every precaution is taken to avoid undue influence in any manner and to prevent fraud in the casting or counting of the ballots and to see that there is no discrimination against any employé."

Bittner Charges Coercion.

Bittner charged that the increase in participation in these elections showed that the steel companies are coercing the workers and forcing them to participate in the elections. He asserted that the large percentage vote does not indicate that the employés favor the employé representation plan.

Benjamin F. Fearless, president of Carnegie-Illinois Steel, which has plants in both the Chicago and Pittsburgh districts, in a letter to employés of the company, said that "massmeetings are already being held and every possible means employed to stampede you into joining the union."

"You will decide," he said, "whether your best interests lie in joining the union, paying dues, and imposing upon yourself the 'closed shop' and the necessity of asking the union for permission to work, or whether you will be loyal to the employé representative plan, which affords an ideal method of collective coöperation, and has proved of real benefit to you and your fellow workmen the last three years."

Bittner Doubts Suspension.

Bittner, who is president of the West Virginia district of the United Mine Workers, expressed the belief that the A. F. of L. would not suspend members who are participating in the steel unionization campaign. "Regardless of what action the A. F. of L. takes, however, the drive will go on," he said.

Plans for the campaign in the Chicago-Great Lakes area are being worked out rapidly, he said, asserting that a few massmeetings already have been held. Steel concerns, however, reported they had not seen any organization activities here.

CANADA STARTS 70TH YEAR AS UNITED NATION

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

TORONTO, Ont., July 1.—Canadians today celebrated Dominion day, marking the sixty-ninth anniversary of confederation. In fine weather there were parades, speech making and sports programs everywhere.

On July 1, in 1867, the union of upper and lower Canada and New Brunswick and Nova Scotia was finally brought about and the dominion of Canada secured its constitution—the British North America act. In the years that followed, the western provinces were established and entered the union.

Dominion day this year, however, records a jubilee day for two other important events in the binding of all Canada from sea to sea into a great dominion. It is the sixtieth anniversary of the departure of the first train on the Intercolonial railway from Halifax, N. S., to the province of Canada, and it is the fiftieth anniversary of the arrival at Winnipeg of the first transcontinental train over the Canadian Pacific railroad.

HEAD OF FASCIST FOREIGN GROUP FACING OUSTER

ROME, July 1.—(AP)—Well informed sources said today Piero Parini, director of the Fascists Abroad institute, soon will be replaced.

Parini commanded the Legion of overseas Fascists, many of whom were from the United States and equipped with American gifts, in the "Tevere" Black Shirt division attached to Gen. Rodolfo Graziani's army in Ethiopia.

High sources said they could not disclose the reason for the impending change.

CANADA WILL SPEND ANOTHER 30 MILLION TO GIVE JOBS TO IDLE

OTTAWA, July 1.—(AP)—Labor Minister Rogers announced conclusion of dominion-provincial agreements tonight under which at least $30,000,000 will be spent this year "as a direct stimulus to employment," in addition to more than $40,000,000 voted in supplementary estimates for federal works projects.

The new agreements for joint works on a 50-50 expenditure basis contain a mandatory clause providing at least 50 per cent of those employed on projects covered by the $30,000,000 shall be taken from relief rolls.

The minister also announced grants in aid to provinces for direct relief will be cut 10 per cent during July, August, and September. He said this step had been decided in view of the "improvement in general employment and in anticipation of the reduction of relief rolls through the joint works program."

BUDDIES SWEAR TO TELL MOTHER; TAKES 18 YEARS

Burlington, N. Y., July 1.—(AP)—During the muddy, shell torn days of 1917-'18, Dr. John S. Conroy and Howard Bryant of the U. S. Ambulance corps agreed to write the other's mother in case a shell or bullet found its mark. The war ended and neither had to fulfill his promise.

Bryant, still a soldier, disappeared, from Camp Dix June 2. Last night his body was found in the brush near Wrightstown. The coroner called a physician to perform an autopsy. It was Dr. Conroy. He fulfilled his promise to write Bryant's mother, Mrs. Annie Bryant, of Centreville, Md.

Dr. Conroy reported no evidence of a slaying. Army surgeons said he had heart trouble.

SNIPERS' GUNFIRE POURED ON PLANT IN DIXIE STRIKE

Shots Fired at Deputies Rushing to Scene.

Birmingham, Ala., July 1.—[Special.]—Gunfire broke out today in the month old strike of red ore workers of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company. Ambushed snipers along the mountainside overlooking the concern's No. 5 lime works poured a volley of more than half a hundred shots at the plant's fan house.

One of two employés engaged in repair work at the fan house returned the snipers' fire before telephoning for help. Three company deputies, en route to the scene in an automobile after hearing the shots, said they were fired on by retreating snipers. No one was injured, however.

Red ore workers of the company, which is a subsidiary of the United States Steel corporation, are on strike in protest against the inauguration of a tonnage wage plan.

Organizer Charges Ejection.

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 1.—[Special.]—Charges that he was forced out of Steubenville, O., after being arrested and given a hearing before a man who "posed as the mayor" at Hollidays Cove, W. Va., adjoining Steubenville, were made today by Claude R. Kramer, 55, an organizer for the committee on industrial unionization of the steel industry.

Kramer asserted in an affidavit made here that when he disregarded the order to depart, he was ejected from a Steubenville hotel. The organizer said he planned to return to Steubenville immediately.

Vincent Sweeney, representing the union committee, said the affidavit would be sent to Senator La Follette's committee.

DEFEND TASTES OF MRS. DILL IN HER MATE'S DIVORCE SUIT

Spokane, Wash., July 1.—(AP)—A procession of witnesses today defended the personal tastes, domestic efficiency, and social conduct of Mrs. C. C. Dill in rebuttal to her divorce seeking husband, the former senator, who called her slovenly, parsimonious, and rude.

Dill's complaint that his wife, a former suffragette leader, was "filthy" and "disreputable" brought the statement from Mrs. David C. Gallagher that the senator's wife "dresses in taste, even when at work."

Mrs. Gallagher, a Stratford, Wash., political worker, asserted Mrs. Dill was no "snob" because she once went into an orchard and helped pick apples "just as if she wasn't wealthy and the wife of a United States senator."

J. J. FINLAY CHILD CUSTODY HEARING CONTINUED WEEK

After an hour's heading in chambers yesterday, Judge Rudolph F. Desort in the Superior court continued until next Wednesday the child custody case of John Jerome Finlay, advertising man, against his estranged wife, the former Jane Scriven of Chicago, now of Scarborough, N. Y.

The child who is the center of the court fight is Barbara, 6 years old. She is living with her mother. Finlay has petitioned for part time custody of the girl, insisting that she be kept in Illinois even while in his wife's custody, but Mrs. Finlay will not agree to live in Illinois while the child is with her.

Finlay yesterday offered to pay his wife's expenses from Scarborough to Chicago at any time if she would agree to leave Barbara in a home in or near Chicago, which Mrs. Finlay refused to do. Mrs. Finlay disclosed that she plans a European trip soon, and said that she would "think over" the proposal that she leave Barbara with Finlay during the voyage if the custody case is not settled meanwhile.

CHARGES POLICE BEATING AT TRIAL IN RAPE SLAYING

Otto Pech, 35 years old, of Hillside, a grave digger, took the witness stand yesterday in the Criminal court of Judge John C. Lewe and outside the presence of the jury charged he was beaten by county highway police into signing a confession to the rape and slaying nine years ago of Edna Mueller, 15 years old.

Pech's testimony was given during arguments over the admissibility of the confession.

To support the contention of police brutality Attorney Louis Ancel, counsel for Pech, called Dr. Harry R. Hoffman, head of the behavior clinic, and Dr. Constantine Theodore, jail physician, who testified that an examination of Pech after his arrest and after his alleged confession, showed two fractured ribs and numerous bruises.

4 HELD IN N. Y. AS MATERIAL WITNESSES IN CHICAGOAN'S DEATH

New York, July 1.—[Special.]—Four men were held today in $20,000 bail each by Judge James G. Wallace in general sessions as material witnesses in the murder of George K. O'Connor, Chicago electrical engineer, who was found slain Monday in a hallway on Forty-second street.

They are Armando Filiberti, waiter at the Midtown bar and grill in West Forty-second street; David Bossolini, bartender there; John Rogers, chef and waiter, and Frank Johnson. In affidavits Detective James L. Leech said that none of the men is a resident of the city and he fears they will disappear if not held.

He said he had reason to believe they knew something about the killing, but in court they all denied it. Police believe O'Connor was killed in a brawl that followed an argument in the bar.

RELIEF IS HALTED FOR TIME AS CITY TAKES OVER JOB

Rush New Setup and Wait for State Funds.

Chicago was without relief yesterday because the city had no funds with which to take up the duties and functions which the Illinois Emergency Relief commission surrendered at midnight Tuesday to Chicago and to 1,440 other political subdivisions in the state. The situation was awkward rather than dangerous as officials waited for state funds and discussed ways and means of raising money by local taxation.

The first funds will come from the state within a few days. O. R. Taylor, head of the relief division of the state auditor's office, departed for Springfield yesterday with a list of 905 local governments, including Chicago, which will share in the $2,000,000 state relief fund for July. The amounts to be prorated to each have been certified by the IERC.

First Checks by Tomorrow.

Checks totaling $800,000—all that is available of the $2,000,000 until late in the month—will be written with all possible speed at Springfield and placed in the mail today or tomorrow.

The remaining 536 local governments have indicated they will carry relief along on a 30 cent per $100 valuation property tax without state supplementation. The other relief units also must levy this tax, however, in order to continue to receive state funds.

In Chicago the city council marked time on the proposed 30 cent relief levy. Ald. J. M. Arvey [24th], chairman of the council finance comittee, anounced that this matter would not be taken up until after further negotiations with Gov. Horner, from whom additional state funds are being sought. Gov. Horner recently vetoed a bill to turn $3,000,000 a month from sales tax revenues to relief purposes instead of $2,000,000.

Lyons Formally Approved.

The council acted immediately, however, to get its relief administrative machinery set up. It formally ratified the appointment of Leo M. Lyons, executive secretary of the IERC, as relief commissioners for the city at $5,000 a year, and authorized him to hire and fire relief employés in accordance with appropriation ordinances.

"Too much latitude is being given the new relief commissioner," objected Ald. Frank E. Konkowski [26th].

"The less the mayor and the city council have to do with relief, the better," Mayor Kelly replied. "The council will have the right to study the records and actions of the commissioner of relief."

Overhead Costs a Question.

Where to get the money to run the city relief machine—even the administrative end of it—was the next question. After a conference with Mayor Kelly and several aldermen, Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes announced that the city could, in his opinion, use state relief funds for administrative purposes, contrary to the opinion of Attorney General Otto Kerner.

Hodes' ruling was important, since it appeared that for several weeks the city would not raise local funds by levying the 30 cent tax and selling anticipation warrants. The council unanimously adopted an order that administrative costs be paid from the state funds, "until further order." These costs have been close to $300,000 a month.

Hodes' View to Be Followed.

Lyons thus was drawn into a dilemma by his dual alegiance to the city [Hodes' opinion] and the IERC [Kerner's opinion]. He declared that he would abide by the corporation counsel's ruling and authorize expenditures in accordance with it as soon as it is formally tendered him, even though the state money is not on hand.

Lyons last evening issued a statement calling upon the people of the city to display neighborly coöperation in meeting the relief situation. It said:

"Owing to the fact that there is available only $1,318,206 for relief in Chicago during July, and the actual needs of the destitute people will total $2,550,400, according to the most conservative estimates, every one in the city is called upon to do his part in relieving distress."

Lyons' statement reiterated the fact which has been vexing city and state officials for months—that relief budgets must be reduced 50 per cent to meet the shortage of funds. Under the new administrative setup, it was announced a month ago, cash relief will be discontinued and relief clients will be given grocery orders under the system which was used by the IERC until last November.

Officials explained that cash relief may be resumed in Chicago later after details of handling the checks can be arranged. Until the responsibility for relief was turned over to local authorities state offices for handling the relief checks were maintained at the IERC headquarters.

HOPKINS SEES DROP IN WPA JOBS, BUT NO CUT IN ILLINOIS

Harry L. Hopkins, national Works Progress administrator, who paused here yesterday on his way from drouth relief conferences at St. Paul to New York City, declared that the present number of WPA workers, 2,300,000, would "drop somewhat" during the summer. He said the Illinois quota of 160,000 will not be cut, at least for the next several months.

Hopkins pooh-poohed a prediction that the plan of paying prevailing hourly wages to WPA workers, effective this month, will cause serious difficulty. Told that Illinois WPA officials had described situations in which neighboring WPA workers will be paid widely varying rates for doing the same kind of work he replied: "That's impossible."

The WPA chief, who was recently furnished with $1,430,000,000 for carrying on his program, lunched at the Chicago club with Mayor Kelly, Robert J. Dunham, WPA administrator for Illinois, and Howard O. Hunter, who yesterday resumed his post here as federal regional representative for fourteen states. Hunter for some months acted as Hopkins' assistant.

COSTS HUSBAND $7 WEEKLY TO FIGHT DIVORCE

Because he appeared in the Superior court of Judge Rudolph F. Desort yesterday to contest the divorce suit of his wife Gertrude, Baltheser Koller, 34 years old, 6217 Kimbark avenue, a carpenter, must pay her $7 a week for the support of their two children.

"We had intended," said Norman Becker, attorney for Mrs. Koller, "to obtain the divorce by publication, which would have excluded my client from receiving alimony or support money, which we now request." Becker admitted that Koller had given his wife $525 which he recently collected as damages in two personal injury cases.

Judge Desort entered the temporary support order and set the divorce case down for a future hearing.

MIDWIFE, 78, FINED $200.

Mrs. Alexandria Wojanowska, 78 years old, 1751 Wilmot avenue, a midwife, was fined $200 and then placed on probation by Judge Erwin J. Hasten in the License court yesterday for failure to report to the health department the birth of a child to an unmarried mother.

ASSAILS OLD AGE PENSIONS STAF AS INCOMPETENT

Political Crew Making Bad Start, Says Hunter.

Illinois is making a bad start in administering its old age assistance, Joel D. Hunter, head of the United Charities of Chicago, declared as word was received from Springfield that the first 430 pension checks were mailed yesterday to Cook county's aged who filed their applications three months ago.

Of the 52,000 applications submitted here, about 3,000 have been investigated by the county bureau of public welfare and sent to the state office.

Inexperienced Help on Job.

"People have been employed to administer pensions with neither experience nor training for their jobs," Mr. Hunter said. "I have been informed that various appointments were made primarily because of political connections, and the series of delays and the confusion which has been apparent these last several months show the result.

"No effort was made by the inexperienced executives to call together those trained in the field to render advisory service, so far as I can learn."

Hunter said that James H. Andrews, director of the old age assistance division of the state department of public welfare, under A. L. Bowen, was doing his best but had been impeded by higher officials.

Procedure Held Cumbersome.

"Aside from the problem of personnel, various administrative rulings of the state office have slowed up the payment of pensions," Mr. Hunter declared. "For example, the requiring of separate affidavits on various points from the county agencies is unnecessary. It would be simpler, quicker, and just as satisfactory to cover the whole investigation with one affidavit."

The state auditor's office at Springfield announced yesterday that the next Cook county checks, a bunch of 182, would be sent out next week, a slight delay being occasioned by the July 4 holiday.

COUNCIL ADOPTS NEW NAMES FOR 72 STREET LINKS

The city council at its meeting yesterday adopted an ordinance changing the names of seventy-two broken link streets, each a quarter mile or less in length, in the interest of simplification. In most cases the name was merely changed to that of the longer street of which the "stub" was a continuation.

The changes are as published on June 14, when recommended by the streets and alleys committee, with the exception of twelve streets, whose renaming was objected to by the alderman of the ward. The question of renaming these streets was referred to the committee, of which Ald. Terence F. Moran [16th] is chairman.

Those exceptions are Bittersweet place, Brompton avenue, Browning avenue, Garfield avenue, Garibaldi place, Gordon terrace, Hammond street, Kenesaw terrace, Potwyne place, Slocum avenue, Surrey court, and Washington Park court.

The council also ordered that the name Streeter drive be given to a circular street adjoining Navy pier in memory of "Cap" George Wellington Streeter, colorful but unsuccessful claimant of title to the area known as Streeterville.

BRITAIN, FRANCE, RUSSIA BATTLE TO SAVE LEAGUE

Agree It Must Go to War to Exist.

of the organized might of Italy over the undisciplined and ill equipped black armies of Ethiopia was not forseeable? Did fifty-two nations, when they solemnly bound themselves to collective action under the covenant of the league, make successful resistance of Ethiopia a condition precedent to fulfilment of their obligation?

"I declare that this surrender, if it is agreed upon by the nations, cannot be interpreted as impotence to safeguard a trust, but as a simple denial of their ability to bear sacrifices necessary for the fulfilment of their obligations. The authority of the league is about to come to naught."

Panama warned the assembly of "a strong current of opinion favoring the withdrawal of all Latin American states."

Capt. Eden disclosed that conversations on Germany's denunciation of the Locarno treaty, with or without Italy, probably would be held in Brussels July 20.

Seven Italian newspaper men, arrested for "creating a scandal" by heckling and cursing Emperor Haile Selassie when he addressed the assembly yesterday, were released from jail and immediately expelled from Switzerland.

Italy Voices Anger.

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

ROME, July 1.—The whole of Italy was up in arms tonight in defense of the Italian newspaper men whose violent protest against Emperor Haile Selassie disturbed yesterday's assembly of the league of nations.

The temper of the country is shown by a telegram—which is declared by circles close to the government to represent the sentiments of the whole Italian people—sent them by Dino Affieri, minister of press and propaganda, expressing full solidarity.

Nicholas Titulescu, foreign minister of Rumania, who is stated by the Italian press to have pointed to the Italian newspaper men at Geneva yesterday and to have shouted, "Throw out the savages," is a special target for the Italian indignation.

DUBLIN AGAIN ELECTS LORD MAYOR BYRNE TO SEAT IN COUNCIL

DUBLIN, July 1.—(AP)—Lord Mayor Alfred [Alfie] Byrne, whose formal dress, waxed mustache and heavy gold badge of office have been at every civic function for the past six years, was reëlected to his council seat today despite opposition of the Fianna Fail party of President Eamon de Valera.

Byrne received an overwhelming majority in the corporation election. First returns gave him 14,000 votes with only 4,000 necessary for election as councilman. His nearest opponent was Mrs. Tom Clarke, a Fianna Fail candidate, who received 3,900 votes.

Whether Byrne will be reëlected lord mayor depends upon the success of other independent council candidates favoring him, who were reported running ahead in early returns.

BRITAIN ALARMED AS HITLER BUILDS GIANT AIR FLEET

War Scare Grips London; Strengthens Position.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 1.—The intensification of German rearmament in the air since the remilitarization of the Rhineland to the point where the reich's factories now are turning out 250 war planes a month was revealed today as the cause of Great Britain's sudden change on the diplomatic front and of the threatened crisis in the relations of the two countries.

Anxious question have been asked in the house of commons in the last few days over German rearmament expenditures, which were estimated at 7 billion dollars during the last three and a half years. These questions reflect the growing fear of a rearmed Germany—discounting even the artificial stimulation of this fear which goes on for recruiting purposes.

Air Raids Are Feared.

The fear of death and destruction coming across the English channel from the air is especially acute. And this has not been mitigated by the publication of figures to the effect that the German command has speeded up the manufacture of planes with the hope of having, by next January, 3,300 first line planes and 2,800 reserve planes organized into 210 squadrons.

For this reason Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin is being pressed to come back from his retreat at Chequers, where he is reported to be suffering from anemia and insomnia, to answer the implied charges by Lord Londonderry, whom Baldwin discharged from the post of air minister about a year ago, that the prime minister withheld information about the armed strength of the Germans from the house of commons.

May Answer Query Today.

Baldwin previously had implied that Lord Londonderry misled him about German air strength.

The prime minister may return to the house of commons tomorrow to answer this question, but otherwise will continue his rest at Chequers next week.

Members of parliament meanwhile expressed more uneasiness about Germany's "war preparations." They asked for information about the new Rhineland forts which the Germans are alleged to have built since the occupation of the Rhineland. Lord Cranborne, undersecretary of foreign affairs, said he had no information about these—officially. Not content with Cranborne's reply, R. J. G. Boothby, a Conservative, demanded that formal inquiries about the speeding up of the Rhineland fortifications be made to the government of Reichsfuehrer Hitler.

The critical pass in British and German relations, which has flared up to contrast so strongly to the open courting of German favor during the Locarno crisis last March, makes it easier to understand the British moves in soothing Premier Mussolini and taking the lead in removing sanctions.

The British do not want to lose an ally if they must ward off German airplanes. Anyway, an Anglo-Italian deal appears to be taking shape more rapidly with the announcement that immediately after the present session of the league of nations assembly nearly all the British fleet will be withdrawn from the Mediterranean. It was dispatched there during a period of fright last August. It was stated that the main body of the British fleet "will be appreciably reduced," leaving only two cruisers and a destroyer flotilla in Mediterranean waters.

Cabinet Target of Attack.

LONDON, July 1.—(AP)—Opposition members leveled a burst of fire upon the government in the house of lords today for the assurance given France by a cabinet minister, "Your frontier is our frontier."

"It would be very difficult to get the people of this country to fight for France under any circumstances," said Baron Arnold, Laborite. "The speech meant a military alliance which is directed against Germany. It will necessarily strengthen the militarist party in Germany."

Debate on the recent speech in Paris by Alfred Duff Cooper, secretary of war, in which he referred to the mutual Anglo-French frontiers, saw the minister both rapped and defended. The house debated a motion by Baron Rennell calling attention "to some apparent lack of consistency in utterances of the ministers on foreign affairs."

Lord Middleton, criticizing Duff Cooper's speech, said: "I believe there never was a moment, except for the few days before the outbreak of war in 1914, when one foolish speech by one man might do more mischief and undo more quickly the efforts the government is making in the direction of peace."

Baron Rennell finally withdrew his motion without a vote after protesting 'There are so many official voices it is very difficult to gauge the real direction of our foreign policy.'"

BEG YOUR PARDON

Kellogg Fairbank yesterday denied that his wife, former Democratic national committeewoman, is vice chairman of the new Independent Coalition of American Women, as reported in yesterday's TRIBUNE in an item from Toledo, O. Mrs. Fairbank was asked to take the office, he said, but wired her refusal.

Duce's Stricken Daughter Reported 'Much Better.'

ROME, July 1.—(AP)—Government officials said tonight the condition of Anna Maria, 6 year old daughter of Premier Mussolini, was "much better." She has been ill at Tivoli, presumably of infantile paralysis. Il Duce was at the little girl's bedside with his oldest daughter, Edda, Countess Ciano.

BRITAIN TO BUILD NEW BIG LINER—KING GEORGE V.

Expect to Launch Vessel in Two Years.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 1.—That the era of big ships has not yet ended was indicated tonight when it was learned the Cunard-White Star line plans to build a sister ship of the Queen Mary to be named King George V.

The new vessel, according to British shipping circles, will have approximately the same dimensions as the Queen Mary, but will have a gross tonnage of 83,000, compared with the Queen Mary's 80,773, and will be larger than any thing else afloat including the French liner Normandie.

[Although Lloyd's Register for 1934-'35 listed the Normandie's tonnage at 80,000, the French line gives its weight as 83,000 tons since the structural revision of the ship last winter.]

The fact that Cunard-White Star is laying down another monster ship implies that British shippers do not fear the development of trans-Atlantic dirigible trafic. They intend to make expenditures on large, fast liners despite arguments that they are not economic. Incidentally, there has been some speculation as to whether these ships serve military designs.

The $25,000,000 contract for the new vessel will be placed with John Brown & Co. of Clydebank, builders of the Queen Mary. The ship will be faster and more economical of operation than the Queen Mary, it was said.

The machinery will embody a number of novel features, based on progress made in marine engineering since the Queen Mary was designed more than six years ago. The ship, to be known as 535 on the stocks, will be launched probably early in 1938.

OCEAN TRAVEL HITS 7 YR. PEAK; 10,000 LEAVE N. Y.

New York, July 1.—[Special.]—A parade of ocean liners, including the Normandie, the Bremen, and the Rex, carried more than 10,000 persons out of New York harbor today to mark the peak of the heaviest travel season since 1929.

The Normandie, carrying 1,711 passengers, was so mobbed by friends of the departing that it was half an hour late getting away. It sailed at 10:30. The passenger list included an assortment of movie, radio, theater, and sports figures, with two Indian princesses and a prince to add the royal touch.

Others off during the day were the Gripsholm of the Swedish-American line, the Hamburg of the Hamburg-American, and the Statendam of the Holland-America line.

HOME FURNISHING EXHIBIT TO DRAW 10,000 VISITORS

More than 10,000 retail buyers of furniture and other household furnishings are expected to attend the International Home Furnishing exposition which opens Monday in the Merchandise Mart. The exposition will continue through July 18.

Approximately 1,300,000 square feet of floor space will be devoted to the showing of the latest creations in furniture, floor coverings, curtains and draperies, lamps, and appliances. Some of the new items include a shell-less egg boiler, a sewing machine with a bar, and a radio that automatically goes on and off.

Percy Wilson, general manager of the Mart, estimated that sales during the market would total $12,000,000.

Moving Forward

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

TOYING WITH ECONOMICS
by CALEB

IN the English "Annual Register" for 1791 appears the following note: "Several responsible buckle-makers from Birmingham, Walsall, and Wolverhampton waited upon H.R.H. the Prince of Wales with a petition setting forth the distressed situation of thousands in the different branches of the buckle trade, from the fashion now and for some time back so prevalent, of wearing shoe-strings instead of buckles. H.R.H., after considering the petition very attentively, graciously promised his utmost assistance by his example and influence."

The "Gazette" later said: "The unmanly shoe-string will henceforth be thrown aside for the buckle. On his birthday, His Royal Highness, and all his sisters, appeared in the Soho new-invented shoe latchets, and have since continued to wear them. Indeed, no well-dressed gentlemen or lady now appears without these buttons, and the ornament of the buckle."

Despite the well organized, soundly launched effort to tie a knot in the natural trend toward a better shoe fastening, shoe laces came in—and stayed. The erstwhile Prince of Wales, the present King, is probably not insensitive to his ancestry and its good intentions, but who would today attempt to stay the moving hand of time?

In those good old buckle days, 2,500,000 buckles a year were made at Birmingham alone. Of course, they were made by hand. You can imagine the labor involved in producing 200,000 buckles a month by laborious hand processes. No wonder Birmingham was alarmed. No wonder the lobbyists went into action. No wonder progress was attempted to be restrained.

The point is—artificial attempts to stay the natural evolution of economy and social custom failed.

They always have failed. Perhaps when this generation has gone its way we will be more noted for our attempts to goad nature's laws into both reverse and double-quick at the same time than for any other thing.

The procedure of paying farmers not to raise something means higher food prices to families in distress and less of the public's money available for charity to help them.

The evolving economy of the world is complicated. But it is easy to see that any reasonable extension of a policy for paying people not to use land for food raising while other people starve, is open to challenge. Subterfuges to accomplish the same end embrace the same fallacy. Particularly is this true when the big money paid the large "producers" is taken to other countries to raise the same products to be imported to us.

9,000 AUTOS GET CITY TEST; ONLY HALF FOUND O. K.

Garages Swamped with Repair Orders.

BY HAL FOUST.

Approximately 9,000 automobiles were tested yesterday as Chicago inaugurated its compulsory safety inspection at fourteen municipally operated stations throughout the city. About 5,000 owners learned of mechanical defects and another 4,500 received O. K. stickers for their windshields.

Those who failed to pass the tests were directed to make necessary repairs, replacements, or adjustments within ten days and to return for a recheck within ten days. Failure to return is a misdemeanor punishable by fine.

The city's fourteen stations were inadequate for the first day's rush. Long queues of cars were waiting before the inspection lanes were opened at 7 a. m. Many waited an hour or more for the tests. The actual time on the apparatus averaged about four minutes, with approvals or rejections being reported at the rate of about one a minute for each of the eighteen machinery assemblies at fourteen locations.

Trucks Need Attention.

Trucks, especially the smaller ones, were scoring worse than passenger cars. In the first three hours at a station on Marine drive [service drive for the outer drive] at Argyle street, a policeman said only two of every ten trucks tested received an O. K.

The service, without charge to the car owners, will continue daily from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m. For the first few weeks, a motorist may submit his car to the inspection at a time and place of his own convenience. Otto K. Jelinek, Chicago park district engineer, who is in charge of operations, expects approximately 60 per cent of the owners of 450,000 motor vehicles in Chicago will appear thus voluntarily.

Will Issue Summons.

Those who do not appear during the voluntary period will receive notices of the time and place for the testing of their cars. Those who don't respond to the notices will be summoned by the police.

Garages and privately operated service stations throughout the city reported a flood of business as owners were preparing their automobiles to meet the O. K. requirements. Almost a third of the cars tested on the first day had faulty brakes and about the same portion had faulty lights. These were the most important defects from a safety standpoint, but other equipment—such as broken windshield wipers, stop lights, or mirrors or cracked windshields—accounted for other rejections.

MOOSE INITIATE 1,000 AS PART OF CONVENTION

Orville J. Taylor, Chicago attorney, headed a class of 1,000 candidates who were initiated into the Loyal Order of Moose last night as a feature of the 48th annual Moose convention at the Hotel Sherman. The degree staff of Dayton, O., the outstanding ritual staff of the world-wide lodge, conducted the initiation.

More than 1,200 delegates from the 1,600 lodges throughout the United States, Canada, and the British Isles are attending the convention, which opened yesterday morning. Among the day's speakers were Mayor Kelly, Walter D. Ruff of Canton, O., supreme dictator of the order, and Mrs. Jane Rebus of Columbia, Pa.

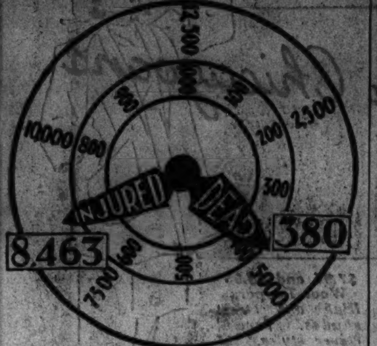
THE MASSACRE
Chicago's 1936 Trafic Toll



Over 98 per cent of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

FARMER STRUCK BY FAST TRAIN DIES OF INJURIES

Harley Shoger, 52 years old, a farmer of Oswego, died yesterday in St. Joseph Mercy hospital in Aurora of injuries incurred last Sunday when his automobile was struck by the streamlined Burlington Zephyr train at the Oswego mill road crossing near Bristol in Kendall county. Shoger's wife, Alice, a passenger in the car, died a few hours after the accident. Testimony at the inquest showed that Shoger's car stalled on the tracks as the train was approaching at 85 miles an hour.

William Hayhurst, 55 years old, 11528 Church street, a field representative for the Illinois Manufacturers' association, suffered a broken arm yesterday when his automobile was struck by another machine on Route 6, seven miles west of Joliet. Willard Davis, 17 years old, 1943 Monterey avenue, who was driving for Hayhurst, received minor injuries.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 488 persons had been killed in automobile accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1. In the same period 380 were killed and 8,463 injured within Chicago.

SEARCH PRISON RECORDS FOR CLEW IN RAPE

In the parole records of the Joliet penitentiary, police hope to find today a clew to identify the gunman who raped Mrs. Louise Henry, 21 years old, while her husband, Ure Henry, a draftsman, lay bound and gagged, in their apartment at 6145 Kenwood avenue. During the three hours the rapist spent in the apartment early yesterday chatting with his victims, he consumed three glasses of tomato juice and two pieces of pie.

Apparently gaining entrance by crawling under the summer door, the moron awoke the couple, and at pistol point demanded money. Henry gave him $3. Then the invader, who attempted to mask his features with a handkerchief, bound Henry with strips of a bed sheet, and attacked Mrs. Henry.

Bragging that he was a robber recently released from the penitentiary, the moron conversed with the Henrys for more than three hours and then made Mrs. Henry give him food from the ice box. He told them he resorted to this type of crime because he smoked marijuana cigarets. The Henrys were unable to identify any rogues' gallery pictures at the detective bureau.

Boston Shivers as July Cold Sets 24 Year Record

Boston, Mass., July 1.—[Special.]—July brought chills to Bostonians today as the mercury dropped to a near record low. In Middlesex county the temperature reached 42 degrees, in Concord, making July 1 the coldest in 24 years and within one degree of the coldest July 1 on record. Scattered light frost was reported in some sections.

JAILS MOTORIST FOR SIX MONTHS ON TWO CHARGES

Reckless Driver Flees Accident Scene.

One motorist was sent to the Bridewell for six months and four others were given short county jail sentences by Judge Gibson E. Gorman in Safety court yesterday.

James Owen, 37 years old, 4546 South Wabash avenue, colored, was given three months in the Bridewell on charges of reckless driving and an additional three months for leaving the scene of the accident—the sentences to run consecutively. Owen was arrested after a four mile chase during which he drove through a stop light and crashed into the automobile of a policeman. Police said he had served a sentence in Alabama for forgery.

Reckless Drivers Jailed.

The other sentences imposed by Judge Gorman were:

JAMES OLIVER, 60 years old, 4414 Vincennes avenue, colored, three days for reckless driving.

JOSEPH LIGAS, 21 years old, 2137 Herndon street, three days for reckless driving.

CECIL FORD, 26 years old, 7 West Pearson street, ten days for driving while intoxicated.

LOUIS LOPEZ, 25 years old, 1020 East 42d place, one day for reckless driving.

Frank Labno, 20 years old, 2325 South Albany avenue, was sentenced to 20 days in the Bridewell and fined $200 by Judge Thomas A. Green in Boys' court on a charge of reckless driving.

In the Evanston municipal court of Judge Harry H. Porter, Harry Hodgins, 23 years old, 548 Lee street, Des Plaines, was sentenced to ten days in the Bridewell and fined $100 for driving while intoxicated. Aksel Bakken, 43 years old, 4541 Clifton avenue, was fined $100 on the same charge.

Judge Porter fined Dr. Edward L. Milligan, 60 years old, 4601 Broadway, a dentist, $10 for driving on the wrong side of the street.

5 KILLED, 20 HURT WHEN BUS CRASHES AT EDGE OF GORGE

Natural Bridge, Va., July 1.—[Special.]—Five persons were killed and twenty injured today as a large passenger bus careened out of control during a heavy rainstorm and was purposely crashed into a bank to prevent its carrying its thirty-three occupants over the 215 foot gorge of the famous Natural bridge.

After striking the bank and telescoping, the heavy vehicle rolled across the road, went through a guard rail, and settled upside down within a few inches of the edge of the chasm.

The driver, J. J. Olderson of Birmingham, Ala., died at his wheel heroically trying to halt the bus' headlong plunge toward disaster.

Olderson and four other persons in the front of the vehicle were killed when the front end of the roof caved in as the bus telescoped into the bank at the west side of the road. The roof ballooned up at the rear, saving the passengers there.

Among the dead, in addition to the driver, were J. P. Hamilton of Birmingham, a bus driver en route to Philadelphia; Lenn Holden, Goodview, Va., who apparently died of shock, and John Keesee, Washington, D. C.

Most of the passengers were asleep at the time of the crash. Some of those who awakened in time slipped down between the seats to save themselves a moment before the roof caved in on them.

PARADE LAUNCHES CENTENNIAL FETE AT LIBERTYVILLE

With a two mile parade before 6,000 spectators, Libertyville opened its four day centennial celebration yesterday. Descendants of the pioneers who founded the Lake county town will take part tonight, tomorrow and Saturday in a historical pageant depicting early scenes in Libertyville.

The main event today is to be a Republican rally at which Lake county Republicans will open their fall campaign. Speakers will be Wayland Brooks, candidate for governor; William J. Stratton, candidate for secretary of state; Congressman Ralph E. Church, and State Representative Richard J. Lyons. Tomorrow has been designated as Democratic day.

As the parade started yesterday, Mayor A. E. Suster placed the crown of honor on the head of Miss Anne Robertson, a senior in Libertyville Township High school. She will reign as queen of the celebration.

Woman's Slayer Denied Retrial; Faces Life Term

Sycamore, Ill., July 1.—(AP)—Harrison Crooke, facing a life sentence on his conviction of having murdered Mrs. Memma Ander in her De Kalb grocery March 5, was denied a new trial in Circuit court today. Crooke was convicted May 23 by a Circuit court jury, which recommended the sentence.

U. S. CONSIDERS 2 NEW SHIPS WITH 16 INCH RIFLES

Plan to Bring Navy to Treaty Strength.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 1.—[Special.]—On the heels of Japan's refusal to join in the London naval treaty which limited battleship armament to 14 inch guns, the navy department today was revealed to be considering 16 inch guns for two new capital vessels to be built next year.

Admiral William H. Standley, chief of naval operations, indicated the department has the heavier armament under consideration. Although he did not commit the department positively, he said he felt the 16 inch gun was more advantageous for the navy than the armament now being carried by most capital ships.

Has 3 with Big Guns.

The navy has three ships carrying 16 inch guns, the Maryland, Colorado and West Virginia. Eleven battleships carry 14 inch guns and one, the Arkansas, carries 12 inch guns as its heaviest armament.

The London treaty carries so many loopholes, according to naval experts, that this government will be able to increase the bore of capital ship armament without dishonoring its signature to the document.

Asked if the navy will experiment with "mosquito" torpedo boats now being built in flotillas by the British navy, Admiral Standley said that although the navy is keeping abreast of all modern developments, no particular attention is being given to this type of craft. During the world war the United States had "eagle" boats which were similar to those now being built by the British, and operated the craft with success, he said.

Seek to Boost Strength.

The American navy, the admiral said, is bending its attention to bringing up the maritime defense of the country to the full strength of the naval treaties which are to expire Jan. 1. After treaty strength is reached, he indicated, attention will be given to development of auxiliary craft.

The admiral bemoaned the failure of the recent session of congress to enact legislation permitting the building of 55 auxiliary ships such as oil tankers, coalers, and other non-combative vessels. He said the lack of modern vessels of this type has crippled the efficiency of the navy.

He said the navy is prepared to repeat its demand for funds to build up non-combative vessels at the next session of congress. Its recommendation will be given to congress shortly after the new session begins in January.

2,000 TON GUNBOAT IS COMMISSIONED AT BROOKLYN NAVY YARD

New York, July 1.—[Special.]—The thin wail of boatswains' pipes skirled about the decks of the gunboat Erie today as the new 2,000 ton ship, first of her type, was commissioned at the Brooklyn navy yard.

Commander Edward W. Hanson, the Erie's first skipper, signed a receipt for the ship before assuming its command. Then the crew and marine guard were drawn up on the after deck while navy yard officers boarded the boat.

The new gunboat is the first of a type which does not come within naval treaty limitations. A sister ship, the Charleston, is being completed at Charleston navy yard. Both are scheduled for duty with the special service squadron in Caribbean and Central American waters.

U. S. Prisoners Placed in 'Escape Proof' Cells

The new "escape proof" lockup for prisoners on the eighth floor of the United States courthouse adjacent to the marshal's office was placed in use yesterday. It contains three steel cells for men and one for women prisoners. Bullet proof glass separates prisoners and visitors. The lockup was built at a cost of $6,000 after a federal prisoner escaped there several months ago.

ROOSEVELT ENDS SIGNING OF BILLS; 85 GET HIS VETO

99 Appointments Lost in Adjournment Shuffle.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 1.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today cleared his desk of the bills left him by the 74th congress in the closing days of its final session. During the session, a total of 966 bills were sent to the White House. President Roosevelt signed 881 of these and vetoed 85.

White House attachés said today that Mr. Roosevelt has vetoed 221 bills since he came into office. This total is behind that of President Grover Cleveland, the White House announcement said, although Cleveland's total was not made public.

During the first session of the 73d congress, Mr. Roosevelt approved 105 bills and vetoed but one. In the second session of congress he approved 809 and vetoed 72. In the first session of the 74th congress he approved 839 bills and vetoed 63. During his tenure of office Mr. Roosevelt has approved 2,694 bills.

99 Appointments Unconfirmed.

At the same time the White House announced 99 presidential appointments were not confirmed by the senate, being lost in the last minute drive for adjournment. These included 95 postmaster appointments, one United States marshal, one state WPA administrator and one state national emergency council director.

Lack of confirmation made the appointments ineffective. The President may reappoint the nominees, but they will draw no salary until their nominations are confirmed, when they will receive back pay. These nominees cannot draw pay for services as do those individuals who receive recess appointments, because the senate was in session when their names were first submitted.

Confer on Flood Control.

Mr. Roosevelt conferred during the day with representatives of various governmental agencies concerned with flood control, for which congress voted 330 million dollars. The act carries no specific appropriations but listed more than 600 projects upon which the fund could be employed. The President at his conference instigated a survey to determine which of the listed projects should be undertaken.

The conference was attended by Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes; Chester C. Davis of the federal reserve board, Dr. H. H. Bennett of the soil conservation service, Abel Holman of the PWA and Brig. Gen. George P. Pillsbury. They declined to comment on the conference other than to say they had been asked to consider the practicability of projects.

Murphy a White House Caller.

High Commissioner Frank Murphy of the Philippine Islands was a White House visitor during his efforts to arrange an economic conference between officials of this government and the Philippines. He said he will shortly have an announcement on whether he will enter Michigan's gubernatorial battle as a New Deal candidate.

Donald Richberg, former NRA administrator, was another caller of the day. He declined to discuss his visit beyond saying it was "a general conversation" and to admit he had discussed politics because he was interested in the campaign.

5,377 VESSELS USE PANAMA CANAL IN 1935-'36 FISCAL YEAR

PANAMA CITY, Panama, July 1.—(AP)—An estimated 5,377 ships passed through the Panama Canal in the 1935-'36 fiscal year, paying $23,460,000 in tolls, it was reported today.

These figures mark a 3.8 per cent gain in transits and a .7 per cent gain in tolls compared with the previous year. A 16.7 per cent increase in the number of ships and 13.7 per cent in tolls were noted in the last six months over the six months preceding.

The 1935-'36 figures are lower by 14.5 per cent in transits and 13.5 per cent in revenue than those for the peak year, 1928-'29. This year saw an increase of 1 per cent in total vessels over the ten year average from 1926 to 1935 inclusive, and a decrease of 2.5 per cent in tolls.

M'CARL LOOSES A 2D BLAST AT NEW DEAL COSTS

Ex-Controler Urges Aids to "Keep Faith."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 1.—[Special.]—A second attack on the New Deal, this time directed at administration attempts to overstep the legislative rights of congress in directing how public money should be spent, was launched today by outgoing Controler General John Raymond McCarl.

WILLIAM H. McREYNOLDS. [Acme photo]

The new blast was contained in a letter written to McCarl's employés, asking them to keep the faith with congress. McCarl, who retired from office yesterday after 15 years of guarding governmental expenditures, issued a statement Monday characterizing many of the New Deal agencies as "loosely and extravagantly set up and tax consuming to the extreme."

His Message to Fellows.

The message to his employés read as follows:

"While the blind and selfish resistance to law enforcement in connection with the use of public moneys, which was so widely encountered during the organization period of the independent accounting system, has in large measure subsided, the efforts appear now to be directed upon the congress for broader administrative discretion and wider latitude in the spending of public money—and, unfortunately, to have been meeting with considerable success.

"When the time comes, as it must, that a congress will determine to resist such importunings and resume control and direction of the uses of public moneys, it must look to and depend upon the independent accounting system as its only means of exacting obedience to its laws.

Fears Political Undoing.

"Don't fail that congress, and to that end it is of first importance that you do your full part toward maintaining and safeguarding the independence of the accounting system—independence from both executive branch and partisan-political domination—as either would work its utter undoing.

"You must expect periods of discouragement, as the forces you must constantly combat are powerful and resourceful, and it may appear at times that even congress has deserted you, but don't give up—don't even be downhearted; just keep fighting for law observance and honesty in government. Fortunately, such dismal periods usually induce beneficial reactions, so always remember that a resolute and purposeful congress will seriously need an efficiently functioning accounting system."

McCarl's statement was interpreted as a thrust at such executive action as was taken by President Roosevelt when he started the Passamaquoddy "tide harnessing" project in Maine and the ship canal in Florida with relief funds. Neither project had been authorized by congress.

With McCarl's leave-taking, considerable speculation arose over his successor. It was learned that Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. is urging the appointment of his administrative assistant, William H. McReynolds, to fill the post. Control of the office would add to the great power Morgenthau already wields over fiscal agencies of the New Deal.

McReynolds, practically an unknown in the New Deal except as a man Friday for the treasury secretary, would be given the office from which McCarl retired yesterday after fifteen years of guarding governmental expenditures. Upon his leave taking McCarl issued a statement criticizing administration emergency measures as "loosely and extravagantly set up and tax consuming to the extreme."

Might Control Two Offices.

Should Morgenthau succeed in placing his man in office he would control two highly important offices that in the past have been independent agencies.

Morgenthau controls the budget bureau, which was created as an entity solely independent of the treasury and answerable only to the President. When Lewis Douglas quit as director of the bureau two years ago because he could not agree to the administration's fiscal policies, notably the colossal spending, Daniel W. Bell, a treasury man, was made acting director, and as such is still serving.

The post of controler general was created by congress fifteen years ago and in that office McCarl enjoyed such absolute independence that he said no on pet spending proposals of the President and Mrs. Roosevelt as unlawful and made it stick.

In addition Morgenthau keeps his finger in the affairs of the Farm Credit administration, which has lent in excess of 3 billion 600 million dollars. Morgenthau was governor of the FCA before going to the treasury. His man, W. I. Myers, is now serving as governor.

The treasury secretary also wields considerable influence in housing affairs and many alphabetical agencies.

Whether McReynolds will be boosted into the controler general's seat depends largely on the fortunes of politics. Senator Pat Harrison [Dem., Miss.], who is being opposed by his colleague, Senator Theodore Bilbo, in a reëlection fight, has been promised the controler general's job if he loses out, it was reported. As chairman of the finance committee of the senate, Harrison has faithfully "carried water" for the New Deal in many a fight.

BROADCASTS OF TWO CONVENTIONS COST NBC SUM OF $265,457

New York, July 1.—[Special.]—The National Broadcasting company spent $265,457 in presenting the proceedings of the Republican and Democratic national conventions to radio listeners, it was announced today by the NBC statistical department. The major item of expense was cancelation of commercial programs already booked, which totaled $170,248.

The Republican convention total was $144,114. Commercial time cancelations amounted to $94,614, salaries to performers $36,000, and engineering expenses, payments to commentators and general program expenses, $13,500.

The Democratic convention, though it lasted a day longer than the Republican convention, cost only $121,343. Commercial cancelations totaled $75,634, salaries to performers, $31,209, and commentators, general program and engineering expenses, $14,500.

U. S. COMMISSION OFF FOR EUROPE TO STUDY CO-OPS

3 Man Group Will Begin Work in Sweden.

New York, July 1.—(AP)—A three man commission under President Roosevelt's orders sailed today for Europe to study huge consumer coöperative organizations and possible application of their methods to the numerous coöperatives already formed here.

The commission, which is to make recommendations to the President on its return, is composed of Jacob Baker, assistant Works Progress administrator; Leland Olds, secretary of the New York State Power association, and Charles E. Stuart, New York consulting engineer.

Begin Work in Sweden.

The commission will begin its work in Stockholm, flying there from London, and will visit Finland, Czechoslovakia, France, and the British Isles.

Stuart toured Europe last year for the President to report on international trade and export credit conditions. He retired June 1 as executive vice president of the Export-Import bank of Washington.

Baker said the commission, officially entitled "the inquiry on coöperative enterprise in Europe," is specially interested in coöperatives dealing in foodstuffs, clothing, water power, and health, and other personal services.

Plan Coördination Study.

"We also are instructed to study the methods of coördinating farmers and city workers' coöperatives," he said.

The commission's departure coincided with publication today of a book by Henry A. Wallace, secretary of agriculture, in which he said the nation must "become actively imbued with the idea of a coöperative society."

Stuart is carrying with him a volume by Bertram B. Fowler, "Consumer Coöperation in America," which asserts the movement already has attained a permanent foothold in this country with an enrollment of two million American families.

Fowler states the British Coöperative union "embraces half the families in England and Scotland," and that in Sweden "it has broken or brought under control every trust."

Stuart commented the consumers' coöperatives have sometimes entered the production field, "but only where they have been forced to take this step by monopolies."

MISSISSIPPI EDITOR SCATTERS TOKENS AS SALES TAX PROTEST

Tupelo, Miss., July 1.—(AP)—Staging a one-man demonstration against the 2 per cent Mississippi sales tax, J. Fred Price, editor and publisher of the Tupelo Daily News, went up and down the main street today tossing a hatful of sales tax tokens into the street. A curious crowd at his heels picked up the tokens to use in paying the tax.

"When the sales tax was passed four years ago under the Conner administration," Price said in his paper, "there was an urgent need for such a levy. But Mississippi is out of the red now. . . .

"The money collected from this source is being wasted by a bunch of politicians, who do not even collect enough money to pay their own salaries."

THE INSTANT YOU STEP ON THE STARTER—over 100 metal parts inside your motor start moving. Unless your oil flows quickly—instantly—to all these vital spots, the parts run "dry" of oil and serious wear results!

IT IS EASY TO MAKE A "TOUGH" OIL merely for high speeds and high heat—or a FAST-FLOWING oil merely for quick starting. The problem has been to combine BOTH of these important qualities in the same oil.

One Start can cause more engine wear than a 2-mile-a-minute Grind

This new Fast-Flowing Oil reduces strain of today's "Stop-and-Go" driving

THE average driver starts his engine over 3500 times a year!

The "strain" of starting is far greater than before. Pistons travel up and down in cylinders twice as fast... separated from the cylinders by only one two-thousandth of an inch.

The starting period, automotive engineers say, can cause approximately three-fourths of engine wear.

To meet this new problem in today's "stop-and-go" driving, Shell engineers have developed a new oil at a cost of $3,000,000.

The new Golden Shell Oil is FAST-FLOWING, yet TOUGH.

It flows instantly in starting—even on the coldest days. Yet under intense motor heat, the new Golden Shell holds its body and resists breaking down into sludge and carbon!

It is possible for the recommended grade of the new Golden Shell to:

1. Add a year to the life of your engine!
2. Save you up to 50% of your engine repairs. (Many repairs can cost from $10 to $100.)

HAILE SELASSIE TALKS TO THE LEAGUE.

The league of nations might well be willing to trade in its new ten million dollar palace for a good answer to Haile Selassie, who appeared before the embarrassed assemblage asking it to behold the victim of misplaced confidence in the intentions of altruistic powers. Efforts to persuade the exiled emperor to be a good sport, take his licking and forget it were earnestly made but unavailingly.

Selassie had been told by fifty-five nations big and little to stand up and fight; that Italy couldn't intimidate them. He did try to fight. In his speech he reminded his hearers that he might have saved his face and something substantial besides if, realizing the odds against him and his country, he had compromised with the Italians and recognized what they said was their properly dominating interest in his country.

He might have added that as he looked at the map of Africa and then at the representatives of many large powers in the assembly hall he could perceive where Italy got the idea that his country belonged to it. However, he had been told that times had changed. For all the weaker peoples of the world he made his fight, for the scheme of collective security which would guarantee the small against the aggressions of the large.

The idea was noble. He was told that the league was undeviatingly devoted to it. He believed what he was told. With primitive equipment and few supplies he tried to hold his land against a military power supplied with everything. Fifty-five nations backed him up. They would make Italy come to terms by cutting off trade in necessary materials. Sanctions would enforce peace. Selassie was before the assemblage to show how they did. They did not do him any good because they were not meant to do him any good. Each nation which had promised him support and ultimate victory consulted its self-interest wherever it was involved and the pledges only betrayed him. If that ended the matter then the covenant, the league and all pretensions of collective security were done for. All small nations knew what to expect when their turn came.

There are some able evasionists in the assembly at Geneva and sharpening their wits they may be equal to the job of replying. Possibly something can be done with the rains and the mountains. Climate and topography did not rally to the defense quite as predicted and expected. Then the league was shocked to learn that the Italians used gas. The sanctionists were caught unprepared there. They hadn't expected to be gassed in this campaign which they were fighting on the home front. Probably silence would be the best policy, with a private word of condolence in the cloakroom. Sorry, old man. You were great while you lasted, but we can't have everything, you know. Better luck next time. Where are you spending the summer? If you're in town give us a ring.

The Swiss police, who are properly touchy on the point of law and order on their native soil, dragged all the Italian correspondents to jail. A bit of international trouble may develop out of that. The Italians tried to give Selassie a Bronx welcome and the police pounced on them. Switzerland is overrun by altruists and occasionally must remind them of the dignity of the land. Switzerland is one of the smaller nations and is put in the middle, but it keeps its hat on when the larger ones wear theirs.

THE SOURCE OF CONGESTED HIGHWAYS.

Certain hearings now in progress at Washington regarding the extent to which eastern railways may serve their patrons appear nonsensical in the extreme. The carriers seek authority to offer complete transportation by calling for freight at the shipper's warehouse and making deliveries at the consignee's door, as the express companies have done for years. It should be their right without asking. The practice has existed in the east to a limited extent for a number of years and is in full force in the southeast and west. It amounts to a substantial reduction in freight rates because shippers and receivers now are obliged to employ draymen at their own expense to haul goods between railway freight sheds and their places of business. This last phase gives the situation a particularly ironic twist when it is remembered that the interstate commerce commission has just ordered the same lines to reduce passenger fares on the theory that lower charges to the public will stimulate railway travel.

The present incomplete railway service was instituted in an era of radically different conditions. When father bought a stove the dealer may or may not have made delivery at the home, but the head of the family certainly installed the ornamental zinc platform, attached the legs, and fitted the stovepipe. He also laid his own carpets with much pounding of fingers and suppressed profanity, and connected the icebox with the basement drain to prevent the daily kitchen flood from the overflow of the drip pan. Mother and the kids toted the family groceries from the corner store. Such a thing as dealer service was unknown. All of this has been changed within the last thirty years—except in the case of railway transportation. The managements are absolutely correct in their contention that the annoyances of "cash and carry" offer a far more potent resistance to the flow of traffic to the lines of the railways than any superefficiency offered by highway carriage.

Public opinion, incensed by the usurpation of the highways for freight service, is gaining momentum, and unless the interstate commerce commission tempers with common sense the fictions of fairness that it has set up to hamper the railways there is going to be a substantial liberalization in transportation laws. It is one thing to regulate the common carrier so that it will be a public servant rather than the master of national destiny. It is quite another so to enmesh management in red tape as to destroy efficiency, thus forcing freight to the highways, where it will take all the pleasure out of motoring. To the owner of the automobile the roads he has built are at once a means of transportation, a source of entertainment, and the key to a vacation.

THE TRADE BALANCE.

The state of our foreign trade is a measure of the success of the New Deal. The Roosevelt administration has attempted to bring up exports by planning. Two principal means were employed to that end. The first was devaluation. The dollar was reduced in size to lower prices to foreigners. Before devaluation a $700 automobile cost a Hollander 1,736 florins. After devaluation a $700 automobile cost a Hollander 1,029 florins. That kind of reduction all around will get the business, brain-trusters reasoned. The other means employed to stimulate exports was reciprocal tariffs. We cut our import duties to countries which agreed to cut tariffs in exchange. The two methods taken together would do the trick, Mr. Roosevelt said.

At the end of three years of taking these powerful stimulants the foreign trade must be in a high state of exhilaration. But this condition has not come to pass. During the first five months of the year the volume of our exports is actually $3,392,000 less than our imports. Three years of Roosevelt planning of the export business has given us an adverse balance of trade. The size of it is, of course, no cause for alarm. We face no disastrous loss of gold.

But the adverse balance is important because it was not accompanied by an increase of exports to anything like pre-depression proportions. The five months export total is actually less than in 1931, when Mr. Roosevelt first began to feel that the condition of the nation required his personal attention. One of the reasons for the failure of the New Deal in foreign trade planning has been that other policies have been pursued which have counteracted the export stimulants. Thus Chicago as the center of the meat packing industry expected much from the planned revival of foreign trade. But restrictions on pork production have resulted in making Chicago a market for Polish hams. The New Deal planning of foreign trade has resulted in turning a leading export into a leading import. Those who formerly worked at the stockyards and cannot find a job now are on relief because of the failure of the New Deal management of foreign trade.

GOV. LEHMAN WILL RUN.

Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Farley seem to confess a doubt as to the pulling power of the nominee and party chief. Gov. Lehman of New York has yielded to urgent pleading that he run again and save Mr. Roosevelt's home state for Mr. Roosevelt. Former Mayor Murphy of Detroit is being talked to. Apparently he is needed there on the state ticket to give the New Deal wings.

When there is great confidence in a national ticket the state candidates tie themselves to it and hope to be pulled along if the chief candidate takes the country in tall stride. They do not expect to better his vote, but to take advantage of it. Usually in doubtful states they win or lose with the head of the ticket.

Mr. Farley is regarded as a knowing politician of the practical sort. He makes a blunder now and then, but it's unlikely that he's taken in by any pep talks he makes. When he goes out to bolster up the national ticket by hunting out vote getters in the various states, conscripting them to help out his chief, it would indicate that in his opinion his chief will need all the help he can get.

Editorial of the Day

TO A HAM SANDWICH.
[Beardstown Illinoian-Star.]

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE of recent date reprinted an editorial in which praises of cherry pie were sung to high heaven, and the Illinois State Register some time previously lauded to the cloudy altitudes the tasty attributes of strawberry shortcake, but we have yet to find any editorializing on that most American of American lunches, the ham sandwich.

It doesn't take an expert to make a ham sandwich. All you need is a couple of slices of fresh bread, thinly buttered, a slab of lean ham about an eighth of an inch thick and some mustard. Those who go in for the contention that things edible must first be pleasing to the eye may use a bright green layer of lettuce in the sandwich as a sort of appetizer. There are two schools of thought in this connection, but whether the lettuce is used or not, the ham sandwich is still a satisfying morsel.

The beauty of the ham sandwich lies in this—that almost anybody can make one. Here is the foundation of many a picnic feast, or noonday snack for the steel worker, mechanic, engineer, banker, lawyer, or stenographer. The dangers of hash, ham salad, chicken salad, peanut butter, olive nut, and other fine and fancy sandwich fillings are not encountered in ham. It is good wherever you get it, be the seller a restaurant counter hop, a drug store soda jerker or a carnival concessionist.

We shudder to think of the fate of those who attend the state fairs, the county hog-calling contests, the free fish fry, the homecoming, the centennial celebration, or the carnival if there were no ham sandwiches. Destined to feed on hamburgers and hot dogs many an unsuspecting fellow would go home with a stomach ache and indigestion, but while the ham sandwich lives the American can attend the ball game, the Indianapolis races, and the political conventions without fear in his heart.

And so while others sing of cherry pie and strawberry shortcake we call for a rising vote of thanks to the man who concocted that simple combination of ham and bread and mustard—the ham sandwich.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

MR. ANSERMET, the w. k. Swiss orchestra conductor, says: "Americans are becoming radio deaf. Tired of the radio, they turn it on, but never listen to it." Oh, Mr. Ansermet, you're telling me! I know one hostess who has three radios going strong in the dining room while dinner is served. And neither the hostess nor any one else pays the slightest attention to them. And I know a man who has a radio in his library, his sitting room, and at the head of the stairs, all blaring and jazzing and whooping it up all day long and half the night. And he never seems to hear them unless one of them stops. Then he gets into action at once and never quits fussing with it until it's going again. It must be a habit; people like the radio so much they must have it going all the time. But as for listening to it—oh, not at all. It's just become natural to us, like the sun or the sky, trees, flowers, and birds, day and night, summer and winter. It's only when something goes wrong with the radio that we pay any attention to it.

THE GARDEN WITHOUT THE WOMAN.

Somewhere in the old land of Arum,
Lost in the mist of the ages,
There stands a walled garden
Enclosing dead orchards;
At the gate, sagged on its hinges,
Weeps an aged angel,
And his sword, once so flashing,
Is tarnished by time and its blows . . .
For when Eve went out of the garden
There followed the red birds and roses,
The peacocks and panthers,
And even the snails and all serpents—
Save one panting python,
Half choked on a great red apple . . .

When Eve went out of the garden—
The garden of the four rhythmic rivers,
Out of the garden went beauty
And all the meaning of beauty;
For what is a rose
Apart from the breast of a woman,
Or a bird of wide-spreading plumage
At song in a tamarind tree,
Or the sinuous loveliness
Of the fawn-colored leopard?

The garden was glorious that evening
When Eve went wailing beyond it,
Out to the thorns and thistles,
And an earth yet barren of beauty . . .
Then the lion leaped at the shut gate
And the tiger clawed at the high walls;
Then the Paradise Bird thought it was night
And covered its head with its wing;
Then the fireflies sent not their signals
To light the path of the lovers . . .

Lo! A man, eluding the angel,
Ran crying after the woman,
Out to the wolds of the world,
Content with its trouble and toil
And the strange beads on his brow;
And He who fashioned the garden
Smiled at His wisdom—
And the wisdom of woman.

ABORIGINE.

THIS IS JULY! Only July the First as I write this, but from somewhere down our usually very quiet street comes the boom of a cannon firecracker. I wonder how many children will blow out their eyes, get lockjaw, and even be killed because America cast off the cruel yoke of Great Britain one hundred and sixty years ago? And why does firing Chinese firecrackers prove that one is a hundred and ten per cent American. Ah, that is something that neither you nor I nor anybody else knows anything about. Some day we will have nice big institutions with separate stone-walled cells and heavy iron doors and we will put the Fourth of July celebrators in them with all their fireworks and let them boom-boom to their hearts' content. We won't hear them and they can be taken quietly to the hospital or the morgue after they get over their patriotic debauch. And everybody will be happy.

ME? I shall spend the Fourth of July locked up in the bathroom and reading the Declaration of Independence and Lossing's "Handbook of the Revolution." A bit dreary, I grant you, but the day after I will still have ten fingers, my fair face will not be freckled with gunpowder, I will have both eyes, and all my cuticle will be right where it belongs. Oh, of course, the bathroom will not be soundproof, but I will have cotton in my ears and wear my winter ear muffs.

The Flutist and His Instrument.

The silver flute is your walking-stick upon an airy road
to heaven.
It breathes, rings, lifts to sweeter peaks
than ever were in mountain or in cloud.
Sometimes it seems impossible that you can follow
where you lead.
Man is limited
but the flute, given breath,
is unrestrained.

JEANNE DELAMARTER.

AND THE FOURTH OF JULY is even more dangerous than it used to be. We generally admit that mixing gasoline and likker is a bad thing, but on the Fourth of July nowadays we mix gasoline, likker, and gunpowder. Making what is often called one hellovamess. R. H. L.

THE AUTUMN OF LIFE.

OLD age creeps upon us imperceptibly. It is like the period of twilight that follows the setting of the sun. But what a grand opportunity it offers of seeing the stars that are invisible by day.

We need not look upon old age as a disagreeable period of life—one associated with infirmities and blessed [?] with suffering. We can equip ourselves for the later decades just as we prepare for youth and the years of our greatest productivity. Every one should be anxious to avoid or reduce to a minimum the period of decrepitude. But it will require the observance of a few simple rules of health.

Most important of all we must realize that as physical powers decline the mode of life must be adapted to a new situation. We must take seats among the audience and resign our positions as actors upon the stage of life. The lessons of moderation must be acquired. At all times there should be maintained a reserve of energy as a bulwark against possible disease. This means exercise, an occupation, and perhaps a hobby.

Long before the retiring period has thrust itself upon the scene, preparation should have been made. We must ask the question, "What activity may I engage in that will bring joy and satisfaction to me and at the same time be of service to others?" Whatever the decision, it should be in agreement with the powers of the individual and his natural bent. No task requiring great mental strain should be undertaken. Details should be carried by others and pressure of accomplishment should never be permitted.

One can find great delight in chatting with older persons, learning their points of view and absorbing some of the wisdom of experience. The happiest are those who are the most contented, who find fruitfulness in labor, and who have acquired a philosophy of life free from jealousy and carping criticism. One of the choicest of my friends has surrounded himself with a group of young men who meet at his home occasionally and discuss their problems with this sympathetic sage. He is doing a better job in vocational guidance than the most elaborately organized university department. He has pointed the way for scores of young persons, giving direction to their natural talents. Furthermore, he keeps in touch with their employers and sometimes detects weaknesses long before they become apparent, thus providing for correction without discouragement. I remember very well one of his talks to a group of a dozen or more of his protégés. On this particular occasion his subject was the uselessness of anger; the unproductivity of controversy. With almost uncanny logic he described the physical dangers of allowing the emotions to run riot, the effect on blood pressure, and the possible mental damage. He himself in earlier years had been compelled to conquer a tendency to sharp, cutting retorts. No one could fail to be impressed with the sincerity and soundness of the lesson.

More than 25 centuries ago Hippocrates, the great Greek physician, enunciated the doctrin that elderly persons should not be too strictly confined to a rigid diet. The more we learn about foods the more sane does this dictum appear. No one relishes distasteful food. In fact, even its digestibility may be doubted, otherwise why would nature provide the sense of taste?

Regardless of its nutritive qualities, if one food is preferred over another, let that be the article of choice. Few individuals will go wrong. If diet is so monotonous that it cannot be consumed with zest it will cease to be adequate. Most persons will desire fresh fruits, green vegetables, and the requisite amount of protein [meat].

One of the unhappiest octogenarians I know had confined himself to a strictly vegetarian diet because he thought it the thing to do. His joy of living was enhanced a hundredfold when he was told that meat at least once a day was not only safe but proper. If a cigar or a pipe two or three times a day is desired, there is really no contraindication. A moderate amount of good tobacco "will draw wisdom from the lips of the philosopher."

As age advances more sleep is required and there is no substitute as a restorer of vital energy. Sleeplessness, on the other hand, is one of the penalties of narrowed arteries, a weakened heart muscle; hence poor circulation. A nap in the middle of the day is often a necessary part of the program. A fifteen minute walk before bedtime, a hot bath, a glass of warm milk, or even a mild sedative may be helpful.

Mental poise will solve most of our old age problems. This means good hygiene of the mind; a kindly interest in people and in things.

Let the frosts of life come with their mellowing influence, tinting our natures with the gorgeous colorings of autumn leaves!

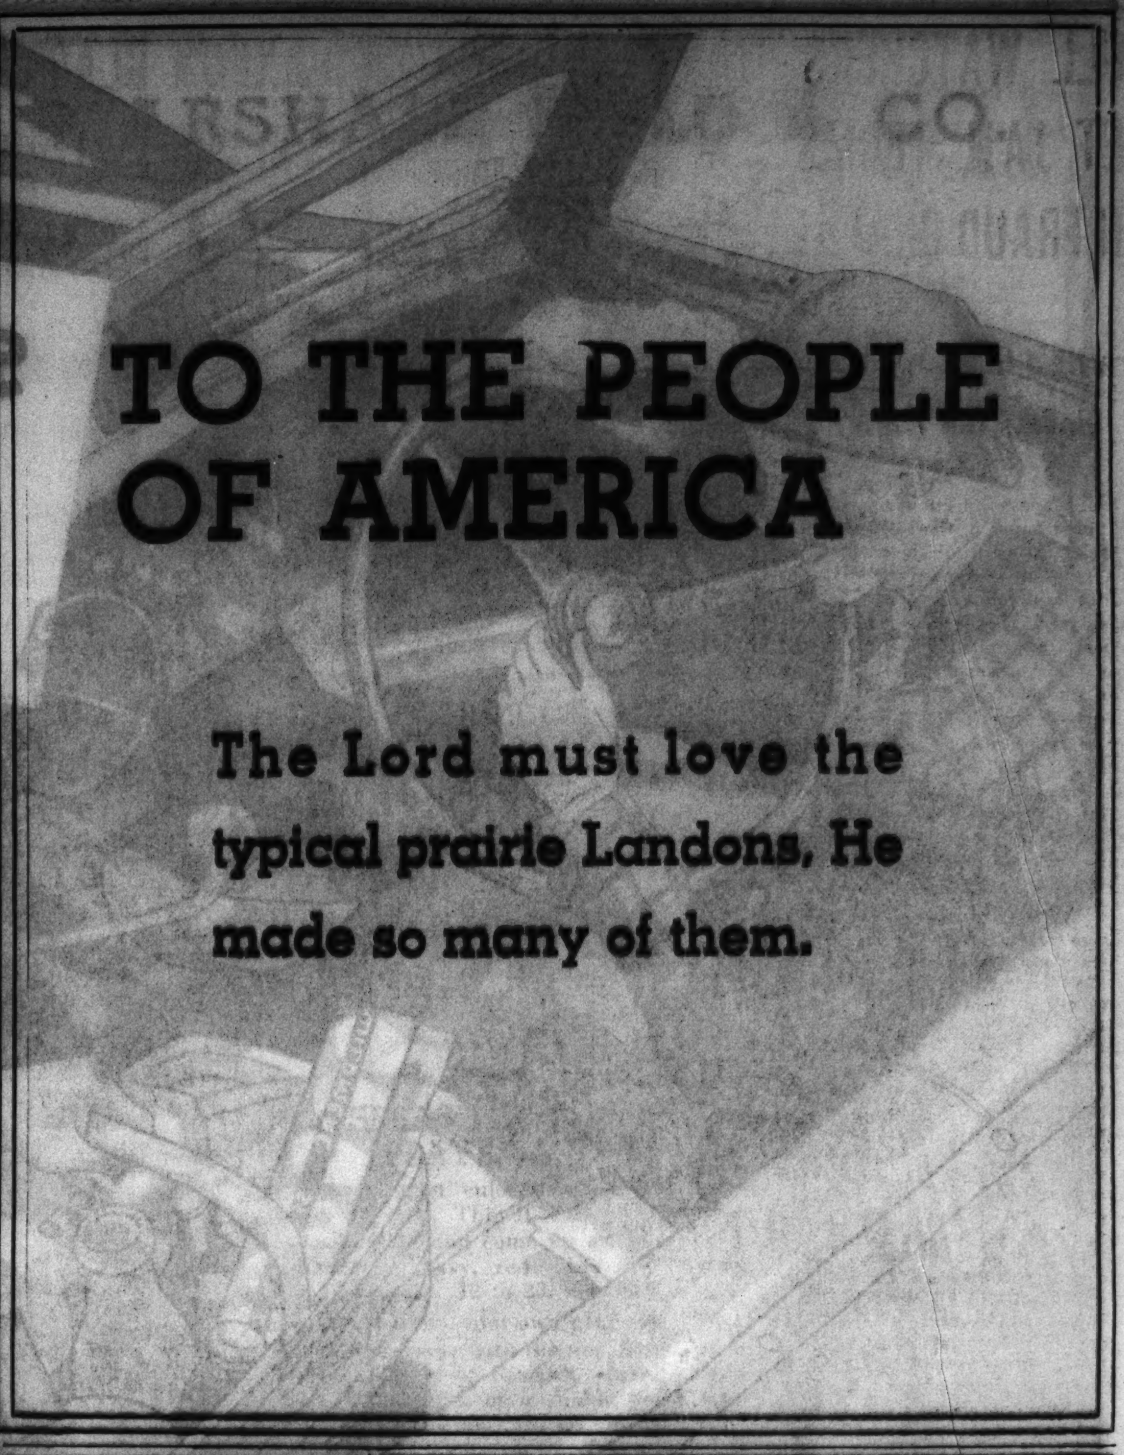
PROMISSORY NOTE.

Rockford, Ill., June 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—During June, 1931, I signed a promissory note for $200. 1. This note bore no date it should fall due on nor [2] did it bear any interest rate. There were no other signers, as the note was practically forced upon me when I was unemployed. Now the holder has given me notice to pay up. So far I have not paid any interest or principal. I am in no position to pay now. 3. What can the holder of this note do? 4. Can he force the payment of this note?
E. W. Y.

1. Such an instrument is regarded as payable on demand.
2. The maximum that can be stipulated for by contract is 7 per cent per annum in ordinary cases. An agreement to pay more than the legal rate is usurious and only the principal can be collected. In absence of agreement as to interest, 5 per cent is allowed after due on notes or other instruments in writing; on money lent; on accounts settled; on money received to use of another and retained without owner's knowledge; on money withheld by an unreasonable and vexatious delay, and on judgments.
3. He can take judgment against you unless you have some defense.
4. Depends on your assets and income.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.



DAY BY DAY IN THE MAKING OF THE CONSTITUTION

BY JAMES MADISON.
[Father of the Constitution and Fourth President of the United States.]

Loaves and Fishes Bribe the Demagog

Philadelphia, Pa., July 2, 1787.—In convention. On the question for allowing each state one vote in the second branch as moved by Mr. Ellsworth of Connecticut, Massachusetts no, Connecticut ay, New York ay, New Jersey ay, Pennsylvania no, Delaware ay, Maryland ay. Mr. Jenifer being not present, Mr. Martin alone voted. Virginia no, North Carolina no, South Carolina no, Georgia divided, Mr. Houston no, Mr. Baldwin ay.

Mr. Pinckney of South Carolina thought an equality of votes in the second branch inadmissible. At the same time candor compelled him to admit that the larger states would feel a partiality for their own citizens; they might also find some common points in their commercial interests and promote treaties favorable to them. There is a real distinction—the northern and southern interests. North Carolina, South Carolina, and Georgia in their rice and indigo had a peculiar interest which might be sacrificed. He read his motion to form the state into classes with an apportionment of senators among them. Gen. Pinckney of South Carolina was willing the motion might be considered. He did not entirely like it. He proposed a committee from each state be appointed to devise and report some compromise.

Mr. Sherman of Connecticut: We are now at a full stop and nobody he supposed meant that we should break up without doing something. A committee he thought most likely to hit on some expedient. Mr. Gouverneur Morris of Pennsylvania thought a committee advisable as the convention had been equally divided. He had a stronger reason also. Every man of observation had seen in the democratic branches of the state legislatures precipitation, in congress changeableness, in every department excesses against personal liberty, private property, and personal safety. What qualities are necessary to constitute a check in this case? Abilities and virtue are equally necessary in both branches. Something more than that is now wanted. The checking branch must have a personal interest in checking the other branch. Vices as they exist must be turned against each other. The aristocratic body should be as firm and independent as the democratic. If the second branch is to be dependent we are better without it. To make it independent it should be for life. It will then do wrong, it will be said. He believed so. He hoped so. The rich will strive to establish their dominion and enslave the rest. They always did. They always will. The proper security against them is to form them into a separate interest. The two forces will then control each other. Reason tells us we are but men and we are not to expect any particular interference of heaven in our favor. He hoped there was strength of mind enough in this house to look the truth in the face. He did not hesitate to say that loaves and fishes must bribe the demagogs. A senate for life will be a noble bait.

[On the question for sending the question of representation in the senate to a committee the vote was nine ay, New Jersey and Delaware no. The committee selected was composed of Mr. Gerry of Massachusetts, Mr. Ellsworth of Connecticut, Mr. Yates of New York, Mr. Patterson of New Jersey, Dr. Franklin of Pennsylvania, Mr. Bedford of New Jersey, Mr. Martin of Maryland, Mr. Davie of North Carolina, Mr. Rutledge of South Carolina, and Mr. Baldwin of Georgia.]

ON BUYING A HOME.

Chicago, June 30.—We married at the start of the depression, have one child, and don't owe a cent. Our income was small but steady, so we managed to save a little. We thought of buying a small frame home for around $3,500, with 10 per cent down and around $35 a month, but when we went to the real estate offices they laughed at us and wanted $1,000 down.

How in the world can any one expect a young couple to get a home if they have to put so much down? We have six years' rent receipts and all paid bills to show our honesty; and even if we bought a house now we would be 45 before it was paid for, and who wants to be paying for a house when they are old?

I notice all the government loans are going to build big residences, and I am beginning to believe in that old saying, "Money goes where money is."

A HOUSEWIFE.

AN ANNOYING STOPLIGHT.

Chicago, June 30.—Your correspondent, H. S. R., is surely one of thousands with the same thoughts concerning that most obnoxious and unfair stoplight at the Saddle and Cycle club.

What is still more inflaming is the recent presence of a policeman—more public money being spent—to enforce on the citizens a most foolish stop for the exceptionally unfair and little used pleasure of the club members.

That stoplight is a standing and constant menace to the members rather than the imagined protection. It is and will be the creator of dissatisfaction—a living and glaring basis for all the vituperative language of Roosevelt and his supporters in socialism and the New Deal. It proves his contention that "special privilege, economic royalists, entrenched greed, moneyed interests" are accomplishing the dire ends he so wrongfully ascribes to capitalists as a whole.

A private watchman, privately paid, will, I am sure, receive every courtesy from passing motorists, and the club members will have ample and correct protection. As one of those to whom Roosevelt speaks when referring to capitalists—and in self-protection and the desire to see that all such unfair and damaging instances of "drag" are denounced—I demand that the club remove the stoplight. It is 100 per cent wrong, and some day will, if not removed, be the cause of more indirect damage to the club members and their interests than any possible good it can do them.

I wonder what Judge Gutknecht would have to say to a motorist who refused to recognize the stop. Some day he will have to decide—merely as a test case—and will that be interesting?

CAPITALIST.

QUESTIONS.

Chicago, June 28.—I voted for Hoover—would vote for him again and will vote for Landon. Therefore I must be dumb, which makes it impossible for me to understand some questions, to wit: If for 12 long years of dawn before the sun rose in March, 1933, the rank and file of the American people were enslaved by those awful selfish interests—and had nothing, how was it possible for the New Dealers to borrow several billion dollars from them the next year or so? If the people had nothing how could they have lost money in banks? Why worry about the banks closing or boast about the banks being safe now if only the selfish rich need them?

Let the big bad money changers take it away from the selfish rich—why worry? Why all this talk about saving homes, farms, etc.? If the people never had anything before 1933 how could they buy an equity in a farm or home?

This present mob in Washington are full of bunk, but it may take some of the people four more years to find it out. I hope not. WORRIED.

GRANDILOQUENT.

Lafayette, Ind., June 29.—Saturday night we listened to a modern Pompey from whose lips came as grandiloquent a salutatory as ever rang through the halls of ancient Rome: the dramatic voice of the orator rising to a mighty climax which would not give way to the cheers of the multitude, as in the self-effacing tones of a martyr he declared, "I accept the commission you have tendered me. I join with you. I am enlisted in the fight for the duration of the war!"

In other words, "I, and my genial three-vantage-points Farley, take the commission for which we have already fought to the limit of our time, strength, and the 4 billion 800 million of the taxpayers' money, plus the $1 subscription gently demanded from every loyal citizen [Democratic, of course, radical, or what have you?] plus the $2.50 for the book on Democracy, which will now finance the campaign whose goal I so modestly, so unselfishly, hope to 'accept'!"

Well, perhaps the classic oration fooled the donkey, but not the canny elephant.

MERELY A WOMAN.

WE HOPE FOR THE BEST.

Oshkosh, Wis., June 28.—When Senator Robinson notified President Roosevelt of renomination last evening I plainly heard him say it was done at "the Democratic national convention held at Chicago this week."

Just a slip of the tongue, of course, but now the query: Was the notification regular or must we have it done over in regular form? F. C. WALKER.

POLL WATCHERS GET JAIL TERMS ON FRAUD CHARGE

Are Held Guilty of Letting Ballots Get Away.

Three judges of election, who served only three hours in the 57th precinct of the 11th ward on primary day, April 14, were sentenced to one year each in the county jail by County Judge Jarecki yesterday for contempt of court in permitting ballots to get out of their possession.

The officials sentenced are Peter Stankus, 29 years old, 631 West 34th place, Republican judge; John Josephitis, 27, 837 West 33d place, Democratic judge, and Peter Bendix, 29, 846 West 33d place, Republican judge. Their attorney, Max Lurie, said he would petition the State Supreme court for a writ of supersedeas.

Arrested Primary Day.

Police from the office of the board of election commissioners took the three in custody on primary day after the polls had been open only three hours. The ballots were found in the possession of Philip Zimmerman, 808 West 35th street, who was arrested outside the polling place at 3548 South Halsted street for slugging a Horner worker. The ballots dropped out of his trousers as he was being taken to the election board office.

Zimmerman has been sentenced to one year in the county jail for illegal possession of the ballots. There were 17 of them, 10 Republican and seven Democratic. The Democratic ballots had been initialed by Stankus, and the Republican ballots by Josephitis. All three of the officials denied knowing how Zimmerman had obtained them.

"Shielding Some One."

"All I want to know," said Judge Jarecki in sentencing the three officials, "is how the ballots got outside the polling place. I think the defendants know more than they have told and are shielding some one. Under the law they were in full control of the polling place, and all I can do is to enter a finding of guilty."

Earlier Judge Jarecki had fixed bonds at $2,500 each and released 51 judges and clerks of election of 15 precincts of the 20th ward who had been taken into custody by deputy sherifs under John Ryan on contempt of court attachments. The attachments had been issued because of alleged violations of the election law on April 14.

Arrests Follow Complaints.

The arrests were the result of several months' investigation of complaints of fraud made to State's Attorney Courtney and the board of election commissioners by organizations and individuals. The deputies started out at 6 a. m. for the various officials' homes and took them first to the states attorney's office for questioning.

"The arrests are based on evidence of voting by non-qualified voters, ballots being cast for persons who did not appear at the polls, and in some cases judges marking ballots without the consent of the voters," said Wilbert F. Crowley, first assistant state's attorney. "We have ironclad evidence in every case."

Of the officials brought in 23 are women. Twenty-four other officials of the same polling precincts are sought but some of them have said they would appear voluntarily. The fifteen precincts affected are: 1, 4, 8, 17, 23, 25, 29, 31, 34, 35, 37, 38, 39, 44, and 47. There are only 47 precincts in the ward.

JAFSIE URGES LINDY TO COME ON HOME IN 84 LINE POEM

New York, July 1.—[Special.]—"O Lindy, come back home" is the appeal for the return of the Lindberghs to this country expressed by Dr. John F. Condon in the current Liberty Magazine.

He closes his eighty-four line rhythmic saga as follows:

"O Lindy, come back home!
Foreign soil is not your place
In any land on earth,
The spot for you is here with us,
The dear land of your birth.
Let no mean scoundrel drive away
Our hero, bold and brave.
Dear Lindy, come back home to us
Across the surging wave."

LANDON GLACIER CHRISTENED FOR G. O. P. NOMINEE

Governor Romps in Snow 12,286 Feet Above Sea.

BY WILLIAM O'NEIL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Grand Lake, Colo., July 1.—[Special.]—The last unnamed glacier in Rocky Mountain park was chistened "Landon glacier" today as Gov. Alf M. Landon and his daughter, Peggy Anne, crossed the Continental divide and descended into the western water shed to cast for trout.

During the forty-seven mile drive here from Estes Park, the governor and his daughter romped in the great snowdrift at the top of Fall River pass, 12,286 feet above sea level.

Landon displayed a fine throwing arm in a snow ball fight with newspaper men. He took particular delight in tormenting the camera men who were attempting to adjust their machines for a picture. The high point of the snow ball fight came when the governor and Peggy Anne led a chase in an unsuccessful attempt to wash a newspaperman's face with snow.

Fascinated by Scenery.

His first trip into this area so fascinated Landon that he was two hours late for his fishing appointment with Arthur J. Carruth Jr., Topeka publisher. The governor ordered half a dozen stops during the trip to permit him to survey the scenery.

At each stop the points of interest were described to the governor by Bob Collier, veteran guide, and Dave Stirling, landscape painter, who is known as "Estes park's greatest liar," both of whom christened "Landon glacier."

A herd of elk, a group of mountain sheep, and several deer were pointed out to Landon and his daughter as they were driven over the twisting mountain road by John Whitcomb, a member of the Kansas state highway patrol.

Governor Scoffs at Danger.

The christening of the glacier, which lies between Mount Julian and Mount Idaho, on the Continental divide, was done while Landon and Peggy Anne gazed across Forest canon, from a perilous perch on Window ledge, after others in the party unsuccessfully attempted to dissuade the governor from mounting the promontory.

At several other points on the trip Landon refused to heed warnings that the points of vantage to which he clambered offered chances of a dangerous slip into deep canons.

Landon displayed great interest in the flowers which managed to survive at the high altitudes. During the stop at Fall River pass he was surprised when Collier clambered up the mountain side to find a sunflower, which Landon immediately placed in his hat.

Immediately after his arrival at Grand lake, at an elevation of 8,300 feet, Landon christened the speedboat of one of his Topeka friends Miss Topeka with a bottle of water that had been brought from Topeka.

The return to Estes Park was made during the brief mountain twilight, Gov. Landon and Peggy Anne bragging about their catch of the day.

DINNER RESERVATIONS FOR G. O. P. WELCOME TO HAMILTON POUR IN

Requests for tickets to tonight's dinner at the Palmer House for John Hamilton, Republican national chairman, poured in so numerously yesterday that the arrangements committee had to provide greater floor space. Mr. Hamilton is to arrive at noon today, and is due to spend most of the afternoon at the new G. O. P. national headquarters in the Railway Exchange building.

More than 2,200 seats for the banquet were said to have been taken yesterday, and downstate is sending delegations from every congressional district.

On account of allotments of radio-time, the dinner is to start promptly at 7 p. m. Chauncey McCormick is to be toastmaster, and all Republican candidates for office who are present will be introduced to the audience.

In his address Chairman Hamilton is expected to outline the issues of greatest appeal in winning the west for the G. O. P. in November.

The dinner is given by the Illinois Republican finance committee. Mrs. Leslie Wheeler and Mrs. William H. Mitchell, co-chairmen of the women's division, reported yesterday that women are exhibiting much interest.

NATIONAL FARM HOLIDAY SESSION SPLIT ON LEMKE

Foes Want Party Built 'From Ground Up.'

St. Paul, Minn., July 1.—(AP)—The National Farm Holiday association convention became embroiled tonight in a bitter dispute over political and organization policies which threatened to split the group into several factions.

The argument reflected a deep rooted difference over whether the convention should endorse Representative William Lemke of North Dakota as the Union party's presidential candidate.

The resolution proposing that the association refrain from endorsing the North Dakotan expressed the belief that there should be a national Farm-Labor party "built from the ground up and not from the top down."

Want "Rank and File" Platform.

Sponsors of the measure contended such a party should embrace trade unions, farm unions, and farm cooperatives, which would draft a platform. This group took the position the Union party platform was framed by the leaders and not by the rank and file of the people.

The differences of opinion prompted W. D. Kane, Iowa Holiday association president, to bolt the convention, and John Bosch, Atwater, Minn., national president, to threaten to walk out.

Bremke Demands Agreement.

Oscar Bremke, state president for for South Dakota, also threatened to bolt the meeting unless certain agreements were made over voting powers.

One faction, which included several state presidents, demanded that voting rights be restricted to one vote for each state, or a slight modification of that provision, while another group wanted each delegate to have a vote.

The heated discussion in which Bosch shouted "for two bits I'd bolt this convention; in fact, I'd do it for two cents," interrupted consideration of a resolution which ignored Lemke's presidential campaign.

A voice from the floor shouted at Bosch, "No you wouldn't John."

HAMILTON HAILS G. O. P. PLATFORM AS CONSTRUCTIVE

He Assails Democrats in Ohio Speech.

Columbus, O., July 1.—(AP)—John D. Hamilton, new national Republican chairman, assailed the 1936 Democratic platform tonight as an effort "chiefly to hypnotize the voters" and lauded his party's declarations as "constructive, not merely an attempt at justification."

The Kansas lawyer, who piloted Gov. Alf M. Landon's successful campaign for the Presidential nomination, addressed the Ohio Republican convention gathered here to write a platform and organize for its state campaign.

"Apart from its realistic dealing with specific problems," Hamilton asserted, "there is a comprehension, a spirit and a confidence in the platform of the Republican party for which one will look in vain in Mr. Roosevelt's personal document.

Affect All Citizens.

"There is a comprehension that governmental policies, no matter how far removed they may seem, directly affect the affairs of every man or woman. . . . The initiation of every costly New Deal experiment, the birth of every expensive white rabbit, have meant just this—that every worker must reassess the value of his pay envelope and the budget of his family. . . .

"Behind each plank in the Republican platform lies this comprehension of the direct concern of the people with the affairs of government. And behind them also is a constructive spirit, not merely an attempt at justification. The platform written and adopted at Cleveland aimed at solving the problems that confront the nation.

"The platform written in Washington and adopted at Philadelphia seeks chiefly to hypnotize the voters into returning a particular political individual and his clique to power."

Compares Conventions.

The Republican chieftain, contrasting the Cleveland and Philadelphia conventions as "completely and entirely different . . . and above all different in their choice of candidates," continued:

"It is indeed fortunate for the nation that this was so. If, in short, the picture of the Republican convention had been a duplicate of the convention which just closed in Philadelphia, then indeed America might despair of restoring orderly and intelligent government through the traditional process of a free election."

Asserting there was "no need to doubt of the support that is being accorded our party, recreated so dramatically" in the Cleveland convention, the national chairman expressed certainty of victory in the November election.

Sees Strength in Unity.

"With a reunited party, with a realistic platform, with support daily increasing from all groups of citizens, and with a candidate of the caliber of Gov. Landon," he said, "we can enter this campaign with confidence. And let me add that the very unity which is our strength today is due in large measure to the character of our candidate. . . .

"Gov. Landon has the genius for creating unity; he has the habit of achieving victory. Under his leadership we need not doubt the issue."

WALLACE DOUBTS U. S. IS READY TO PLAN ECONOMY

SaysBalancedAbundance Is New Deal's Aim.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Henry A. Wallace, secretary of agriculture, who came to Chicago yesterday to talk over a corn-hog program with farmers and to lecture on the academic subject of "Agriculture and American Life" before the Contemporary Thought group at Northwestern university, questions seriously whether at this time the American people are ready for any definite planning of long time social objectives.

Rather wistfully, he told the audience that greeted him at the First Methodist church in Evanston that he wished the city people and corporation executives could "lift their eyes to the hills," but they don't want to do it now. He would have them see America as a great symphony, with liberty and discipline the great chords, and the general welfare the theme.

Little Pigs Squeal Again.

Only once did he strike out at the critics of the late AAA plowing under program. This came during the questioning after his lecture when he was asked:

"What about the little pigs?"

"Good heavens," he said humorously, "does anybody want to hear about little pigs again?"

A vote of hands was counted and the ayes had it. So he launched into his explanation of why it was desirable in 1933 to get surplus hogs, like export wheat and cotton, off the market, and how the Illinois and Iowa farmers, not the brain trusters or Prof. Rexford Tugwell, suggested it, and that it did no harm to the domestic market. One hundred millions of this pork, he said, went into relief channels. Then he asked:

"Is it any worse for pig manufacturers to adjust production than for pig-iron manufacturers? Industry plowed under its workers. Did any one point the finger of shame at them?"

"Balanced Abundance" Economy.

He objected to the phrase, "the economy of scarcity."

"Our program was never that," he said. "It was and is an economy of balanced abundance. Our economic objective is an increasingly balanced output of the things all need and want at a price low enough to pass into consumption—not undermining the democratic processes."

Discussing corporations, Mr. Wallace asked:

"Can the corporations learn to build up mass consumption in the same way they have built mass production? Can they set themselves definitly to work on the problem of increasing the purchasing power of both laboring men and farmers? Can they learn from the long time point of view that the greatest profits may be obtained by subordinating the profit motive to some extent and substituting for it in part the motive of serving the long time general welfare?"

On Experimental Scale.

It is possible, he said, that the barriers between city and country might be broken down, "but I question it unless we definitly decide as a nation that there are certain long time objectives in the general welfare which are more important than short time profits. This would mean definite planning, and I question whether we are now ready for this except on a rather small and tentative experimental scale."

Mr. Wallace is also rather skeptical about the weather and said that unless there is a good rain in the drouth states in the next three weeks the 1936 drouth will be as bad as 1934. He spoke of the changing weather conditions in the United States as probably calling for a definite federal program of help and mentioned the ancient race which lived for 23 years in the drouth section of Mesa Verde before being driven to new fields.

Mr. Wallace departed last night for St. Paul where he will continue conferences with farm leaders.

Prof. Baker Brownell, who presented Mr. Wallace to the audience, told his students that he hoped to get the Rev. C. E. Coughlin of Detroit to speak to them in August, although there was nothing definite about the plan. It is understood that in this event Dyche stadium might be used.

Tells of Accepted Change.

At a meeting with state committees and extension representatives from ten corn belt states, held in the Hotel Stevens yesterday, Secretary Wallace presented three alternative proposals to them in modification of the 1936 conservation program due to the abnormal drouth conditions. The third proposal was accepted.

"This modification," it was stated, "will enable farmers who planted as a result of the 1934 drouth or other unusual conditions an abnormally large acreage of soil depleting crops in 1935 to receive some soil conserving payment in 1936 for making a diversion to soil conserving crops from their 1935 acreage of soil depleting crops."

17 CANDIDATES OUT FOR CONGRESS SEAT OF REP. ZIONCHECK

Seattle, Wash., July 1.—[Special.]—As Representative Marion Zioncheck, the eccentric Democrat, sped toward home and supposed security here today, after a series of madcap adventures that caused his departure from the national capital, opposition to his avowed "comeback" attempt was steadily mounting in his home district.

Seventeen candidates, one a woman, already have declared their intention of seeking the young congressman's post and more are expected to join the race before he arrives Friday from his sojourns in the house of representatives, eastern jails, night clubs, and psychopathic wards.

Zioncheck had warned that "things will start popping and a lot of people will have trouble sitting down" when he starts his campaign for his own seat, but he may find things have started "popping" here sooner than he expected.

His woman opponent is Mrs. Mary O'Meara Pardee, 55, former woman's suffrage leader and school teacher, erstwhile London Times correspondent, and author of a grade school text book.

"I might be elected," she said, "with two laborites, two county-city politicians, two Scandinavians, two left-wing Democrats and two right-wingers, and two of everything else running."

Rockford, Ill., July 1.—[Special.]—James Palumino, a WPA worker earning $53 a month, must pay his wife alimony of $20 a month, Circuit Judge Arthur E. Fisher decided here today. Mrs. Palumino obtained a divorce on grounds of desertion.

Husband Wounds Wife and Self After Quarrel

Independence, Ia., July 1.—[Special.]—Herbert Benion, 28, of Walker, shot his wife and wounded himself here today. Both are at People's hospital. Physicians doubted that either would recover. A family quarrel was said to have caused the shootings.

WOMEN PLEDGE VOTE SUPPORT TO GOV. LANDON

Seek Million Members for New Deal Fight.

Toledo, O., July 1.—[Special.]—A pledge to work and vote for the election of Gov. Alf M. Landon as President and Frank Knox as Vice President and for members of congress opposed to the New Deal was adopted today by the Independent Coalition of American Women in convention here.

The organization, composed of Republican and insurgent Democratic women who are dissatisfied with activities of the New Deal, formulated a nucleus from which will radiate a nation-wide campaign to obtain the support of a million women voters.

Coalition members will conduct house-to-house canvassing and will endeavor to extend the campaign to every corner of the country. They will seek pledges from women voters to go to the polls in November in support of anti-New Deal candidates and to influence other women to vote against New Deal adherents.

Educational Plan Mapped.

Groups will be organized among women in business and industry and among foreign born citizens and colored women. Patriotic organizations will be asked to work with the coalition. District and state subdivisions will be formed and an educational plan carried on through them.

A statement of principles of the coalition, describing the great need of an organized movement among women to combat the "destructive forces" of the New Deal, was enthusiastically adopted at today's session of the two day convention.

"We believe that the issues in this presidential election transcend in importance all party lines," the principles stated.

"We believe in the power and effectiveness of women permanently organized and working together in a common cause.

"We believe in the principles of our American form of government as tested and developed through more than 150 years of American civilization and progress, and that the furtherance of these principles is the best assurances of safety, happiness, and prosperity to all citizens of the United States.

"We believe that most features of the New Deal violate these principles of American government, that they retard the natural forces of economic recovery, and that they tend toward the destruction of local self-government upon which American liberty is founded.

"Therefore, we, the Independent Coalition of American Women, do hereby pledge ourselves in the present political emergency to work and vote for the election of Alf M. Landon as President, for Frank Knox as Vice President, and for those members of congress who are opposed to the New Deal."

Speaking at a dinner last night, Grove Patterson, editor of the Blade, urged the women to join with Landon in "accepting the challenge of despair" because of the qualifications of the Republican nominee for President to bring the country out of its chaotic condition.

IOWA REPUBLICANS NOMINATE DOWELL FOR CONGRESS RACE

Des Moines, Ia., July 1.—[Special.]—C. C. Dowell of Des Moines, who has served as an Iowa congressman for 20 years, today was nominated in convention as the Republican candidate for congress from the Sixth district.

Dowell, who was defeated in 1932 by Hubert Utterback, Democrat, led all other candidates in the June primary but failed to get the necessary 35 per cent of the total vote cast.

Defeated candidates in today's convention contest included Dwight N. Lewis and Frank B. Hallagan, both of Des Moines; Ed M. Smith of Winterset, and the Rev. M. S. Wilkinson of Adel.

The Sixth district, normally Republican, is expected to elect Dowell this fall. Utterback, who has a larger non-partisan following in the district, did not seek renomination and was beaten by Gov. Clyde L. Herring for the Democratic senatorial nomination.

RULE ILLINOISIANS IN CAPITAL MUST REGISTER HERE

Election officials were of the opinion yesterday that any Illinoisans now employed in Washington, D. C., but who are residents of towns that come under the new permanent registration law, must appear in their home towns in person to register if they wish to cast a ballot—even an absentee one—in the November election.

The officials so construed a provision of the permanent registration law that all applicants for registration must appear in person. They pointed out that the Chicagoans can register at the election board office between Aug. 4 and Oct. 5, inclusive, or at their polling places Sept. 19 or Oct. 6.

FARM PROGRAM OF REPUBLICANS HIT BY WALLACE

Des Moines, Ia., July 1.—(AP)—Henry A. Wallace, secretary of agriculture, criticized the Republican farm plank as contradictory and lauded the Democratic as "clear and explicit" in a letter made public here today. Of the Republican plank he said:

"Stripped of its essentials, the Republican farm plank makes conflicting commitments to eastern capital and western agriculture.

"By its reference to the 'restrictive and coercive AAA' it denounces the principle of production adjustment. The monopolistic industrial groups which are back of the [American] Liberty league were eager that it should, despite the fact that they have exercised and still do exercise rigid control over their own production. . . .

"For the west, however, the farm plank urges policies to bring about an adjustment of agriculture to meet the needs of domestic and foreign markets. Every farmer knows that attaining such adjustments without any adjustment programs merely means forcing farmers out of production by bankruptcy due to low prices. . . ."

Of the Democratic platform Wallace said, "A good many people will disagree . . . but they at least know what the administration stands for.

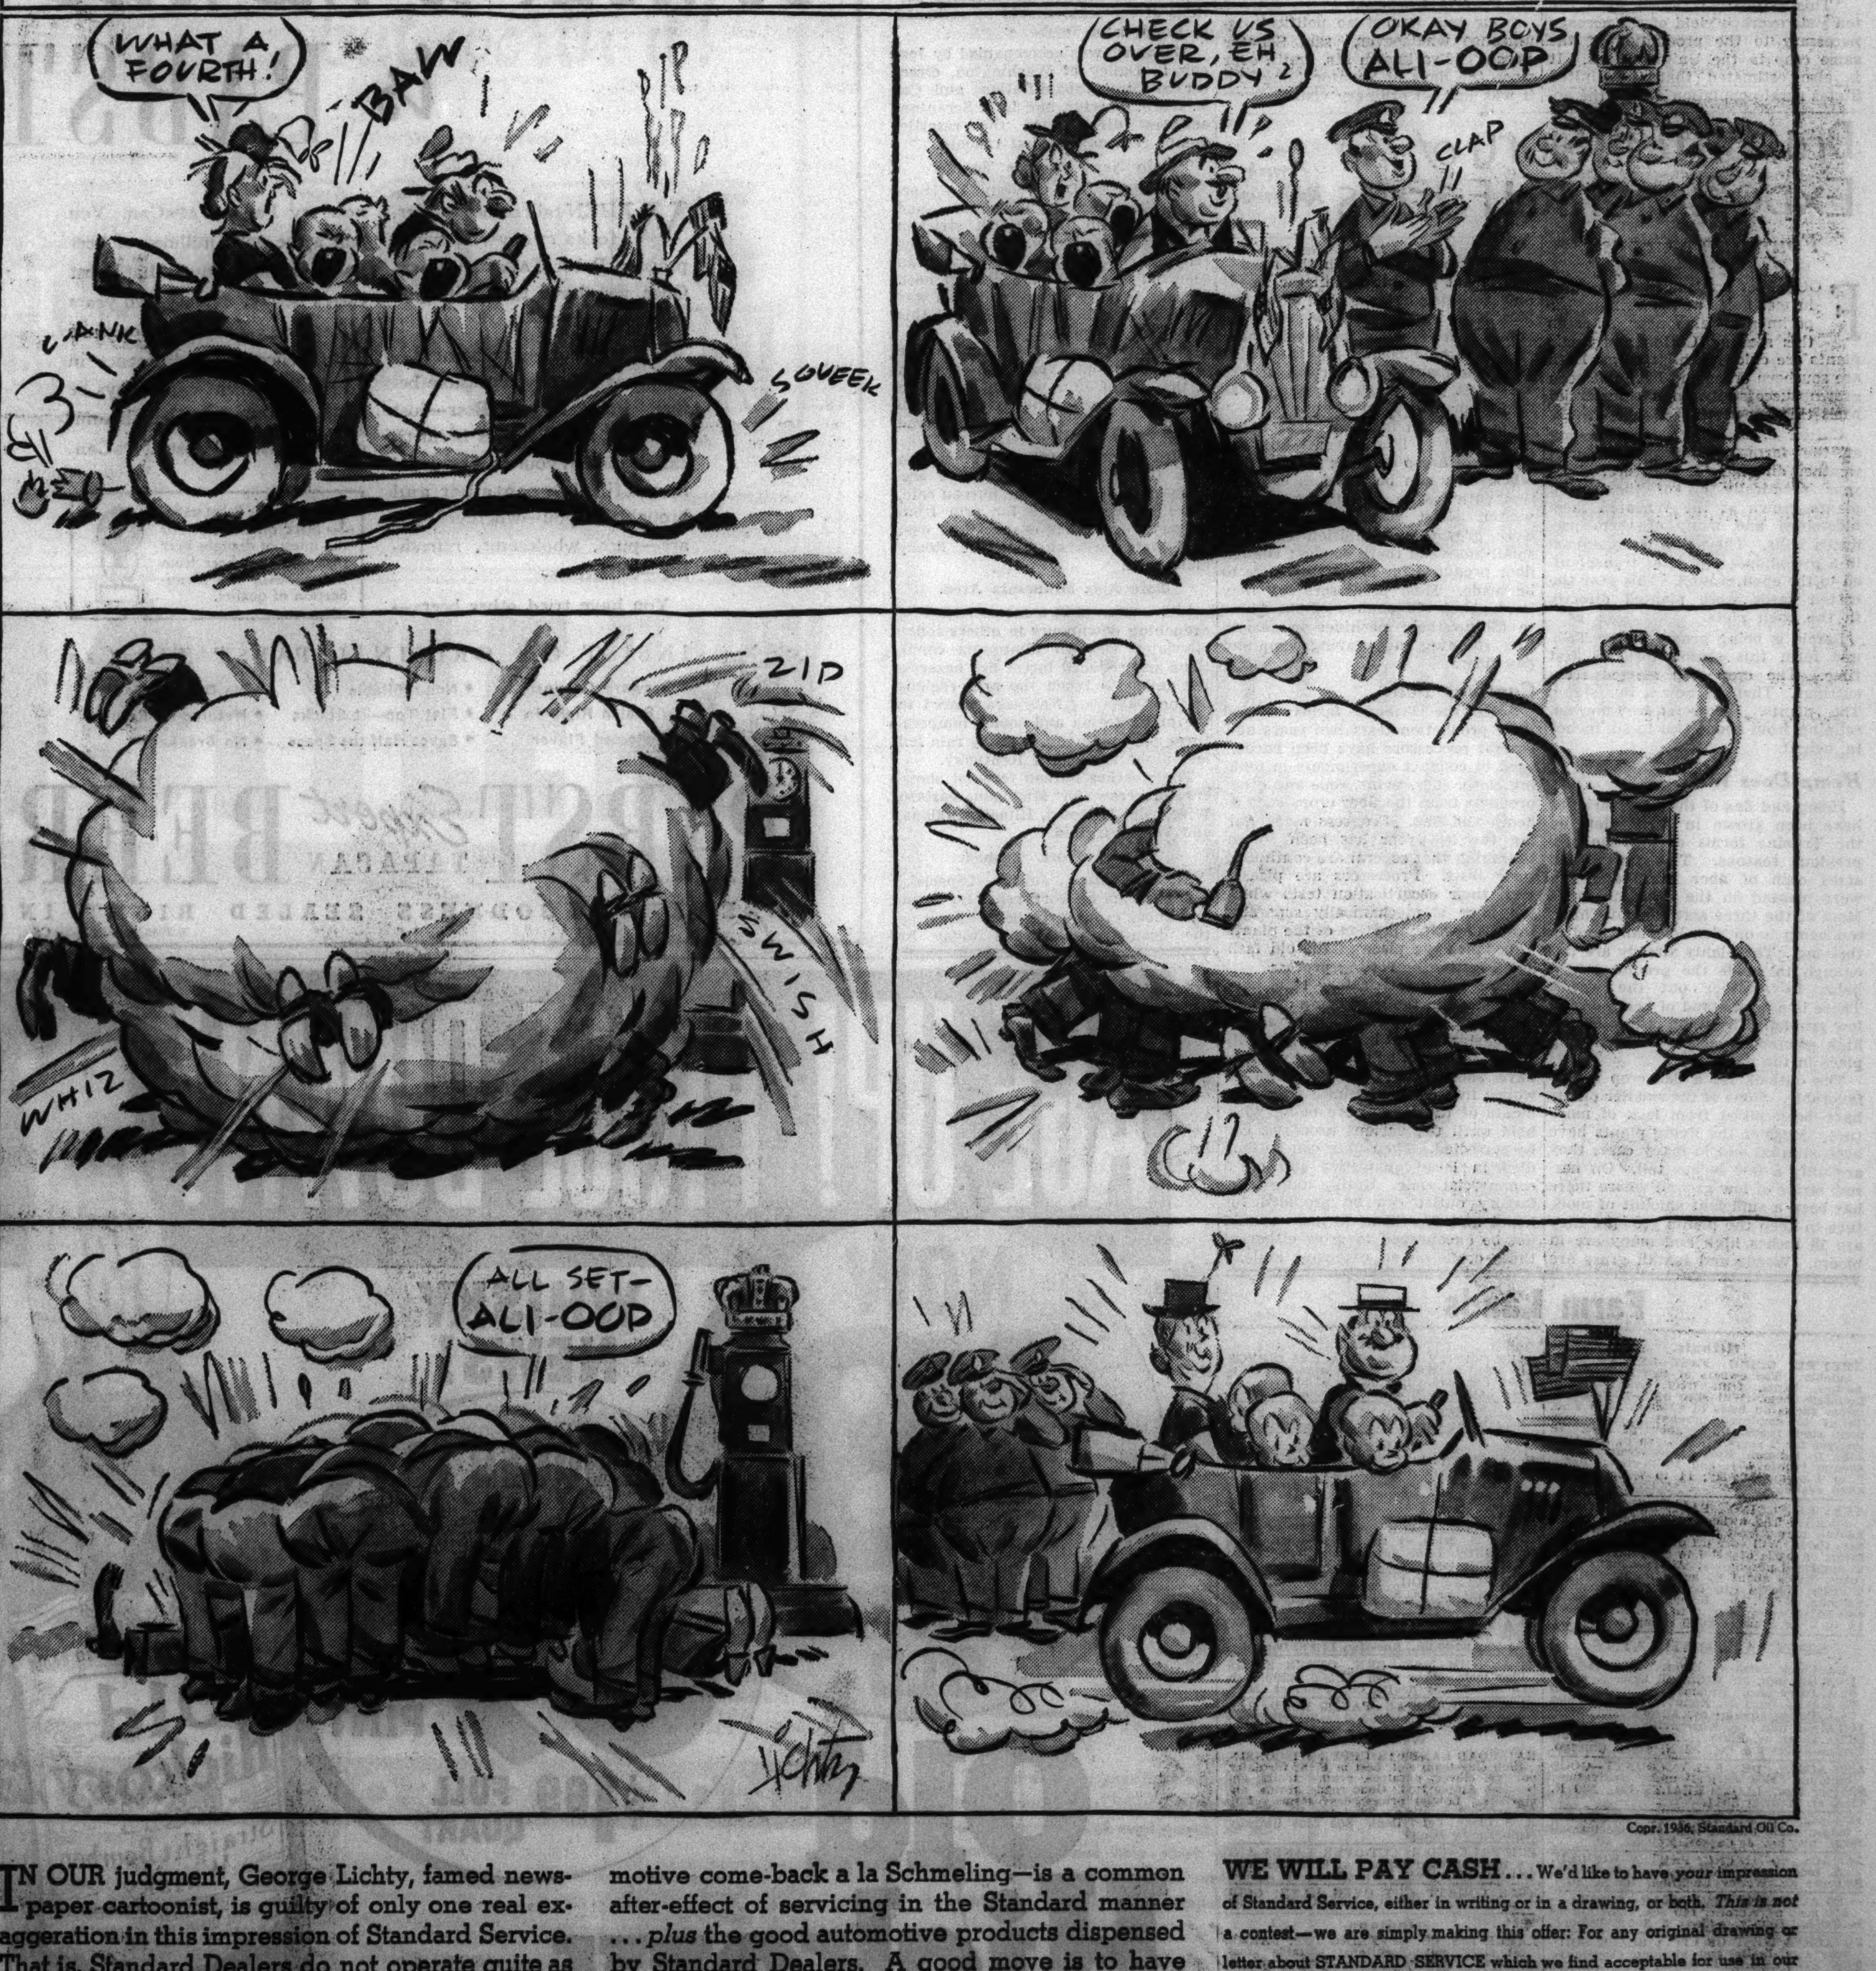
STANDARD SERVICE

AS SEEN BY Lichty



Copr. 1936, Standard Oil Co.

IN OUR judgment, George Lichty, famed newspaper cartoonist, is guilty of only one real exaggeration in this impression of Standard Service. That is, Standard Dealers do not operate quite as strenuously as depicted here. You may consider that a promise. But the revival of a car—an automotive come-back a la Schmeling—is a common after-effect of servicing in the Standard manner ... plus the good automotive products dispensed by Standard Dealers. A good move is to have your car completely readied for your Fourth of July trip by your nearby Standard Dealer now.

WE WILL PAY CASH... We'd like to have your impression of Standard Service, either in writing or in a drawing, or both. This is not a contest—we are simply making this offer: For any original drawing or letter about STANDARD SERVICE which we find acceptable for use in our advertising, we will pay ten dollars. Your nearest Standard Dealer has a card which will give you further details. Drive in and see him today.

FARM IMPORTS SEEN BY BORAH AS MAJOR ISSUE

Says G. O. P. Is Right in Aiding Farmers.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Senator William E. Borah of Idaho declared here yesterday that in the farming states the reciprocal trade agreements under which foreign farm products are competing with the American farmer in his own home markets will be a vital issue in the November election. He added that the G. O. P. farm plank adopted at the Cleveland convention states the right principle.

Senator Borah was in Chicago all day en route to his home state where he will speak at Pocatello Friday and at Grand Falls Saturday.

"It is my judgment," said the Idaho senator, "that the reciprocal trade agreements, especially as they affect farm products, are going to be a potent factor in this campaign. The farmer is unable to see, and I myself do not see, the wisdom of foreign farm products coming into this country when we are struggling to meet a farm problem based on producing more than we can sell.

Approves G. O. P. Plank.

"The true philosophy is that the American market ought to belong to the American farmer to the full extent of his ability to supply. I think the Republican platform on that subject states the true doctrin."

In line with Senator Borah's remarks, G. O. P. headquarters during the day made public an analysis of the invasion of the American farmers' home market under New Deal policies. The statement said:

"Imports of foreign farm products, aided by the Roosevelt crop reduction and free trade policies, displaced 33,436,336 acres of farm land during the year 1935 alone, an analysis of department of commerce reports reveals.

"Makes 1,714,000 Idle."

"This estimate is based upon the ten year average yield of the acreage necessary to the production of the same crop in the United States. It is also estimated that the United States rural population denied the opportunity for self-support by the 1935 importations is 1,714,000 persons. This does not include the 1,000,000 southern share croppers and farm hands thrown out of work because of the administration's cotton curtailment program.

"Imports all down the line—grains, meats, hops, milk, butter, eggs, vegetable oils and their substitutes, edible molasses, and many others—have multiplied, in some cases fifty or 100 times, under the New Deal."

Senator Borah was silent on what part he will take in the national campaign.

"I'll undoubtedly be around," he remarked with a smile, but he would not amplify.

Names His Subjects.

Asked if he expected to discuss national issues, he said: "Under whatever circumstances I speak, you may safely predict that I will discuss the issues of monopoly, money, and international relations." These were the three subjects which Borah emphasized at Cleveland, and on these the platform writers made the planks conform to his views.

Whether he might see Gov. Alf M. Landon, who is in Estes Park, Colo., the senator remarked: "I wouldn't say it was beyond the range of possibility that I might be seeing Gov. Landon while he is in Colorado, but I have no appointment."

Among Senator Borah's visitors during the day was the Rev. Gerald Smith, former right bower of the late Huey Long, and now a lieutenant of Dr. Francis Townsend.

"Our talk was of no political significance whatsoever," said Senator Borah. "I've known Mr. Smith ever since the days of Senator Long and it was just an ordinary visit."

HAROLD TEEN—HOPING FOR DIFFERENT REASONS

U. S. AID PLEDGED FOR DROUTH AREA IN SOUTH DAKOTA

Officer Sees Need to Change Land's Use.

Pierre, S. D., July 1.—[Special.]—Despairing farmers in South Dakota's drouth and insect scourged counties today were promised immediate subsistence aid and future assistance this winter.

The promise came from Federal Resettlement administration officials who stopped here to confer with state officials. W. W. Alexander of Washington, resettlement administrative assistant, said money already has been made available for immediate relief and that more will be available for winter.

"We did not find any crops between Mitchell and Pierre," said Alexander, who is on an inspection tour of the stricken area. "Crops seem to be wiped out. Most of the people probably will need help."

Sees Need for Land Change.

He declared that the present tour has convinced him there is a need in a great portion of South Dakota for a change in the use of the land. Many of the people he has conversed with, he said, believe much of the area in the central and western sections of the state should be returned to range land.

Alexander was accompanied by Joseph L. Dailey of Washington, director of rural rehabilitation, and Cal A. Ward, director, and L. L. Scranton, assistant director, of the resettlement's regional office at Lincoln.

Rain Need Exceeds '30, '34.

Washington, D. C., July 1.—[Special.]—As Secretary Wallace sped westward into the drouth stricken areas to determine what aid the government can give, the weather bureau reported today that the present need for rain is more widespread than was the case in either 1930 or 1934 at this season of the year.

The bureau reported that in the other two drouth years the situation at the end of June was not nearly so critical as now. The greatest crop damage of 1930 and 1934 occurred during July and August.

With serious drouth now prevailing over the principal agricultural sections of the country, the bureau said, there is urgent need for rain from Vermont and other eastern and east gulf states westward to the Rocky mountains.

Rain Aids Minnesota Area.

Light showers in some sections and drenching downpours in others today alleviated western Minnesota conditions and reduced forest fire hazards, but failed to reach the arid regions of the Dakotas. Nebraska shared in the precipitation and cooler temperatures accompanying. A heavy rain fell last night in eastern Kentucky.

The weather bureau forecast showers tomorrow for Michigan, eastern Wisconsin, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, and West Virginia.

Relief Work Rushed.

St. Paul, Minn., July 1.—[Special.]—A program of work relief for farmers whose crops have been ruined by the drouth was rushed today by Works Progress administrators of five states. They planned to provide employment for at least 25,000 and possibly twice that number of men within the next ten days.

Water Short in Illinois.

Springfield, Ill., July 1.—[Special.]—The weather bureau reported today that a water shortage is developing in Illinois and that rainfall during the week ending yesterday was generally inconsequential.

NATIONAL G. O. P. STAF MOVES TO NEW QUARTERS

Republican national headquarters were moved from the Palmer house to the Railway Exchange building, 80 East Jackson boulevard, last night without the loss of an hour's work.

When National Chairman John Hamilton arrives today, all 150 rooms—the new working space for the party—will be ready for occupancy, for the entire move was completed between sunset and sunrise.

The western division of the Republican national committee occupied the sixth floor of the Palmer house for the pre-convention campaign. But with the transfer of national headquarters from Washington to Chicago more office space became necessary and three floors were rented in the Railway Exchange building.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

by Frank Ridgway

Four Fiber Crops.

July 1, 1936.

FOUR fiber crops are being grown in test fields at the Tribune Experimental farm near Wheaton this season. Cotton and ramie plants are chiefly exhibit crops. Both are southern crops and have not been grown successfully on a commercial basis this far north.

Cotton is making a fair showing at the farm considering the cool weather and lack of moisture. Last year practically all of the cotton plants grown at the Wheaton farm blossomed and many of them produced bolls. The seeds were started in a greenhouse and later transplanted to the open ground. This year the cotton seeds were planted directly in the open plots.

Ramie is being grown at the Tribune farm this season for the first time. The crop was started from cuttings. There is now a fair stand. The plants, however, are uneven, ranging from about two to six inches in height.

Hemp Does Well.

Hemp and flax of the fiber varieties have been grown in small plots on the Tribune farms during the two previous seasons. This year three acres each of fiber hemp and flax were planted on the Wheaton farm. Most of the three acre plot of Chington hemp is on rich low land and is thriving. The plants already are tall enough to shade the ground, which helps to smother out the weeds. There is a good stand of hemp on the low ground. The stand is thin on the high ground, especially on a sloping place in the plot.

The outlook for a flax crop is less favorable. Some of the smaller plants have been killed from lack of moisture. Most of the living plants have been stunted and in many cases they are only a few inches tall. On narrow strips of low ground where there has been a sufficient amount of moisture to keep the plants growing they are 18 inches high and many are in bloom. Weeds and foxtail grass are seriously competing with the flax.

It is not possible to kill the weeds by cultivating because both hemp and flax seeds were drilled in rows six inches apart to avoid the development of undesirable coarse plants. Thick stemmed plants were grown at the farm last year when the hemp was planted in rows 36 inches apart.

The Wheaton farm manager hopes to produce at least several hundred pounds of hemp and flax fiber so that fabric tests can be made in coöperation with textile manufacturers next winter. Last year hemp and flax were grown as exhibition crops in small plots and there was not enough fiber produced for processing tests to be made. Most processors say they need about 500 pounds of the fibers to fill up their machines in garnetting, spinning and weaving hemp and flax fiber.

Continue Tests.

Since the Tribune farms started their production tests two years ago, several processors have been encouraged to conduct experiments in making cloth, rugs, twine, rope and other products from the fiber crops such as hemp and flax. Progress made during the last year has been so encouraging that several are continuing their tests. Processors are pleased with their decortication tests where the fiber is mechanically separated from the woody portion of the plants. This takes the place of the old fashioned retting or rotting process.

Some fairly satisfactory tests have been made in the garnetting or combing out of hemp fiber. Spinners have demonstrated that hemp mechanically decorticated can be spun and weavers have shown that the fiber can be woven into cloth. Definite announcements of these tests are being withheld until the various processes can be perfected. Then fiber can be handled in large quantities and on a commercial scale. Until a more satisfactory outlet can be provided for hemp and flax fiber, farmers should not be encouraged to grow either of these crops on an extensive scale.

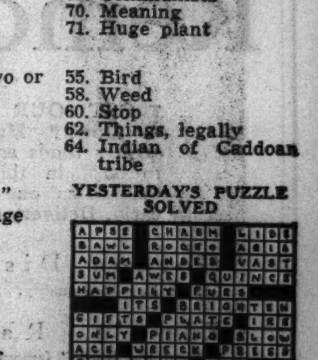
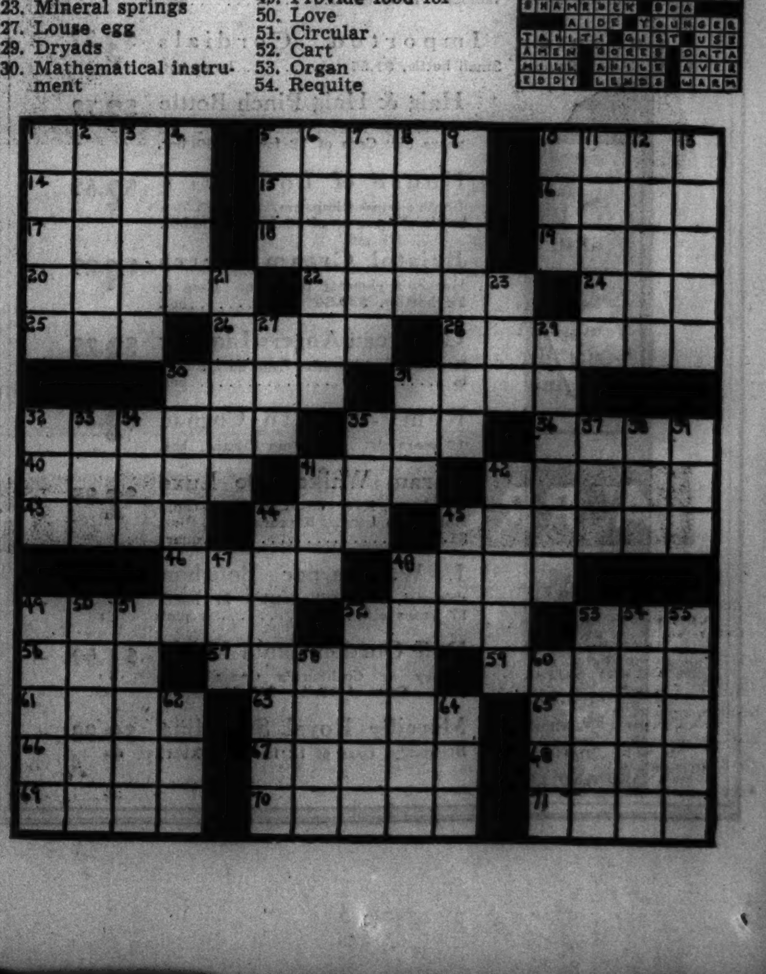
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED





PARIS TO RETAIN 2 YEAR DUTY FOR ARMY CONSCRIPT

Plans to Erect Forts on Swiss Border.

PARIS, July 1.—(AP) The French government, bent on keeping its army at top strength in troubled Europe, announced tonight it would retain provisions for two year conscript service.

Edouard Daladier, the minister for national defense, told the army committee of the chamber of deputies any shortening of the length of military service was "out of the question."

Early in 1935 the term of conscription was doubled to span the period when Frenchmen born in the world war's lean years were called to the colors.

To "Democratize" Army.

Daladier, however, said the army would be "democratized." This was taken as an indication he might try to reduce the bridge of class distinction between officers and men, without endangering discipline.

The senate army committee decided upon a detailed study, to be carried out by French military experts, of potential defense positions along the Swiss border.

Daladier characterized the 160,000 troops along the Maginot line of steel and concrete and at other points on the eastern frontier as "sufficient to insure the security of the border." The senate passed a bill increasing the strength of the mobile guard, after Daladier had stressed the unit's importance in maintaining order and guarding frontiers.

Fear Bastille Day Trouble.

Premier Leon Blum's leftist government, holding a new vote of confidence on its action in suppressing rightist leagues, faced but minor parliamentary hurdles before the chamber goes on vacation late in July.

However, Bastille day, the national holiday July 14, was awaited with anxiety because of the possibility of a rightist counterdemonstration to leftist festivities.

Today, five members of the dissolved Facist Croix de Feu [cross of fire], acquitted previously of a charge of robbing Socialist headquarters last April 16, were convicted upon government appeal. Two received suspended sentences; the others were fined.

Tension in both France and Algeria appeared to be relaxing, with fewer strikes on the domestic front. Eight Arabs were arrested at Ainrif, Algeria, on charges of participating in the lynching of a Jew.

The staf of the Opera Comique in Paris, from sopranos to stage hands, occupied the theater 350 strong, and made merry on the boards, with police guards as an audience. The performers demanded back pay, better treatment and dismissal of the manager.

20 Syrians Hurt, 100 Jailed as Troops Fight Rioters

BEIRUT, Syria, July 1.—(AP)—Twenty persons were reported injured and 100 were arrested tonight when troops broke up disorderly demonstrations for Syria unity in Suedia.

JAILED ARAB LEADERS BEGIN A SLEEPLESS AND HUNGER STRIKE

JERUSALEM, July 1.—(AP)—Arab leaders launched a foodless, sleepless strike at a government concentration camp at Sarafand today while disorders claimed their forty-third Jewish victim. The Arab chiefs refused food and mattresses on the ground that a number of their friends had been transferred to another camp.

Itzchak Glaeser, a native of Palestine, died at a Jewish settlement at Hedera of wounds suffered in defending the colony against an Arab attack. More than 140 Arabs, Christians, and Jews have been killed since April 15. Attacks on government forces, raids on Jewish settlements, sabotage, bombing, and guerilla warfare continued throughout the country.

The ten week old general strike gave signs of ending when Jaffa Arab merchants appealed to Jews to return, promising to rent them houses, flats, and shops and guard them against attacks.

CHINESE GRANT JAP DEMANDS IN SMUGGLING ROW

Agree to Withdrawal of Customs Cruisers.

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, July 1.—Chinese and Japanese newspapers today reported that Chinese authorities had surrendered to Japanese demands which followed the seizure of Japanese smuggling boats and the detention of a Japanese army officer in North China.

The Chinese paper Shun Pao stated that China apologized for seizing the smuggling craft and for firing on the Japanese flag. China agreed, the paper said, to withdraw its anti-smuggling cruisers from North China waters and also agreed to remove a number of Chinese customs officials. The smuggling ships were released.

Destroyers Go Back to Base.

As a result of the settlement, Japanese destroyers, which were dispatched from Port Arthur, returned to their base.

Maj. Gen. Seiichi Kita, Japanese military attaché stationed at Shanghai, arrived in Peiping this morning and delivered an ultimatum demanding the evacuation of Chinese troops from Fengtai as the result of the recent detention of a Japanese officer there by Chinese troops.

A Japanese report said Gen. Sung Cheh-yuan, chairman of the Hopei-Chahar political council, agreed to withdraw 600 of his soldiers. The Japanese then dispatched 800 troops to strategic Fengtai junction, a few miles south of Peiping, the report said.

Alters Rights of Americans.

JERUSALEM, June 21.—[By air mail and boat to New York].—Every day snipers' shots ring out on the roads just beyond the ancient city of Jerusalem. Bombs exploded in railway trains. Arabs and Jews are clubbed in street fights. Stones drop on passing automobiles driven by Jews. There are frequent knifings.

All Arabs have been on general strike since April 19. Since then the Arab population has been in guerrilla revolt for "freedom," for immediate termination of Jewish immigration, for autonomy.

Jews Organize Defense.

The dead are counted in dozens. The damage is tremendous. Business in Jerusalem is at a standstill. Since no Arab shop has opened in more than two months, no Arab workman has earned a piaster, and the greater part of the population is both penniless and desperate.

Says one important Arab leader, one of the "high committee" in charge of the strike who thus far has escaped the concentration camps set up for insurgents by the British holders of the Palestine mandate:

"This time we'll fight to the death. It's freedom or the end. Our men are getting desperate, harder to hold every day."

Says a Jewish leader:

"We want nothing more than to live in peace with the Arabs, to till our farms, conduct our businesses, worship in our churches."

Says a Jewish taxicab driver, his car just smashed by stones dropped from a roof:

"We won't take much more. We've got a haganah [defense organization]. We've got 15,000 men who've served in the armies of the world. We've got rifles and ammunition. We've been drilling."

Take Years to Recover.

Says a hotel owner:

"If the general strike and the fighting ended tomorrow, it would still be years before we recovered economically."

Quick action on the part of Great Britain, placating both sides with concessions, as in 1929 and 1933, may bring another truce. Desperate, the Arabs may break out in open, bloody rebellion, and the Arab is a great fighter.

Certainly, none of the measures of steadily increasing severity adopted by Great Britain has lessened the crisis. Despite a curfew law that clears all streets at 7 p. m., special decrees approaching martial law, proclaiming death as the possible punishment for peace violations, increasing her armed forces here to 10,000, patroling the street with trench helmeted soldiers carrying bayonetted guns, the disorders have increased.

21 PERSONS KILLED AS FLOODS SWEEP OVER SOUTH TEXAS

San Antonio, Tex., July 1.—(AP)—Twenty-one persons were drowned and fourteen others were missing tonight as raging south Texas flood waters laid waste to a wide area. The latest casualties were four members of a prominent family near Nixon, victims of the flood waters which swept away their home.

Mayor J. H. Murphy of Nixon reported the members of the family of Clarence Warnette of Hardy's Bluff were drowned after clinging to wreckage of their home in rampaging Big Sandy creek.

The drouth in this area was broken unexpectedly by an all night deluge that totalled 14 inches in one section and sent placid little Plum creek on a rampage that wrecked a Missouri Pacific train and claimed the lives of eleven of the known dead.

Water poured into the residential and business districts at Gonzales, sixty miles east of here, after a second cloudburst struck the town during midmorning. Water stood a foot deep in stores and some residences.

Thousands of acres of cotton and corn were ruined, and more acres faced destruction as the Guadalupe river, already five feet over flood stage at thirty-three feet, rose at the rate of two feet per hour. Hundreds of cattle were reported lost. Damage may run above a million dollars.

PROBATION FOR THREE YOUTHS.

Robert Jamieson, 23 years old, 3910 Fillmore street; Frank Bruno, 19, 3900 Fillmore street, and Carmen Altobello, 21, 3933 Arthington street, were placed on probation yesterday by Judge Thomas A. Green in Boys' court on larceny charges.

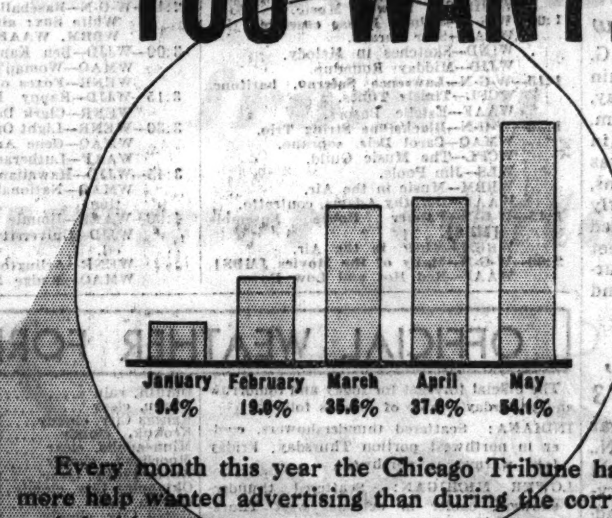
A BETTER CHANCE TO GET THE JOB YOU WANT!



Every month this year the Chicago Tribune has printed more help wanted advertising than during the corresponding period of last year.

In January the Tribune printed 9.4% more help wanted advertising than in January, 1935. February figures were up 19.0%; March volume gained 35.6%; April was up 37.6%; May topped May, 1935, by 54.1%; and during the first 29 days of June the Tribune printed 45.2% more help wanted advertising than in the same period of 1935.

With more jobs opening up in practically every line, everyone has a better chance to secure the kind of a job he wants. Turn to the help wanted columns of the Tribune want ad section. The Tribune prints three times as much help wanted advertising, placed by individual employers and employment agencies, as any other Chicago newspaper.

The Tribune does not knowingly accept help wanted advertisments which misrepresent the nature or terms of employment, or advertisments for sales help which do not indicate the type of product or service to be sold, and the form of compensation.

FREE—"Do's and Don'ts for Job Seekers" is a helpful booklet which every one seeking employment should have. Contains valuable tips on personality, application letters, conduct during interviews, the correct approach to your new job, etc. Get your copy free today at the Tribune Advertising and Public Service Offices, 1 S. Dearborn and Tribune Tower, 435 N. Michigan.

NEEDY GET CHEER AS FRIENDS SEND THEIR DONATIONS

Camp Algonquin and Ice Funds Grow.

Seven friends wrote to THE TRIBUNE free ice and Camp Algonquin funds yesterday.

"I am sending a little donation of thirty cents, all I am able to afford," wrote one, who signed her letter merely "A Friend." "I hope it will help a little."

"I am a widow and work four days a week, or I would send more," wrote I. M. Weeks, of her $2 enclosure. "It may help some poor mother take her children on the vacation or give them ice."

Some Send Anonymously.

And thus the friends of the seemingly friendless write in, sending their mites shining with kindness and love. Often the kindness is hidden, by request, in anonymity, as was the case of the friend from Geneva who sent $10 to the Camp Algonquin fund, and asked that only her initials be used.

From Homewood, on a child's orange and blue striped stationery, came $1.25 and a note from Beverly Ohlsen, 1625 Linden road: "Enclosed find money order for ice fund which we raised by giving a little show in Homewood."

And so the 23d season of the free ice fund and the 27th season of Camp Algonquin get under way, propelled by the warm hearts and open purses of readers of THE TRIBUNE. "A Friend" with a lean purse sends 30 cents. A friend with a plumper purse sends $10, but all are equally welcome.

Funds Already at Work.

Already 240 mothers and children, given free summer outings at Camp Algonquin through reader contributions and the United Charities, are nearing the end of their two week stay, coming home to make room for another 240. Already free ice tickets are mitigating the suffering of Chicago's needy and sick.

Recent conrtibutions to the ice fund are:

A friend	$ 0.30
In memory of Mrs. Eva Loeffler	5.00
A "little show" in Homewood	1.25
Previously acknowledged	1,422.04
Total	$1,428.59

Recent contributions to the Camp Algonquin fund are:

National Bureau for Advancement of Patriotism	$ 5.00
I. M. Weeks	2.00
J. Smith	10.00
E. R. G.	10.00
L. Muller	1.00
Previously acknowledged	318.91
Total	$346.91

If you can help, send your contribution to the Tribune cashier, Tribune Tower. All donations will be acknowledged gratefully. A gift of $9.10 will send a child to Camp Algonquin for ten days. A gift of $1 will keep a baby's milk cool for a week.

Boy Ventures Too Close to Lake; Slips; Drowns

Robert North, 7 years old, 6863 Crandon avenue, was drowned yesterday when he slipped from a concrete abutment into the lake at the foot of 66th street. He had been walking along the abutment with his dog. "Watch," the boy told his companion, Joseph Handler, 8 years old, 7008 Crandon avenue, "I'm going to walk a little closer to the edge." Joseph summoned a life saver from the nearly Jackson park beach who pulled the body from the lake.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Chicago radio names in the news: Guy Lombardo yesterday signed a 52 week contract with a new sponsor, calling for his services on a half hour Sunday afternoon musical program starting Sept. 6 over CBS. The new patron is the baking concern that now has Ramona and Jack Shilkret's music on an eastern network. The Lombardo show will go coast to coast and will run from 4:30 to 5 p. m.

The Lombardos will leave the Palmer house and W-G-N-Mutual on July 25 for a vacation before going east. They are likely to return, however, before so many months have passed, the hotel having taken an option on their exclusive services in Chicago for two years.

Ozzie Nelson follows them, but his singing wife, Harriet Hilliard, will not be with him because a storkcast is expected. Joy Hodges, who played with Miss Hilliard in "Follow the Fleet," will take her place with the band. Miss Hodges recently appeared with Abe Lyman here. She got her start singing with Carol Lofner and Ted Fio-Rito on the west coast.

The Cumberland Ridge Runners, rural harmony experts of WJJD, have just completed a movie short dramatizing Ted Weems' feud song, "The Martins and the Coys," which probably will be shown at the Chicago theater when Ted Weems opens there tomorrow. Doc Hopkins plays the part of old man Coy, Hartford Taylor is Abel Martin, Carl Davis is Henry Coy, and Slim Miller the narrator.

Don Ameche, young Chicago radio actor, who is being starred with Loretta Young in the color picture, "Ramona," and others in the cast will give a preview of the movie on Hollywood hotel Friday evening. . . . Henry Ford is reported to have sought Wayne King as a pinch player for Fred Waring while he is vacationing for the month of August. King is not available because his sponsor has exclusive rights to his services. . . . Helen Morgan, who is playing here in "The Scandals," will make her only Chicago radio appearance over W-G-N at 7:30, Friday, July 10. Willie and Eugene Howard and others in the cast will be presented on this show.

WAAF's new vertical radiator, soaring 330 feet above the stock yards, will be ready for use within a fortnight. It's the only single mast in the city of this type except for the new police network transmitter at Dunning. . . . "Girl Alone," serial featuring Betty Winkler, rounds out its first year on the air today. Beginning next Monday it will be sponsored over NBC's red network. . . . The National Association of Broadcasters will open its convention here next week at the Stevens hotel. But radio executives from 28 states are coming a day early to take in the WLS National Barn Dance broadcast at the Eight Street theater on Saturday.

Vivian Fridell, star of NBC's "Backstage Wife," which has just left the air for the summer, is to become the bride of Gerrit J. de Gelleke of Milwaukee on Aug. 29.

At a coroner's inquest later in the day Robert Byers, 203 South Ashland boulevard, brother of the slain man, said he and his brother had known the Spado couple for two years. "Mrs. Spado often told us how her husband mistreated her," he testified. The inquest was continued until July 9.

GRAND JURY TO TAKE A HAND IN BOYS' FLOGGING

Governor Delays Action to Call Warden.

Nashville, Tenn., July 1.—(AP)—The Davidson county grand jury, investigating charges of brutality at the state reform school, reported today the "savage whipping" of youthful inmates while they lay prone "praying and pleading to God for help."

"Society is being so outraged by this conduct that if the courts of the land can do anything to bring it to an end it is now time that we do so," the grand jurors said in a review of their findings.

Gov. Hill McAlister said he would "act shortly," but first wanted to check "several other angles." Before taking action, he said he would call in Supt. G. Newt Choate for a conference. The grand jury termed Choate "unfit" for his office.

Knew of Happenings.

"With ample allowance made for human sympathy of witnesses," the grand jury said, "there is a strong stream of evidence that the superintendent was fully advised of everything going on at the institution."

The report added that the superintendent "was not only advised of the terrible and inhuman treatment, but was near by when the boys were being savagely whipped with those long lether straps, and had heard boy after boy, lying on his stomach with his hands crossed, praying and pleading to God for help.

"This harsh and cruel treatment is so well known to everybody that mother after mother, testifying before our body, emphatically stated that they would rather follow their son to his grave than have him return to this institution."

Tells of Boy's Bleeding Back.

The jury quoted the testimony of a former matron at the school who went to investigate when "one very small, little boy" was slow in getting up one morning.

"His bleeding back had stuck to the bed clothes and it was covered with blood from wounds inflicted the night before for a small infraction of the rules," the report said.

"When she approached the superintendent in behalf of these little helpless children, her pleadings were denied and she was given to understand that he, the superintendent, was running that institution, and not she. She further testified that she had heard, with her own ears, a hundred and five lashes given to one boy."

"Would Have Shot Guard."

The jurors told of a witness who was so "outraged" at seeing a guard fighting with two boys that he said "he would certainly have shot the guard on the spot" had either of the boys been a relative of his.

A farmer living near the school testified, the jurors said, that he saw about 30 boys hoeing corn, one in each row, and a guard with a long strap walking from row to row "snapping this strap on the little fellows' backs."

'SNAKE PLOTTER' HEARS DEATH OF FIFTH WIFE TOLD

Barber Accused of Killing 7th Bride Loses Point.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 1.—(AP)—A story of the violent death of his fifth wife went into the record today of Robert S. James' trial for murder of his seventh wife—a crime the state charges was accomplished by rattlesnake poison and drowning.

Over strenuous defense objections, the prosecution won the right to present evidence concerning the death in Colorado four years ago of Mrs. Winona James, fifth wife of the red haired barber. At the time her death was attributed to accidental drowning in a tourist cabin bathtub.

Insurance Motive Charged.

The death of Mrs. Mary James, for which the barber is now on trial, also was attributed to drowning. Prosecutors claim James drowned his wife in the bathtub at their home after he submitted her to the bites of poisonous rattlesnakes.

Both deaths, the state charged, were motivated by an insurance plot.

J. A. Rogers, superintendent of the Pike's Peak highway in Colorado, testified he was summoned to the scene of an automobile accident in which Mrs. Winona James was injured in 1932.

Finds Bloodstained Hammer.

In the front seat of the automobile, he said, he found a bloodstained hammer. The automobile had dropped 200 feet over a cliff.

The back of the seat, where Mrs. James had been sitting, was covered with blood, Rogers testified.

Mrs. James recovered from injuries suffered in the automobile accident, but drowned in her cottage home a short time later.

City Vehicle Licenses Gain; Revenue Drops

City Collector Louis Rixmann reported yesterday that 415,895 city vehicle licenses were sold in the first six months of this year, as compared to 397,023 for the same period in 1935. But, due to a 20 per cent reduction in license fees instituted this year, the revenue from license sales was only $4,348,477 between Jan. 1 and June 30, this year as compared to $4,759,356 in the first six months of 1935. The 12 month total last year was $4,991,732.

REPORT CONFESSION BY MEMBER OF GANG IN NIGHT FLOGGINGS

Wilmington, N. C., July 1.—[Special.]—A self-styled member of the night riding Columbus county gang of men and women floggers today confessed and named eleven persons as members of the mob, according to a story published in a newspaper here today.

The account said the man declared the hooded riders had flogged various men and women of the remote Beaver Dam community near Clarendon because they were "undesirables." The man was quoted as pleading that his name be kept secret, because his revelations put him under "peril of death."

The paper also said it had obtained a signed and sworn statement from the man naming a preacher, a merchant, and three women as leaders of the gang accused of flogging numerous Columbus county women and men in the last few months.

The names were said to have been given to Solicitor J. J. Burney, who asserted he would go before the Columbus county grand jury this week to conduct an investigation.

SANITARY BOARD GIVES REPORT TO SUPREME COURT

The sanitary district completed construction work costing $6,769,157 during the first half of 1936, Ross A. Woodhull, president, said yesterday in a report to the United States Supreme court. The report is made semi-annually in accordance with the court's decree of April, 1930, directing that the amount of water diverted from Lake Michigan by the district be reduced to 1,500 cubic feet a second before Dec. 31, 1938. The work done on sewers and sewage treatment plants so far has cost $125,708,316, the report said, leaving $76,148,000 worth of construction still to be completed.

BY MARY MEADE.

Do you say ape-ricot or ap-ricot? Being assailed with a sudden doubt of my own accuracy of pronunciation during these many years, I recently sought refuge in "Web's Dick," as an uncle calls it. I was correct with my ape-ricot, it seems. But so are you correct if you say ap-ricot, for the dictionary says either is correct.

Fresh ape-ricots or ap-ricots, if you will, are at their best now, and it's up to us to use them in as many ways as possible. In salads, pies, ice creams, and in fluffy desserts, such as Bavarian creams and whips, fresh apricots are unsurpassed in pure deliciousness.

For a salad or mixed fruit dessert, combine peeled fresh apricots with fresh black cherries, fresh ripe plums, and seedless white grapes. Halve the fruit, pitted, of course, and serve with fruit salad dressing or with orange juice poured over the combined fruits if it is for dessert.

A good apricot pie may be made by peeling and mashing ripe apricots, sweetening them to taste, and filling an unbaked crust. Make a latticework topping of strips of pie pastry and bake in a hot oven [450 degrees] for ten minutes. Then reduce the heat to moderate [350 degrees] until the pie is baked. A pie usually requires about two cups of the apricot pulp.

Fresh apricot "shortcake" [not really shortcake, since sponge or angel food cake is used] will make a happy ending to your company dinner if you follow this recipe.

APRICOT SHORTCAKE.

¾ cup sweetened condensed milk
2 tablespoons lemon juice
¼ teaspoon salt
2 cups crushed apricots
Almond extract

Add lemon juice to condensed milk and stir until thick. Add salt and flavoring and fold in crushed apricots. Slice angel or sponge cake in two crosswise. Spread filling between layers and on top of cake. Cut in pieces and serve.

If you are making preserves, choose apricots with care. No blemishes or bruised spots are permitted! And apricots usually are canned or preserved in their skins, a process which simplifies the task quite a bit. Wash the fruit carefully and wipe it with a soft cloth. Then try this recipe.

Apricot and Pineapple Preserves.

3 quarts fresh apricots, halved
1 quart shredded pineapple
½ cup blanched almonds
4 cups sugar
4 cups water

Place the apricots and pineapple in the boiling sirup made with the water and sugar, and cook slowly until the fruit is tender. This will take about thirty minutes. Add the almonds, pack into clean hot jars, and seal immediately.

If you wish to can apricots by the open kettle method, drop them whole into a boiling sirup made of three parts sugar to two parts water. Boil gently until tender. Pack carefully into clean, hot jars, and seal at once.

For cold-pack canning, use one part of sugar to one part of water. Pour the hot sirup over the apricots, which have been scalded and packed closely in clean, hot jars. Process in a hot water bath for twenty minutes or in pressure cooked 10 minutes at 5 pounds.

Three new toilet waters are three elegant aids to summer charm and coolness. Take your choice of white camellia, white violet or a smooth carnation, each one perfect.

Three lovely toilet waters came a few days ago to delight our feminine heart and, incidentally, to save our sanity, which was seriously threatened by an early summer attack of columnist's nightmare, otherwise known as "What shall we write about?" fever. This last, by the way, is a dread disease all hopeful students of journalism should be warned about.

These toilet waters are charming; so much so they'll make the world seem that way, too. And they're no slouches in aiding and abetting your own personal charm.

One is in the fragrance of white camellia, cool and gardenia-ish and subtle as a siren's smile. It's the most sophisticated of the trio, we'd say—perfect as a daytime scent for the well dressed woman of charm and poise who prefers a soft mysteriousness to brisk crispness when it comes to perfumes.

Another is in the carnation motif, though it's a Russian name that will capture your imagination. It's not as spicy as most carnations, which some women will feel is all to the good. It has what, for lack of a better word, we'd have to describe as "softness." It's a good dress-up scent, but good for sports, too.

The third of the trio of toilet waters is in the beguiling and interesting scent of Russian white violet. We must confess that we are not a violet fan; we're just funny that way, and we think the vogue for violet is one of life's mysteries. But the violet admirers of our acquaintance tell us that this version in the toilet water is delectably lush without being cloying.

These are charming summer fragrances, all of them—nice for the hair, the flesh, and the bath water.

Esperanto Delegates Urge That Schools Teach Their Tongue

Detroit, Mich., July 1.—(AP)—Speaking a language which came into existence only a half century ago, delegates from several cities in the United States and Canada met here today to consider methods to encourage the use of their international auxiliary tongue.

The delegates were members of the Esperanto Asocio de Norda Ameriko, or Esperanto Association of North America.

The discussions were conducted in Esperanto, but Joseph R. Scherer of Los Angeles, president of the association, explained that they dealt largely with promotion methods:

"We are convinced that through a universal language alone will the great masses of all the peoples of the world be able to communicate clearly. One of our principal aims is to introduce Esperanto in the schools."

Scherer said there now are 4,000,000 Esperantists throughout the world.

Outdoor Girls Welcome Aid of Sun Lotions

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

"Why all this talk of sunburn lotions?" asks Reader, who adds that it seems just so much ballyhoo to her to load the public down with cosmetics they do not need. It wasn't so when Reader was a girl, she argues.

All the talk about lotions and preventives may seem unnecessary to the woman who still clings to the porch rocker as an ideal vacation. But to the motorist, cruise-goer, swimmers, golfers, hikers, and bikers, it isn't ballyhoo at all, but an answer to a highly petitioned prayer.

The sunburn products, true, are a fairly recent contribution to the cosmetic trade, but the demand is there in the great outdoor movement of the last few years. I think the trade deserves a great big hand for the manner in which it has met the summer needs. The great number of products on sale may be confusing, but their mission isn't. And that's with what we are concerned.

We want to know how to enjoy outdoor living with the minimum of sun discomforts. Some of us have longed for a nice becoming tan all our lives, and never were able to achieve one until the easy tanning lotions became available. And some of us have known what it is to be carried home from a vacation, after only two days of the planned two weeks, as pretty raw looking and badly suffering individuals. I've known that experience myself, so I feel eternally grateful that today one doesn't even have to wear a faint lobster glow if she takes along a good sun lotion.

A burn from the sun isn't a bit of fun. It's the same, really, as any other burn. Maybe not quite so severe, but covering a larger area. And burns are dangerous, with skin inflammation often setting in. Beach burns often are more severe than burns from inland exposure, so anything to prevent the ultra-violet rays from reaching down through a second skin layer and starting real trouble is more than welcome. These sun preventives not only lessen the intensity of the ultra-violet rays, but they have certain emollient properties which soothe and soften the skin.

In this connection, I would like to advise women to use their preparations more frequently during the day than they do. An application every hour on the beach is not too much if the skin is sensitive to burn.

Harshness Is No Way to Win Child's Respect

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"My mother used to switch me—O, how she used to switch me!" said a woman to me not long ago. "It was her only means of correction, but it never corrected me. It used to infuriate me and make me act worse and worse and worse.

"But my father," she went on, "would take me in his arms when I was little, and sometimes when I was older, too, and would talk things over with me, and explain them to me. I always obeyed him, but I can truthfully say I didn't love my mother."

When I was in school, I remember how shocked I was the first time I heard one of my school friends speak indifferently of her mother. It had never entered my head that every girl didn't simply adore her mother, and have a complete understanding with her.

What a pity it is when a girl is so treated that she cannot love her mother—and father! And what that mother loses by her system of coldness and severity! To add to those spiritual disadvantages, from the practical side the results are usually nil. A consistent obedience and cooperation never are achieved by this approach.

On the other hand, a quiet reasonableness behind which a mother's or father's real interest and love are sensed accomplishes really permanent and fundamental results. One gets a good working basis for all the years in that way.

For those that wish "documentary proof" of my argument, I have it upon the innumerable letters that come to me describing the failures that accompany spanking and harshness.

Miss Carolyn Ely Bride at Lovely Rites

Lake Forest Church Filled for Ceremony.

BY INDIA MOFFETT.

Fifteen minutes before petite Miss Josephine Carolyn Ely entered the church of the Holy Spirit in Lake Forest yesterday afternoon to become the bride of Fred Wilson Fairman Jr., the church was filled. All the guests who came after 4:45 o'clock had to stand in the vestibule.

Those in the vestibule had the advantage, however, of a perfect view of the bride and her attendants as they came down the aile after the Rev. Ashley Gerhard of Winnetka and Dr. Seaver B. Buck of the Berkshire school of Massachusetts had read the marriage service.

And social circles never have witnessed a lovelier wedding. The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Jay Morse Ely Jr., wore a simple soft white satin gown with a high neckline, long wrap around sleeves, and a long train over which billowed her tulle veil. A braid of satin and a little cluster of orange blossoms held the veil to her dark brown hair, which was piled high on her head in curls. Her bouquet was an exquisite one of blush pink roses and valley lilies.

Her eight attendants were Mrs. Edward F. Hamm Jr., the bridegroom's sister; Miss Adrienne Ely, the bride's sub-deb sister; Miss Louise Stanley of Evansville, Ind.; Miss Lily Anne Peck of Thomasville, Ga.; Miss Natalie Hyde of New York, Miss Frances Jeffery, Miss Gwendolyn Bowen, and Mrs. John P. McWilliams II. All wore gowns of flesh color marquisette made very simply with two inch plaited ruffles of the same outlining the neck and wrapping around to form short sleeves.

Mrs. Hamm's narrow ribbon girdle an.. long streamers of chiffon, which formed a short train, were of cocoa brown. Her large horse hair hat, the same shade as the gown, was trimmed with a band of cocoa brown ribbon and a frou-frou of the chiffon at the front. Miss Adrienne's ribbon and chiffon were of rose pink and the six bridesmaids' belts, trains and hat trimmings were the rich, warm coloring of a ripe nectarine. All the attendants carried stunning bouquets of joanna hill and token roses.

The church was simply but beautifully decorated in greens and white gladioli and white peonies. The only decorations in the house in Lake avenue, where the reception was held, were garden flowers. Mrs. Jay Morse Ely and Mr. and Mrs. Fairman Sr. and the wedding couple received in the green garden beyond the terrace at the west end of the house. Refreshments were served at small tables on the wide expanse of lawn at the back of the house.

The wedding presents were displayed in the game room on the third floor and every one who went up to it felt that the display was more than worth the climb for the presents were numerous and stunning. They were displayed in a novel way, too, which made them especially attractive for tables were set with the handsome silver, china, glassware, and table decorations that had been given the popular young people.

Mr. Fairman Sr. was his son's best man. Ushering were a number of the bridegroom's Yale classmates and several Winnetka friends. They were William B. Elliott, John Bersback, Joseph Rich, Malcolm J. Odell, Edward F. Hamm Jr., all of Winnetka; Robert G. Anderson of Hinsdale, Adrian M. Farley of Greenwich, Conn., Joseph Lord of Newark, N. J., Charles S. Woolsey of Aiken, S. C., and Robert Train of Savannah, Ga.

Mr. Fairman is taking his bride to Honolulu on a wedding trip and upon their return in September they will live in Winnetka.

To list those at the wedding and reception would be to name a large part of Lake Forest and Winnetka, for the bride's family has been associated with Lake Forest for years and the bridegroom's family is well known in Winnetka. Mrs. C. Morse Ely, the bride's paternal grandmother, was there and so was her maternal grandmother, Mrs. John H. Hamline. Mrs. Ely wore pale blue and Mrs. Hamline was in gray. The bride's mother was charming in printed chiffon in white and royal blue with a large blue hat and white orchids tipped in purple, and the senior Mrs. Fairman was smart in cafe au lait chiffon and lace with accessories of the same color. Her flowers wer lavender orchids.

The day was such a perfect summer one that every one at the wedding was wearing her best afternoon costume, so the wedding and reception were veritable fashion shows. Many of those present had seen a staged fashion show earlier in the afternoon. One of the features of the garden party given at Belorme, Mrs. Harry M. McIntosh's handsome Sheridan road estate, for the benefit of the Lake Bluff orphanage, was a display of summer fashions. It was a charming one, too, with the models walking through the formal garden. Some of them were young ladies who will make their formal bows to society next fall.

Miss Judy Butler led the parade in a dashing bathing suit and ankle length beach coat of glazed chintz, and then came such a procession of youth and beauty as one might expect in a Follies chorus; Miss Nancy Forgan, Miss Adele Proxmire in a dancing gown of blue splashed with great red roses, Miss Louise Forgan, Miss Sylvia Peter in white pique polka dotted with navy blue, Miss Clarice Hamill, in an enchanting gray evening gown, Miss Narcissa Thorne, Miss Annie May Henry in a chartuse evening gown such as she might wear at her own debut dinner dance, Miss Margot Reid in red shirt, blue levis and the other things that she would wear on a dude ranch; lovely Miss Anne Winston, Miss Peggy Clow, Mrs. Ernest Hamill II. in a Paisley Jersey frock, and Miss Betty Keith.

Also little Betty Swift, the T. Philip Swifts' daughter, in a long white frock such as she might wear as a flower girl in a wedding; the Wilson Jaicks' little daughter, always called "Punkin" because of the color of her hair, and curley haired Ann Reynolds, the Frank Reynolds' daughter.

The garden party wasn't just for children, for there were all sorts of things of interest to adults, including Ruth Campbell Meeker's lovely paintings made in Guatemala and Honolulu last winter. But it was the little folk who walked away with the party, for they were here, there and everywhere. They were clamoring for rides in the Jelkes' gay Sicilian donkey cart, or to sit in the saddle on Johnny Lee's pony. The highlight of the party for children seemed to be the magician who was performing in the barn.

Director Berkeley's Trial Delayed by Studio Plea

Hollywood, Cal., July 1.—[Special.]—Attorneys for Warner Brothers today obtained a continuance of the second degree murder trial of Busby Berkeley, studio dance director. Berkeley is directing dances in "Stage Struck," starring Dick Powell and Joan Blondell. The studio's attorneys declared the company would lose $200,000 if the trial opens next Monday. The case was then set for Sept. 14. Two previous trials, the result of a fatal auto accident last September, have resulted in jury disagreements. Attorneys told the court Warner's investment in the film now totals $435,000.

Miss Narcissa Thorne Will Be Fall Debutante

Parents Announce Dance for Sept. 12.

BY JUDITH CASS.

On Sept. 12 at their home in Lake Forest Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Thorne will give a small dance to introduce their youngest daughter, Miss Narcissa Thorne. The party will be given out-of-doors in the gardens of White Oak, the Thorne estate. Only the Lake Forest debutantes and a few of Miss Thorne's older friends will be invited for dancing and supper.

The debutante will leave the end of this month for Santa Barbara, where she will visit her uncle and her aunt, for whom she was named, Mr. and Mrs. James Ward Thorne. While she is away two of her sisters will be visiting their parents in Lake Forest, Mrs. Alexander B. Spence [Laura Thorne], who is arriving from Texas next Tuesday with her infant daughter, and Mrs. George Gillespie [Katherine Thorne], who will come with Mr. Gillespie from Arizona. None of the Thorne family is planning to go to their camp in Desbarats this summer.

Another name to add to the list of debutantes is that of Miss Kathrine McNulty, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph D. McNulty, have planned to "do" something for her in September and then again at Christmas time. The McNultys are thinking of a debutante luncheon at home in town in the fall, and of another kind of party during the holidays. Miss McNulty, who will enter Smith this year, spent the last year traveling abroad, and previously she attended the Latin School for Girls.

Miss Adair Orr, daughter of the Robert C. Orrs, is another Latin school graduate who will be making a formal debut this year. Her parents have not decided what kind of a party they will give. Miss Orr has been busy taking college board examinations.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Blaine Korrady have withdrawn the name of their daughter, Sally, from the debutante list because of illness in the family, but Miss Korrady undoubtedly will be included in some of the debutante activity. She is a student at Smith college. Later in the summer she and part of the family will go to Michigan.

Margaret Hambleton to Be Bride Today.

This afternoon at 5:30 o'clock Miss Margaret Hambleton and John Carey Murphy will be married and shortly after that they will be on their way east by motor so that Mr. Murphy can introduce his charming bride to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Murphy of Danbury, Conn.

The wedding service is to be read by the Rev. Duncan Browne of St. James' Episcopal church in the presence of the bride's close relatives and a few intimate friends, including Mrs. Charles MacArthur [Helen Hayes] of New York and the junior John R. Winterbothams. Scott Wilson of New York, a friend of the bridegroom, will be another guest.

The living room of the apartment at 1530 State parkway that is the home of the bride's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. F. Stanley Rickcords, and where Miss Hambleton has lived since the death several years ago of her mother, Mrs. Earl L. Hambleton, will be the setting for the wedding.

Miss Hambleton will be unattended and Shepard Vogelgesang will be Mr. Murphy's best man.

Miss Hambleton's other sister, Mrs. Berrien Eaton, has come from her home in Detroit for the wedding, and so have Mr. Eaton and Berrien Jr.

When the couple return from their wedding trip they will be at home in the apartment at 66 Bellevue place that he has been occupying.

26 Thousand Hear First of Park Concerts

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The Grant park band shell, set so effectively between Michigan avenue's fantastic skyline and a nothingness of water to the east, awakened last night from a long winter's sleep to find the Chicago Symphony orchestra filling its terraced stage and a concourse of some 26,000 people blackening benches and lawns to the south.

When Eric DeLamarter raised his baton for the first number he was starting not one concert but a great cycle of them, for between now and Labor day Chicago bands and orchestras will play sixty-eight programs there, all of them sponsored by the Chicago park district and the Chicago Federation of Musicians, all of them free to the people of this city and to any one else who may come.

"O Canada," in honor of our northern neighbors whose Dominion day falls on July 1, gave way to Wagner's meaty "Rienzi" overture. Following its vigorous finale [to which a thoughtless railway engine added a few incongruous choo-choos before being silenced] the soloist of the evening was introduced.

Vivian Della Chiesa, a successful radio songstress who had been signed by the Chicago City Opera company for this coming season, coped knowingly with the difficulties of Violetta's "Ah Fors e Lui" and of an unfamiliar aria from "Le Cid." She made an excellent impression, despite the fact that a seemingly defective loud speaker on the northwest corner of the audience area gave her voice an occasional rasp which it does not possess in its own right.

The tunes of Herbert's Irish Rhapsody, lilting and lachrymose by turns, led to Smetana's well liked symphonic poem, "The Moldau." After the intermission came Dvorak's "New World" symphony.

There were two short speeches during the first half of the program, one by Robert J. Dunham, president of the Chicago park district, the other by Mayor Kelly. Both men stressed the civic value of the Grant park concerts. Public acknowledgment was made of the debt which the city owes to James C. Petrillo, park commissioner and president of the Chicago Federation of Musicians, who conceived the idea of these free public programs last year, and whose coöperation promises a second successful summer of them now.

The weather behaved nicely during the early part of the evening. Those warm and playful little winds, laden with a satisfying earthy fragrance, gave no warning of the deluge of rain that was scheduled for the end of the concert. Neither did the bland sky which bent so innocently over the field. As a result, many thousands of people were caught unawares and forced to make their way to bus and street car stops through the teeming and shelterless lanes of Grant park.

The estimate of 26,000 is a fairly conservative one. It may be raised to any desired figure by counting every one who was whisked by in an automobile between 8 and 10 o'clock, and by including in the computation all the manikins that exist in such profusion in the neighboring Field museum. In any case, the visible audience constituted but a small fraction of the total, for two tables of radio men were busy piping the music through the length and breadth of the United States and Canada. Pierre Andre, long famous for his broadcasting work, is serving as commentator for the concerts this year.

4. "Dance of the Skeletons" .... Saint-Saëns
5. Hungarian Rhapsody No. 2 .... Liszt

The concert starts at 8 o'clock.

AN insurance agent named Bob Kinsman fell into conversation with a stranger the other day and in the course of their conversation he mentioned he was about to leave on a vacation trip. The stranger had a pensive look as he replied, "Gee, I haven't had a vacation for three years. I've been on relief and couldn't get away."

DEPARTMENT of coincidences. Freeman, in his biography of Robert E. Lee, states that the surrender of Appomattox occurred in the house of a Mr. McLean. McLean owned a farm which was part of the battlefield of the first engagement of Bull Run. Figuring that his farm would be in the path of the contending armies, he had moved down to Appomattox, where, by a strange twist of fate, the final act of the drama which began on his own farm was enacted.

A FRIEND who departed recently for an Alaskan expedition took woolen underwear, flannel shirts, and lether coats for her wardrobe. She came to mind when we saw in the Alaska school bulletin, under "Rural School News," the following paragraph:

"False Pass. Last fall the school purchased an organ and an ice cream freezer with money made at school socials. This year ice cream had been served at practically all school festivities except the Valentine party, at which time the pupils were unable to find enough ice to make the ice cream."

Bette Davis Refuses Movie Assignment in Contract Battle

Hollywood, July 1.—(AP)—Sharp spoken Bette Davis brought her contract wars with Warner Brothers to a sudden climax today.

"There are certain things I'm entitled to," said the blonde star who disclosed she had refused to report for work on a picture, "and I'm darned well going to get them—or else!"

Miss Davis, who won the academy award for her performance in "Dangerous" last year, said she was considering court action similar to that taken by James Cagney.

Her salary, reported to be $2,000 a week, is not the only difficulty, she said.

"It's a mess of little things that needs adjustment; they've been wrong for a long time. I'd rather not go into detail just now. If the situation can't be straightened out I'm ready to quit the screen for good. I won't go back to work as things stand."

Studio executives refused to regard the situation as serious.

"It's all being fixed up amicably," one said. "Nothing serious at all. She'll be back."

The Sheer Hats Are Ideal for Daytime Frocks

First of Fall Berets Make Bow in Shops.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The cool sheer hats are perfect foils for the new sheer, dark daytime clothes. The hats shade the eyeline and are more feminine and picturesque than any other type of headgear. There's one model that goes out as fast as they can make it . . . its brim is only moderately wide and the crown is shallow and fits smoothly to the head. It goes out with pleated or ruffled chiffon and with dark cottons.

The entire brim of the hat is fluted and made of slightly stiffened net. A simple bow tie provides the only trim. You can find this hat in brown, inky dull-black, navy and white. And there is a crisp white piqué model.

Summer felts, almost as thin as satin, and some exciting stitched chiffon berets in brown, navy, and black are other finds. Berets are made with tiny details that distinguish them from the ordinary circular cut beret. Belting ribbon is another summer hat material that is featured in this first showing of berets. You'll never realize how smart and snappy a beret can be until you wear one of the new 1936 fall streamlines after days of larger and floppier hats.

And . . . for the impatient soul who yearns for velvet . . . ask to see the tiny semi-halo models in brown, blue or black soft thin velvet. They are tricky little affairs, with a large area of the top scooped out for cool comfort, then tied at the back with a neat little bow. The front is edged with a narrow braid of the velvet. They are perfect top accents for dark linens and dark sheer suits.

SHERIDAN ROAD

By Helen Topping Miller

SYNOPSIS.

Eden Faraday, young secretary, opens the door of a taxi and finds a man murdered. She is taken to the police station, where she meets Jack Garnett, newspaper cameraman, and Owen Field, assistant district attorney, who arranges her release. Eden had been mistaken for Gracie Lincoln, a gunman's widow. The man murdered was a notorious gangster, Grappi. Eden's mother, Bridget Faraday, sells gowns and is in love with suave Sidney Creighton. Eden and her spoiled young sister, Robin, and brother, Coburn, depend on their peppery grandmother. Because of rumor that Eden can identify the murderers Owen Field has her guarded. An attempt is made to kidnap Eden, but Field and his men rescue her. Field takes her to his mother's home, where she is kept secluded. Jack Garnett climbs roofs to talk to her from her window, and enlists her aid in helping him solve the mystery. Raquel Rusak, an older woman, is trying to force Coburn Faraday to marry her. While at a roadhouse with Raquel, Coburn sees his sister, Robin, come in with Sidney Creighton. Eden is brought home by Owen Field after the inquest. She goes with Garnett to see Gracie Lincoln, now married to Clint Jarvis, a taxi driver. Clint has been forced to drive the murderers of Grappi. Eden's grandmother is a friend of Mat Burke, district attorney. Eden promises to help Clint gain an audience with Burke. As they leave Gracie's Eden sees her brother driving up with a common looking woman.

INSTALMENT XVI.
FALLING IN LOVE.

But now Eden's anxiety was overshadowed by the sharper worry of Robin.

Robin was a child still—a silly, rebellious, defiant child. Creighton was very likely flattered by her interest, pleased to find his middle aged charms attractive to a fresh, small, golden creature like Bridget's daughter.

She and Gran had wished for so much for the Faradays, for Coburn and for Robin, Eden was thinking—and now everything was turning sordid. And there was nothing any one could do. She roused from her heavy reverie as the car slid into the narrow side street.

"Tired?" Garnett was solicitous.

"Not specially," she tried to smile, "I had two days rest at Mrs. Field's, with nothing to do but think."

"I'll go up with you. Field may have somebody watching the house."

"Are we," Eden asked, "to tell Owen Field about this—Clint Jarvis and the rest?"

Garnett jerked to a standstill. She saw his lean dark scowl that turned him from youth to saturnine maturity in a flash.

"Lord no! Keep Field out of this."

"But—he is in Martin Burke's office. He's handling the Grappi case."

"Look here," young Garnett was grim; "you know about Field. You're a smart girl——"

"What am I supposed to know about him?"

"You know he's falling in love with you."

"Absurd!" But her tone lacked conviction.

"Not absurd at all. It's very evident. Field would be hostile to this whole idea. We've got to keep him out of it for the present. Burke's human."

"I think I could be exciting. Want to try me?"

"And Owen Field is not?"

Garnett stabbed at the elevator button. "Burke had to work for his living. He wasn't raised on Sheridan road. He fought up. And he didn't forget. A lot of men forget. Field never had to fight. He takes power and success as his due. He'd be opposed to leniency for any poor fellow under suspicion. And specially he'd be opposed to being decent with Clint, because I thought of it."

"But why," Eden desired to know, "because you thought of it?"

He gave her a slow, odd look that sent the blood burning up into her cheeks.

"Suppose you lie awake all night trying to figure that one out," he suggested. "He'd oppose it for several reasons—but for one special reason that is devilishly important to me. I'm falling in love with you myself. Field knows it. Now you know it. Good-night, Eden Faraday!"

. . . .

Sidney Creighton's apartment was reached by a silent elevator, and the door was opened by a Filipino boy in a white silk coat, who bowed, backed in, carefully refraining from looking at the lady on the threshold.

Creighton said, "Cocktails, Ricco," and Robin walked in, hating the thrilled burning of excitement in her blood.

She kept her voice to a thrilled contralto, though she was feeling very young and wicked and just a trifle frightened.

She said, "O—nice! What a heavenly blue carpet. Some one did a very clever job on this place, obviously."

Creighton laughed indulgently.

"Nothing has been changed here for years, Bobs. That's the sort of old fogy I am. When the curtains fall to pieces from old age, Ricco buys some more exactly like them. Sit here? This is the warmest corner. Ricco must have known that you were coming. These daffodils exactly match your hair. Now—the blue pillow—sets off your eyes. The picture is perfect."

Robin's eyes were amused, her mouth had a saucy dimple.

"Not knowing that I was coming, he was prepared for any situation, wasn't he? Over there are the red tulips he had ready in case you brought home a brunette."

Creighton was not dashed.

"I do now and then. I bring Bridget. I put her against that dark chair and we sit and talk about the decadence of youth."

Robin's tone was slightly aloof. "She'd like to keep me a child forever. No woman likes great, long legged creatures running around calling her mother. I displeased her very much by growing up."

"Your mother and I are very good friends."

Robin let her eyelids rise and fall. "I don't believe mother thinks of you as a good friend."

"I'm quite certain she thinks of me as a very good friend indeed. That's why I shouldn't have let you come here. That wasn't a friendly thing to do."

"She'll be furious at me, of course. She'll be furious because I went out with you at all. Probably we'd better not tell her. It would certainly be better not to tell her. She'd be unhappy—and I'd be terribly unhappy myself because the atmosphere would be thunderous for ages."

"Agreed then—we make no one unhappy. But what a little liar you turned out to be."

"O, I won't tell any lies. I'll merely say that I was out with a nice young man, not too exciting."

Creighton's face changed a little. A flush came over it and his eyes regarded her speculatively. Just a small, golden, reckless thing, lovely to look at—but how beautifully she fitted into this room with its rich draperies and softly shaded lights!

He had built the room around himself, gracious, sophisticated, with no thought of any woman, no concession to femininity. But Robin was decorative enough and smooth enough to adorn any background.

He said, "Couldn't I be exciting, Bobs?"

She looked at him levelly, analytically. "Could you?" she countered.

He pulled a chair near and said, "That's all, Ricco." He leaned forward. His temples were faintly silvered with gray in the glow of the fire but his eyes were very young indeed.

"I think I could be exciting. Want to try me?"

She leaned back, tucked her hands behind her head. She could have him! It was in his voice, a little shaken, in his ardent eyes, in the possessiveness of his attitude. She could undoubtedly marry him if she was clever, but she was not sure that she wanted to be clever.

It would mean freedom, serenity, security, an end to the irritations at home, of school. Lovely frocks, furs, jewels, her own car—this rich, quiet place in which to live. No more of Milton's adolescent adoration.

GASOLINE ALLEY—THE TWENTIETH HOLE

Beau Secretive About Job Is to Be Doubted

Honest Persons Usually Explain Employment.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Nan has been going around with a chap for six months or more. He has been playing the ardent and serious suitor. He has been a little sketchy about his job, it appears, but always seemed to be in funds, Nan noticed.

On a recent evening, as he tells it, the fellow met up with some old friends. They got him into a game of cards. Big money was exchanged.

"My boy friend couldn't back out," Nan reports, "so he kept on playing until he lost quite a good deal. The money wasn't his own, he told me. He had to return it to its owner next day. He asked me to loan him a $150. I only had $64, which I could let him take. He said that would help.

"Do you think I'll ever get the money back?" Nan asks. "And what do you think of the fellow?"

Well, what do you think of him now, Nan, looking at him in the cold light of reason?

Personally, we think you were lucky to get off with the $64.00 lesson. That was costly enough, at that. But if you had had the $150, he would have had that, too. Now, you know, or will know before the promised date of the money's return that you've kissed that $64.00 goodby. You never will see it again, and a girl can buy a lot of things for herself with $64.00. Shoes and hats and hosiery, and a few nice little accessories. Or, indeed, it would be a neat little figure in your savings book to build upon. But it's gone for good, and you'll have to start from zero again a wiser [we hope] young woman.

Don't make the mistake ever of looking for its return. Don't bother hounding the fellow. It will do no good, only make you angrier every time you think of it. But don't be burned a second time. Every one is liable to make a mistake once, but don't let a flimsy story persuade you again into handing a nickel over to a man. That wasn't even a good story the fellow told you. No one is dragged into a card game. No one has to stay when the stakes go haywire. Anyway, it is not the girl's business to pay for a man's mistakes under any circumstances. So you stand in the light of being one of those Barnum fish that are due not to get an even break.

In all probability, the money you've been enjoying has been fleeced out of some other woman's pocket, the money that's been spent on you, that is. If a man can't give an honest version of the work he is doing, you may be sure he isn't doing honest work. With his pockets full of money and no occupation to report, you can pretty well set him down as a crook of some order.

How can you otherwise sane enough girls reason so lightly on this matter of a man's work?

Miss Narcissa Thorne Will Be Fall Debutante

Parents Announce Dance for Sept. 12.

match. The Syndicate members have played together annually since the club was founded some years ago by William E. Clow Jr. and Howard Linn with some of their Yale classmates in St. Paul. The meeting alternates between Lake Forest and the Twin Cities.

The visitors will stay with their various friends in Lake Forest. The hosts have planned a dinner-dance at Shoreacres for Saturday night. The golf matches will be played there.

Mrs. Hale Holden Jr. will spend tomorrow night in Lake Forest with her sister, Mrs. Phelps Kelley, on her way from Philadelphia to Duluth, where her parents live. Mrs. Holden's sister-in-law, Mrs. Winfield Scott Linn [Eleanor Holden], and Mr. Linn are settled in their St. Charles home for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Bomann arrived yesterday from New York to visit her sister, Mrs. Darwin Curtis, and Mr. Curtis in Winnetka for ten days. Mr. and Mrs. Curtis are entertaining at a small dinner Saturday night in their Indian Hill road home for Mr. and Mrs. Bomann. The Curtises returned only a few days ago from a three months' vacation in Nassau and Bermuda. Their young son, Darwin, accompanied them.

Betty Brooks Returns from New York.

Miss Betty Brooks has decided that three months of nursing training in a New York hospital is sufficient, so she has returned to Lake Forest to her family, Mr. and Mrs. Mason Phelps. Miss Jane Brooks, Miss Betty, and the two youngsters of the family, Marion and Mason Phelps Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Phelps will leave Lake Forest July 23 for a North Cape cruise.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. French will go to Wianno, Mass., around Labor day to bring home their little sons, who left last week to spend the summer with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Crossett, at their Cape Cod home.

Mrs. George J. Jaeger has sailed to spend two months abroad. Upon her return she will go directly to her summer home at Wianno. Miss Florence Dibell Bartlett and Mrs. Arthur G. Bissell sailed on the same boat, the Empress of Britain. They will spend the summer in Brittany, returning home Sept. 1.

Mrs. Walter A. Strong has rented her home in Tower road, Winnetka, for the summer, and will spend July and August in Europe with her five children.

De Forest Hulburds Sail for Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. De Forest Hulburd and their children sailed yesterday on the Hamburg to spend two months in Europe. Mrs. Hulburd's sister, Mrs. Taylor Strawn, and Mr. Strawn and their children will occupy the Hulburds' summer home at Crab Lake, Wis.

Mrs. Cyrus Bentley sailed last Saturday for Europe to be away two months. Mrs. Henry N. Tuttle was to have accompanied her, but an accident of several weeks ago is keeping her in the Alice Home hospital. Arthur Tuttle was here from New York to see his mother. He stayed with his sister, Mrs. Kent Chandler, in Lake Forest, until he returned east on Monday.

Mrs. Harrison Manierre will leave next Monday to sail Tuesday on the Europa for a brief trip abroad. She is going to Denmark and Sweden, and if she has time she will visit Mr. and Mrs. Eric Warburg of Hamburg—he is a nephew of Felix Warburg of New York—who have invited her to cruise on their yacht. Mrs. Manierre will spend some time in New York before returning to Lake Forest.

Mrs. Manierre's two sons, Cyrus Jr. and William, will go to Huron Mountain in August to be with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Carter H. Harrison. Mr. and Mrs. Carter Harrison Jr. and their daughters are at Spring Lake, N. J., again for the summer. There is a possibility that Miss Edith Harrison, their second daughter, will be a debutante this year. She has been attending Wells college, where she was awarded a scholarship to either Vassar or Smith.

Walter Stuckslagers Parents of Son.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stuckslager [Helen English] are the parents of a son born on June 25 at the Evanston hospital. The baby has been named Peter. He is the grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. William R. English of Winnetka.

Mrs. Eliphalet W. Cramer has gone to Santa Barabara for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest High Noyes will leave next week for their summer home at Desbarats. Their son, John Noyes, and his wife and their daughter, Mrs. George Senseney, and Mr. Senseney will visit Mr. and Mrs. Noyes in August.

David O. Dunbar and his son George, who is a student at Princeton, sailed yesterday on the Chichibu Maru from San Francisco to spend the summer in the orient. They will return in September.

The Kimball Salisburys left yesterday for Pittsfield, Mass., where they will spend the summer.

JUNIOR GIRL'S DRESS.

Something new under the sportswear sun! And it's a clever vision of active sports dress created especially for junior silhouettes. The bodice has cut-away shoulders, on raglan lines, and develops into straps in the back. A pert and brief shirtwaist collar enhances the neckline, and a row of buttons further trims the waist.

The skirt is plain, without plaits, and has two slit pockets high on the hipline. A rather short cape to match the skirt accompanies this smart frock, and converts it from an active sports dress into one for spectator wear and town occasions.

One of the chief attractions of this dress is the contrast in fabric and color between the bodice and skirt. A bright plaid may fashion the waist, and a harmonizing plain shade create the skirt and cape. The original model of this pattern is exceedingly youthful and smart with the shirt in nautical blue and white plaid, and the skirt and cape of plain white.

Another scheme employing white for skirt and cape fashions the blouse of dotted percale in gay yellow.

Style No. 2834 is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15, and 17 years. Size 15 requires 2½ yards of 35 inch material for skirt and cape, with 1⅛ yards of 39 inch material for blouse and cape lining.

Bright Colors Greet First Day of Sunshine of Arlington Season

Colors flowered at Arlington park yesterday as sunshine greeted the meeting for the first time.

Mrs. Francis Manierre in a corn colored pastel print, beige coat and yellow hat was with her mother, Mrs. B. C. Boyle of Louisville, Ky. Mrs. Boyle leaves next week for New York to meet her daughter, Mrs. H. J. Bole, and the three Bole children, who have been in Sweden for three years.

On July 17 at Shore Acres the Manierres will entertain a group of debutantes in honor of Miss Peggy Clow.

Mrs. Ethel V. Mars, owner of the Milky Way stables, had a group of guests. She wore an ensemble of rust and cocoa tones.

Mrs. John Hertz, who will entertain a large group of guests over the Independence day week-end, wore white crêpe de chine and a white beret, and Mrs. Warren Wright wore a blue and white sports ensemble. Mrs. George E. Van Hagen wore blue and Miss Elizabeth Van Hagen yellow. Miss Mary Florsheim was in white.

Mrs. John F. Jelke, in blue and white, chaperoned her daughter, Mary-Lou, and the three young Jelke boys.

Movies Clinch Claim as World Fashion Center

Big Stores Keep Observers at Hollywood.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., July 1.—[Special.]—With some skepticism we have heard movie dress designers and studio press agents speak of Hollywood as "the style center of America." It now becomes a duty to report that perhaps the style designers and the publicity stafs are stating the truth.

What makes the claims register seriously is one's discovery that large department stores in Chicago, New York, Philadelphia, and Boston keep buyers and style observers stationed here.

Since the lesson of profits to be reaped from Shirley Temple dresses, Clark Gable sweaters, James Dunn soft shirts, Marlene Dietrich trousers, Joan Blondell shorts, and sundry other garments the garment trades in Los Angeles now rank third in the city's industrial life. Only oil and motion pictures lead them.

Fifty million dollars' worth of women's and men's clothes are said to be supplied to American wearers—mostly women and young women at that—every year. Fifteen thousand persons, almost as many as the movie studios employ, make the garments. Of course not all clothes manufactured in Los Angeles can be traced to the popularizing influence of the movies. But it is true that there was no such volume to the garment trade before the motion pictures made buyers throughout the country keep in touch with movie styles.

Clyde E. Brown, manager for Fairchild Publications, publishers of magazines and trade papers devoted to fashions and clothes, says that 1936 represents the peak to date in the style focus upon Hollywood. Brown used to manage the Paris office of the fashion publications, but was shifted here "when Hollywood became more important to American department stores."

Considerable attention here has been directed to the fact that stores in New York have been running ads, which occasionally reach full page size, along the line of this one: "Back from California we come. For the last six months keen style scouts have been patroling sunkissed coast. Back this week flew our style expert with the gayest, smartest sport fashions under the sun."

Mr. Brown said 150 of the leading department stores in the United States now keep buyers in Los Angeles and observers in Hollywood. He pointed to a New York advertisment saying: "Première showing. We went straight to Hollywood because many of today's most dramatic, most engaging clothes are coming out of Hollywood." "California close-ups" was the proclamation of another New York fashion ad.

One Hollywood observer for the clothes trade says, "Besides having the style leaders of the movies striving to outdo each other here and the most glamorous women in the world to wear the movie designers' new creations Hollywood and Los Angeles represent the gateway to the orient, the South Seas and Latin America, from which places new ideas are being continually adapted into American dress. Where sunshine and flowers put color into every day life and life itself is mainly in the open, people naturally stray from drab colors and conventional garments."

One Hollywood manufacturer is putting out a line which wholesales at $200 a dress.

According to CULBERTSON

DIFFERENCES IN CONTRACT PLAYERS.

The three classes into which contract players usually are divided—expert, average, and novice—are not accurately descriptive. In the first place, there should be at least six divisions. Even then, there would be considerable difference between the best and worst player in each group. But that is not the only objection to summary classification. An important feature often is overlooked entirely: that is the type [not the caliber] of the player under discussion.

Let us, for example, compare two experts. Both know the game from A to Z. Their bidding and their play are almost faultless from a purely technical point of view. But one of them inclines so strongly toward conservatism that in every close bidding question he foists the ultimate decision on his partner and, in the play, he puts safety measures [even when they spell defeat] above opportunism. The other expert, far from sidestepping his responsibilities, plans his bids and his plays to be not only technically sound, but also intelligible to whatever type of partner he happens to have.

Today's hand is a striking illustration of what can happen when one partner "sidesteps responsibilty."

Pass	5 clubs	Double	Pass
Pass	Pass

South's pass to the four spade bid, holding a miserable hand except for one trick that would be certain defensively, but probably worthless otherwise, was a bridge crime of the first magnitude. It goes without saying that he should have doubled. Every player above the novice class should see the danger created by his pass: that partner, who already had advertised a huge hand, would come into the bidding at the five level. Which is, of course, what happened. North could not be criticized for feeling that a game for his side depended on little more than finding South with four cards to a jack in either hearts or clubs. Four no trump would have been a better "investigating" bid, but the result would have been the same, since North could not have "stood for" the double which would have followed and, therefore, would have run out to five clubs anyway.

The five club contract was slaughtered to the tune of 800 points, declarer having to lose two club tricks, the ace of diamonds, and one heart, besides having his heart king ruffed by one of East's low trumps.

Since East-West would have suffered a 500 point penalty at four spades doubled, on the correct opening lead of the diamond king, South's pusillanimous pass resulted in a "swing" of 1,300 points!

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: Should this hand [dealer vulnerable] be opened with a spade or a club bid:

♠ A Q J 8 ♥ A J 10 8 ♦ 2 ♣ K Q 10 6?

Answer: One club, to make a response from partner easier and, therefore, more persuasive. [Partner may be able to bid one diamond over one club, but might prefer to pass rather than bid at the two level.]

Sally's Guests to Have First Party Today

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

At last July has arrived, and our first party of the year will take place this afternoon!

You young people who've won invitations know all about the time and place we'll meet—and please don't be late, because we have a lot of fun ahead of us and don't want to waste a minute in getting started. We want to be comfortably settled in our seats when the umpire yells "Play ball" out at Comiskey park today.

Above all—don't, whatever you do, forget that invitation I mailed to you, because only boys and girls who have them will be admitted to the party, and if you've earned an invitation you certainly don't want to be left out. The Sox will meet the Detroit Tigers, and I bet it'll be a swell game.

Those of you who are not included in this party will miss a lot of fun, but then you'll have chances to try to win an invitation to some of our future parties.

There'll be news of the next one in SUNDAY'S TRIBUNE, and I'll bet every kid in Chicago will want to know about it. Sunday's the day, too, you know, when all of you who wrote in for invitations to our Cubs-Brooklyn party will learn if you won an invitation—because my column will carry the names and addresses of the winners, so you'd better not miss it!

"Rustic Wheel" Is an Old Virginia Pattern for Quilt

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices: One South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

Rustic Wheel.

BY NANCY CABOT.

From the delightfully historical state of Virginia comes an old and complicated pieced quilt pattern. From the illustration of the single block it readily may be seen that the pattern was adapted from woodwork made of limbs and roots of trees and arranged in a wheel design. Red, white, and brown print were the colors used in the original coverlet. The blocks were set together to form an all-over design and finished with a five inch border of white, then bound with a ½ inch bias binding.

DISCOVERY HERE FOR STARS AND STRIPES STAKE

Reaches Arlington in Top Form.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Discovery and his boy friend Bill arrived at Arlington Park shortly before noon yesterday.

They had a lot of fun traveling west from New York for Discovery's engagement in the $10,000 Stars and Stripes handicap to be run here next Saturday afternoon. Bill is Discovery's lead pony.

They had fun nibbling at big juicy bales of hay and the lights were left on all night in the spacious express car in which they were riding on one of young Mr. Vanderbilt's railroads.

Ready to Run.

They were full of pep when they got off the cars. Clocker Bill Cunningham says that the first thing Discovery asked him was "Where's Cavalcade?" A second later he asked Mr. Cunningham who the horses St. Bernard and Calumet Dick might be. Clocker Cunningham converses with horses just as fluently as he does with those folks who are around him every afternoon looking for tips.

Discovery, in case you've slipped up on your equine affairs, achieved the distinction of being the kingpin in the sport of kings last year. He's a great big 5 year old chestnut horse, with a white streak down his forehead, powerful legs and a chest that would make a wrestler envious.

He's a Traveler.

Alfred G. Vanderbilt's racing coffers were enriched to the extent of about $102,000 by virtue of Discovery's ability to carry heavy weights at high speed last year. Discovery is a real globe trotter who has traveled nearly 20,000 miles in the last three years. In 1935 alone, he piled up mileage—on train and van—of more than 8,500 miles.

Stable Foreman Alf Holberg directed the loading and shipping of the champion. Discovery left New York at 3:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. He took the journey calmly. He munched contentedly at the hay, and looked over at Bill once in a while and whinnied.

Goes to Hertz Stable.

When Discovery arrived at Arlington, he was taken to a stall in the stables of Mrs. John Hertz, and lodged in a "guest room." He didn't pay much attention to Mrs. Hertz's 4 year old, Count Arthur, which will be one of his rivals Saturday.

Four bundles of hay, a truck load of equipment and supplies, were brought on the train that carried Discovery here. After these were unloaded, the champion and his lead pony Bill were treated to a generous feed of hay and oats.

Assisting Holberg on the trip were James Starky, Vanderbilt stable exercise boy, and Arch Ferris, stable hand. All three kept a constant vigil over Discovery during the trip.

Leo Fallon, the Baltimore jocky who rode Discovery to victory in the Brooklyn handicap last Saturday, arrives tonight from Belmont Park, and will ride the champion in the Stars and Stripes handicap.

Chief Cherokee Wins.

Two graded handicaps and a 2 year old race which engaged some of the best juvenile prospects in the west made yesterday's program the most interesting that has yet been offered at Arlington.

The graded handicaps were both at six furlongs and each brought an upset.

Eight went to the post in the grade B number and at the finish Chief Cherokee, owned by Mrs. Emil Denemark, was putting everything he had

THE GUMPS—HENRIETTA SPILLS THE BEANS

In the WAKE of the NEWS

WAKE MAIL BOX.

WAKE: Baseball is interesting and fascinating because no two games are alike, and no game is over until the last man is out because almost anything can happen at any time.

I was catching one real warm summer day in a close game, when in the sixth inning, with a comfortable lead, two out, none on bases, one strike and one ball, on a very good batter, I signaled for the first slow ball of the game.

The pitcher's motion in delivering a slow ball was identical with any other pitch. The batter was completely fooled and swung so hard that he made a full circle swing, missed, regained his balance, then struck a second time at the same pitched ball, and again missed.

The umpire called "Strike," while we nearly broke up the game arguing with the umpire whether it was one or two strikes. S'fact!

Robert I. Thornton.

It was Pittsburgh and Cubs at old west side park. The starting Cub pitcher succumbed to the heavy hitting Pirates, and along about the fourth inning was replaced by Jimmy Lavender, making his maiden appearance in the majors.

The first man to whom he was to pitch was the mighty Hans Wagner. Lavender looked so young and small compared to Wagner that I felt sorry for the lad. To my surprise, he struck out Wagner, but I always wondered if Wagner didn't let the third strike go by—Pittsburgh was far in the lead—to give the kid a good start in the big show.

Bob Anderson.

I wish to give Helper Tad the correct lyrics of that song of 1896. I should know, as my father, George Maywood Schleiffarth, was the composer of it and several other successes. Here it is:

She is the daughter of Officer Porter,
Is charming Kitty.
Laughing and merry with lips like a cherry,
So gay and witty.
She's known, of course, as the pride of the force
And the boys' delight;
She is the daughter of Officer Porter,
And she's all right.

LEHMAN REACHES C.D.G.A. AMATEUR QUARTER-FINALS

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Don Armstrong and John Lehman, the two Olympia Fields stars who shared medal honors in the Chicago District Golf association's 23d annual amateur tournament on Tuesday, yesterday advanced to the quarter-final round, but made real progress in radically different fashions.

JOHNNY LEHMAN.

While Johnny was winning his second round match from Jim McAlvin of Kildeer, 4 and 3, Don was being forced to the twentieth hole by Charles Wilson of Westward Ho, and there he had to drop a niblick shot a foot and a half from the pin for the birdie that closed the argument.

Armstrong vs. Salomon.

In this morning's eighteen hole quarter finals Armstrong, heading the lower bracket, will meet the lone out of town survivor, Sid Salomon of St. Louis, who was extended nearly as far as Don in another extra hole second round battle. He defeated Hardy Hodgson of Brookwood, the argument ending on the nineteenth, where Salomon dropped a seven foot putt for a winning par.

Lehman, heading the upper bracket, will meet Bill Chambers of Sunset Valley, who eliminated Steve Williams Jr. of Evanston in the afternoon, 4 and 2. Chambers is a former western junior runner-up, and has been a regular contender in the district event.

Franco to Meet Fall.

The other two quarter final pairings this morning will bring together Joe Franco of Skokie Playfield and Joe Fall Jr. of Illinois in the upper bracket, and Charles McGuire, former University of Chicago football star from Oak Park, and Dick Martin, one time Big Ten champion from Brierhill in the lower side.

The semi-finals in the afternoon also will be at 18 holes, while the championship match tomorrow will be argued over the 36 hole distance.

Franco, an 18 year old lad, who is about to enter his senior year at New Trier High school, provided the scoring excitement of the day when he shot a 67 by playing out the bye holes of his 3 and 2 decision over Win Day of Elmhurst, 1936 Notre Dame captain. Franco's card, four under par with two putts conceded, equaled the best amateur performance ever submitted at Sunset Ridge.

Fall eliminated Joe Switzer of St. Louis, runner-up for the qualifying medal, by a 5 and 3 margin in the

COACH TO LIMIT OWENS TO THREE OLYMPIC EVENTS

Columbus, O., July 1.—(AP)—Jesse Owens, Ohio State's great track star, who has won four events in every college meet he has entered, will not get a chance to score a quadruple victory in the Olympics. His coach, Larry Snyder, settled that today.

Owens' specialties are the two dashes, broad jump, and low hurdles. But the Olympic hurdle event is over 400 meters, instead of 220 yards, so Jesse is out of that race.

He wanted to substitute the hop, step, and jump for the hurdles, so that he might have a chance to cop four victories in the international games, but his plan brought a loud "no" from Snyder.

CUBS AND REDS HOPE TO WIND UP SERIES TODAY

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., July 1.—This was another day of leisure for the Cubs, rainfall preventing their scheduled performance with the Reds. All arrangements for the occasion were carried over until tomorrow when the champions conclude their local visit, which has included jaunts across the river to a race track, where it was easy to get rid of extra time and loose change.

TEX CARLETON.

The schedule has provided another open date for the two teams on Friday and this could have been used for a rebooking of this afternoon's washout, but the local management, having an eye to business, preferred to act otherwise. The postponement will be played off as part of a doubleheader when the Cubs call again in August. But if it continues to rain tomorrow the Chicagoans will have to remain here and stage their act Friday.

Carleton to Pitch.

Tex Carleton who was ready to fire deceivers at the cocky Reds today will be employed in that capacity tomorrow and probably will be opposed by Wild Bill Hallahan, the ancient southpaw recently discarded by the St. Louis Cardinals. The Cubs have no particular reason to fear left-handers, having lost only two games to wrong armed pitchers this season. Among the games they have won against southpaw pitching was when Hallahan, as a Cardinal, tackled them at Chicago on May 8. They blew him out of the park in less than four innings.

After finishing here the Cubs go to Pittsburgh and three games there in two days over the week-end will require some concentrated effort. Last season the Pirates were liberal contributors to the Chicagoans' pennant cause, but so far in the current race they have proved anything but a soft touch. They have broken even in six games with the Cubs so are well ahead of their 1935 pace when they lost 15 or 22 to the champions.

French to Face Pirates.

Larry French will pitch the first of the two Saturday battles with the Pirates, but beyond that Charley Grimm, the Cub chief, hasn't made up his mind. He still has Roy Henshaw, the Pirate nemesis of 1935, but the lad was given such a terrific blasting when the Cubs played their only game of the season at Pittsburgh on April 20 that the manager is inclined to suspect that times have changed.

NEW RING GIANT COMING TO U. S. ON QUEEN MARY

New York, July 1.—[Special.]—The world's largest boxer is coming to New York. He will arrive Monday on the new liner Queen Mary.

His name is Leon Kettchell, a 21 year old Pole, who is said to be 7 feet 3 inches tall and to weigh 275 pounds.

Primo Carnera, when he first arrived here some years ago, was sensational in point of measurements with his 265 pounds and 6 feet 6 inches.

The records say that Leon has scored seventeen straight knockouts. He should be quite handy with the gloves, since for a year he has been taking instruction from Larry Gaines.

HAMMER LYONS AND EVANS TO SAVE BRIDGES

Rosenthal Leads in Futile Attack.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The White Sox called off the first two scheduled games with the Tigers that they might rest up from weekend doubleheaders. And, rested and frisky, they held the Tigers to a 21 to 6 score in the belated opener at Comiskey Park yesterday. However, the outfielders are all tired again from chasing 25 base hits made off Ol' Ted Lyons and a couple youngsters entitled Red Evans and Italo Chelini.

Everybody in the Tiger cast got at least two hits except the winning pitcher, Tommy Bridges, and Tommy knocked a single, a sacrifice and scored a run. Gerry Walker made a homer, three singles and reached first on one of the Sox' four errors. He drove in seven runs and scored twice. Charley Gehringer made four singles, drew a pass and scored four runs. Goose Goslin made four hits, one a double, and drew a pass. Marvin Owen practically was shut out. All Marv got was a triple, a single and a walk.

Offense Is O. K.

The Sox made enough runs to win many of the games they've tossed off lately, their half dozen total including a flock of four runs in the first inning which briefly gave Ted Lyons a 4 to 1 lead. The Sox made 11 hits, a lot for Bridges to give up, even when eased by a fat lead. Larry Rosenthal was the best Sox hitter, with a triple and a single. Luke Appling had a double and a single and Rip Radcliff singled twice, in the first and second innings.

Lyons somehow managed to hold the Tigers to one run in the first inning. The marker was accomplished on a single by Burns, a couple of infield outs, pass to Goslin and a single by Walker.

The Sox tried in vain to get enough insurance to keep Ol' Ted in the ball game in their half and did manage to acquire four runs. Radcliff opened with a single to left and Rosenthal walked. The runners moved up when Hayworth threw the ball into center field trying to catch Radcliff off second. Rip and Larry hung on while Haas was tossed out by Bridges. Bonura was given an intentional pass, filling the bases, after which Appling doubled to right, Radcliff and Rosenthal scoring and Bonura stopping at third. Piet singled to center, scoring Bonura and Appling, and stole second. Then Dykes struck out and Sewell rolled to Rogell.

Then the Bad News.

Dykes let Lyons stick around a long time in the second inning, possibly because he helped get him into a jam. Manager Jimmy fumbled Owens' easy grounder to get the blow up started and Owens stopped at second on Hayworth's single to center. Piet kicked Bridges' double play grounder, but recovered in time to force Hayworth at second, Owen stopping at third. Burns singled to right, scoring Owen.

Rogell walked, filling the bases, after which Gehringer lined a single to right, scoring Bridges and Burns, Rogell pulling up at third. Goslin singled to center, Rogell scoring and Gehringer taking third. Then Dykes humanely excused Lyons and called on Evans. Walker flied to Radcliff, Gehringer scoring. Simmons singled to left, Goslin stopping at second. Evans picked up Owen's grounder and tagged him to end the terrible inning.

Walker Hits Homer.

Evans retired Hayworth, Bridges, and Burns on three infield efforts in the third inning, but the Tigers

DEGENER, WAYNE DIVING FAVORITES IN OLYMPIC TEST

Los Angeles A. C. Picked in Water Polo.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Richard Degener of Detroit and Marshall Wayne of Miami, Fla., are favorites to win the springboard and platform diving championships tomorrow and Saturday at the Burnham park lagoon east of Soldiers' field. The Los Angeles Athletic club, which represented the United States in the Olympic water polo competition in 1932, is number one choice in that event in advance of the start of the tournament, in which eleven teams are entered.

But before the last diver has splashed into Lake Michigan and the last shot has been made at the net, Chicago swimmers will have made a firm bid for the right to meet the nations of the world next August in Berlin.

Al Greene of Chicago's Lake Shore Athletic club, who holds one victory over Degener, hopes to repeat that triumph in the springboard championships tomorrow afternoon. Even if he fails to win, by placing second or third Greene will become a member of the United States team for the Olympics.

Degener's Record Outstanding.

It would be surprising if Degener should win both the diving championships, although his record since he was beaten in 1932 by Mickey Riley of Los Angeles, now a professional, is the best of all contestants here for this meet. Last winter Degener set an all time point record for the three meter springboard indoors. That's the mark the field will strive to equal when it starts after the former Big Ten and Intercollegiate champion.

On the basis of record of not losing a water polo game in four years, the veteran Los Angeles team is favored in the three days' eliminations. Four teams, the Los Angeles A. C., Olympic club of San Francisco, New York A. C., and the Illinois Athletic club, will be seeded in the pairings. The I. A. C. squad, which may boast of three Olympic veterans, is prepared for a real battle in its effort to win the American title.

I. A. C. Has Strong Team.

The I. A. C. backs will be Capt. Ralph Breyer, Al Schwartz, and Mike Howlett, former winner of THE TRIBUNE's 100 yard free style championship. The forward line will be manned by George Wagner, Roger Debenham, and Jerry Miller. At goal will be Fred Lauer. Schwartz, Lauer, and Breyer have had Olympic experience, Lauer having played in 1924, 1928, and 1932.

The team winning the national championship will place seven members on the United States Olympic squad. Four others will be named from the list of outstanding players in the tournament.

The Chicago park district also will be represented by a water polo squad which is winner in the park district league. The league has sixteen squads. Water polo, for several years confined to three or four leading clubs in the country, and almost an exclusive sport in Chicago for the C. A. A. and I. A. C., has had a revival unparalleled in the history of the game. With erection of facilities, all sections of the country have started play, and the eleven teams here sets a record for Olympic eliminations in this country.

Have Reserved Seats.

The California Collegians and New York's second team, composed of young men, are examples. The Collegians are composed of former California, U. C. L. A., and Stanford players. Under the system of double eliminations in this tournament all teams will continue in the race at least until Friday night.

Contestants in all championships are quartered at the Illinois Athletic club, which is sponsoring the tournament and hopes to raise $4.000 to send the winners to Berlin. Eight thousand reserved seats are available for the meet at the lagoon. The Chicago park district has built one of the finest outdoor pools in the country.

The program will start at 2:30 each afternoon, although tomorrow it is likely that the water polo games will start before that hour. The spring board championship will be decided tomorrow. The platform title will be decided Saturday and the finals of the water polo tournament will top Sunday's schedule.

ARCHERS TO HOLD MIDWEST ANNUAL TOURNEY SUNDAY

More than 200 of the central west's finest archers are expected to participate in the tenth annual tournament of the Midwestern Archery association which will be held at Hutchinson field, just south of Buckingham fountain in Grant park, on Saturday and Sunday. More than a dozen states will send their best bowmen to the meet.

Shooting will begin at 10 a. m. Saturday with the first half of the old English round, the York for men, and a Columbia round for women. During the afternoon men will complete the York while the women shoot a second Columbia. At 4 p. m. another old English event, the clout shoot, is scheduled.

The flight, or distance, shot for both men and women will be held at 8 a. m. Sunday. Two American rounds for men and a final Columbia for women will close the affair.

TRIBUNE GUIDE KEY TO NEARBY FISHING SPOTS

Lake Geneva Is One of the Best.

BY BOB BECKER.

Fishermen looking for suggestions on nearby lakes where they can get boats and fish for bass, pickerel, panfish, or other species will find a number of tips by referring to THE TRIBUNE's 1936 Chicagoland map. This complete map shows most of the best fishing holes in southern Wisconsin, where there are a number of dandy little lakes.

We have recommended from time to time a number of the small lakes shown on this new map and have given directions on how to reach them. One of our persistent recommendations as a fishing spot is Lake Geneva. This big lake has large and small mouth black bass, pickerel, rock bass, and other panfish. Some whopping big wall-eyes also are in that lake, as well as lake trout.

Fish Deep in Lake Geneva.

We spent an afternoon on Lake Geneva shortly after the bass season opened. It was a cool, windy day. The east wind didn't make the day very pleasant for fishing. And apparently the bass weren't much enthused because they did not hit well, though we did catch a few.

However, fishing has improved since then, so that any one who knows the spots and will fish the way one must up there in the deep water should get a mess of bass.

Some day we are going to explore the deep water for the wall-eyes. Those that have been caught run very large. Specimens weighing ten or more pounds have been taken from the lake.

Crawfish a Good Bait.

The boys at Lake Geneva are starting about now to use crawfish for bait. That's the live bait that seems to be the most effective up there. The usual stunt is to drift slowly over the fishing spots and let the crawfish go deep.

This department has compiled a list of pretty good places within easy driving distance of Chicago where fishermen have a chance to get a string of fish. These lakes are mostly within 100 to 200 miles of Chicago. This "Where to Go" list may be secured at the public service office of THE TRIBUNE, 1 South Dearborn street, Chicago.

Dallemagne and Cotton Tie for French Open Title

ST. GERMAIN, France, July 1.—(AP)—Marcel Dallemagne, French native open golf champion, and Henry Cotton, the English star, finished in a tie for first place in the 72 hole French open championship today.

Dallemagne, who tied Cotton for third place in the recent British open, shot a 66, seven under par, on the last round to match Cotton's total of 277 and force a playoff.

Ted Turner, Pine Valley, N. J., shot rounds of 75 and 73 for a total of 294 and eighth place. William Goggin, San Francisco, finished with 75—77—297, for tenth position.

Dennis and Delaney to Pitch in Police Game

Eddie Dennis of the First District police station will pitch for the south side team, and Mike Delaney, trafic division, will hurl for the north siders in the opening game of the annual charity baseball series for the championship of the Chicago police department at Wrigley field Saturday afternoon. The second contest also will be played at Wrigley field Sunday. The final game will be held at Comiskey park July 12.

Marek to Get $2,500 for Lewis Bout

Chairman Joe Triner and Commissioner George Getz of the Illinois boxing commission yesterday sanctioned a ten round nontitle bout between John Henry Lewis, light heavyweight champion, and Max Marek at Comiskey park Friday, July 10. In case of unsatisfactory weather, the contest will be put over to the following Wednesday, July 15.

Marek, substitute for Bob Olin, originally matched with the champion for July 9, will be paid a $2,500 guarantee with a privilege of 25 per cent of the net receipts, the same terms given Lewis. The latter has established training quarters at the Savoy arena out on the south side. Marek will do all his conditioning at C. Y. O. center.

The commission has given Art Sykes, the Elmira heavyweight, permission to engage Al Gainer, colored New Haven, Conn., fighter, in an eight round supporting match. Other bouts have been tentatively arranged as follows:

Billy Treest vs. Vincent Parrille.
Harry Thomas vs. Red Brennan.
Al Nettlow vs. Billy Sullivan.
Harvey Massey vs. Honeyboy Jones.
George Dixon II. vs. Eddie Ward.

The heavyweight wrestling card scheduled at Mills stadium Monday was completed yesterday. Four bouts will support the main event involving Dave Levin and Chief Little Wolf. Joe Savoldi clashes with Howard Cantowine, Jim McMillen hooks up with Jack Washburn, and Dean Detton faces Ivan Managoff in encounters booked for 30 minutes. The opening conflict, set for 20 minutes, will bring together Sam Cordovano and Bobby Bruns.

Jackie Reed, Gary, Ind., sectional Golden Gloves welterweight titleholder, will be after his eighth consecutive victory in a five round match with Jake Carter in the amateur show tonight at Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street. Al Baker, South Chicago featherweight, meets Harry Peck of Aurora in another five rounder. . . . Palmer Du Barry will be Verne Patterson's foe in a five round amateur headliner tomorrow at Northwest stadium. Ralph Waharado and Georgie White, featherweight rivals, clash in a supplementary affair. . . . Paul Shikat and Mike Kilonis will appear in two of five wrestling struggles Monday at White City. . . . Tommy Howell, Danville welterweight, has gone home for a three weeks' rest following his defeat by Harold Brown Monday to give his injured nose a chance to heal. . . . Johnny Phagan, west side middleweight, has resumed workouts after being out of action since his losing battle with Frankie Battaglia several months ago. . . . Babe Herman, the old featherweight, has turned over Vincente Parrille's contract to Harry Rubenstein in exchange for $1 cash. He expects an additional $50 after the South American heavyweight's next fight. F. M.

American Yacht Wins Day's Gold Cup Race Off Norway

OSLO, Norway, July 1.—(AP)—The American yacht Indian Scout won the second day's race for the gold cup, beating Sweden by two minutes and 53 seconds.

PERRY DEFEATS BUDGE; ENTERS TENNIS FINALS

WIMBLEDON, England, July 1.—[Special.]—America's hopes of capturing the Wimbledon singles titles went a glimmering today when Donald Budge of California was eliminated by Fred Perry, seeking for his third straight championship. The score was 5-7, 6-4, 6-3, 6-4.

Perry's opponent in the final Friday will be Baron Gottfried von Cramm, Germany's Davis cup star, whom he defeated in last year's finals. The German eliminated England's No. 2 man, H. W. [Bunny] Austin earlier in the day, 8-6, 6-3, 2-6, 6-3.

Budge's defeat signaled the exit of the last of the five seeded Americans, Wilmer Allison, the American champion, and Bryan M. Grant having succumbed in the semi-finals and John Van Ryn having been eliminated in the earlier stages of the tournament. Gene Mako, the Californian, was forced to withdraw because of injuries.

Perry's triumph today make him the favorite in Friday's final. In last year's final, Perry vanquished the German champion, 6-2, 6-4, 6-4, after Von Cramm had put Budge out of the running in the semi-finals.

Budge edified the American section of the galleries today by beating Perry in the first set, but his rally was short lived and he was gradually hammered down.

In the women's doubles, the Misses Frieda James and Kay Stammers of England beat their countrywomen, Mrs. J. N. Couper and Miss J. Mowbray Green, 6-2, 1-6, 6-3.

Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan of Massachusetts and Miss Helen Jacobs of California vanquished Mrs. M. M. Moss of England and Miss S. Mavrogordato, 6-2, 6-2. In a mixed doubles affair Mr. and Mrs. John Van Ryn of the United States defeated Dr. Daniel Prenn of Germany and Miss E. M. Dearman of England, 8-6, 6-3.

CRONIN REPLACES BAKER AS COACH OF ALL-STARS

Del Baker, coach of the world's champion Detroit Tigers, was excused by President William Harridge of the American league yesterday from serving as coach of the American leaguers in the All-Star game at Boston July 7.

As a result, Manager Joe McCarthy of the Yankees, who will manage the American leaguers, appointed Joe Cronin, manager of the Boston Red Sox, to serve in Baker's place.

AMERICAN LOOP TEAMS MAKE 106 RUNS IN ONE DAY

New York, July 1.—(AP)—American league batters today piled up the amazing total of 171 hits and 106 runs in six games against twenty-four pitchers.

The first game of the Cleveland-St. Louis double-header led in total runs, with 28, and hits, with 38—19 for each team. The Tiger-White Sox game was second in runs, with a total of 27.

The record for total runs in one league on one day is 101, but that mark, set by the National league in the '80s, was for four games. There were six games on today's American league schedule.

Senators Get Dietrich from A's on Waivers

Tigers Pound Lyons, Evans; Beat Sox, 21-6

touched him up a bit in the fourth. Gehringer walked with one out and went to third on Goslin's single to right. Walker then knocked a homer into the left field stands, scoring Gehringer and Goslin. Simmons flied to Rosenthal, then Owen walked and stopped at second on Hayworth's single to right, but Bridges fanned.

The Sox offense awakened again, though it lasted only momentarily, in the fifth. With one out Rosenthal, Haas, and Bonura knocked consecutive singles, Rosenthal scoring. Appling then grounded to Gehringer, who waited for Bonura to run into the ball, then tossed to Burns to complete a double play.

That Old Confusion Special.

The Sox staged one of their repèrtoire of confusion plays for two Tiger runs in the sixth. With one out Simmons walked and went to third on Owen's single. Sewell suspected Owen of intending to steal second and called for a pitchout. Owen ran all right and Sewell threw the ball right over second base. Appling and Piet, however, continued to stand with their hands on their knees in their usual fielding spots, apparently thinking Pitcher Evans had the ball. But the ball was in deep center field, a fact which permitted Simmons to score and Owen to reach third. Owen scored on Hayworth's fly to Haas. Bridges singled to right but was forced by Burns.

The Tigers fattened their total some more in the seventh. Gehringer's single, Goslin's double, Walker's single and a long fly by Simmons were good for two runs.

Rosenthal Busts One.

The Sox got their sixth run in the seventh. Rosenthal tripled with one out and ran home on Haas' grounder to Gehringer. Bonura was called out on strikes.

The first six runs in the eighth inning convinced Manager Dykes that Evans wasn't deceiving the Tigers any more. So he brought in Chelini, then booted in another run himself. Chelini got the side out by personally retiring Bridges with a toss to Bonura. The evidence that Evans had lost his effectiveness included a single by Hayworth, a walk to Burns, singles by Rogell and Gehringer, Goslin's fly, which sent Rosenthal to the center field wall, singles by Walker and Simmons and a triple by Owen. This assortment was good for seven runs and a grand total of 20.

All the Tigers could get out of the ninth was their 21st run, on a single and a double.

Whitehead Faces Rowe Today in Sox-Tiger Final

John Whitehead will pitch for the White Sox in the final game with the Detroit Tigers at Comiskey park this afternoon. He will be opposed by Schoolboy Rowe.

The Cleveland Indians will arrive in town tomorrow for a five game series in three days, including double-headers Saturday and Sunday.

Tomorrow will be a festive occasion at Comiskey park. It will be "Bruce Campbell day" and most of the populace of the fair village of La Grange will be present to whoop things up for the popular Indian outfielder who learned his baseball at Lyons Township High. Also it will be ladies' day.

Italo Chelini, who won his major league debut against the Senators last Saturday, will pitch the Cleveland-Sox opener.

Boston, Mass., July 1.—(AP)—The Bees came from behind with a three run splurge in the seventh inning today to hand the New York Giants their fourth straight setback, 8 to 6. The victory was the Bees' second over the Giants in two days. The defeat dashed the Giants hopes of climbing back into the first division over the idle Cincinnati Reds.

ST. BERNARD GETS OVER HALF MILE IN 47 SECONDS

Shows Speed in Drill for Stars and Stripes.

St. Bernard lost none of his speed during his winning trip in the Illinois Owners' handicap last Saturday. He reeled off a half mile at Arlington yesterday morning in 47 seconds. He may be a hard one to catch in the Stars and Stripes handicap on Saturday.

Tom Worden's Mansco, somewhat of a sensation about this time last year, is fast rounding into good condition again. He stepped five furlongs in 1:01 1-5 yesterday morning.

Jocky Jack Bryson, contract rider for the Bomar Stable, who was shaken up in a fall in the first race opening day, was galloping horses at Arlington Park yesterday. He will resume riding today.

Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, the young easterner whose horses won $303,605 to head the American owners in 1935, is expected to fly to Chicago to see his Discovery run in the $10,000 Stars and Stripes handicap at Arlington Park on Saturday. Fred M. Alger Jr., the Detroit sportsman who owns Azucar, also will be at Arlington Park for this race in which his 1935 Santa Anita handicap winner will run.

Al Boyle, custodian of the Arlington Park jocky room, reported yesterday that he has issued badges to 54 riders so far. Eleven of these boys are apprentices.

Earl Steffen, who has severed his connections with the Araho stable, will ride free lance during the Arlington Park meeting. He was under contract to the Mrs. John Hertz stable for several years.

All special race trains from Chicago arrive at Arlington Park in time to enable patrons to play the daily double combination, which closes five minutes before the first race. The daily double this year is upon the first and second races.

Jocky Jimmy Hunter, who has been riding for the E. F. Seagram stable in Canada and Detroit, arrived at Arlington Park. He took out a license as a free lance jocky, but likely will go to work for Trainer Bob Curran of the Araho stable.

The Argentine team at present is in Germany practicing for the Olympic games. According to President Jack D. Nelson of the Argentine Polo association the squad will sail for the United States immediately after the Olympic competition. The team last appeared in the United States in 1931.

Discovery Is Here, Ready for Handicap

Recovery Sets Pace.

In the early stages Recovery was out in front. On the last turn Jocky Arcaro moved up with Chief Cherokee. The son of Cherokee drove out into a lead of a length and a half. He weakened slightly in the late stages but had enough left to win by a neck. Microbe was wearing the Chief down in the late stages. He finished second and Recovery got the short end of the spoils.

In the grade C handicap Jack Newman of Chicago produced the winner in Cardarrone, a son of Kentucky Cardinal-Anna Marrone II. He was badly outrun in the early stages by Foyot from the barn of John Marsh of Chicago.

Foyot wheeled into the stretch enjoying a lead of three lengths. Then his weak heart asserted itself. He stopped so fast that both Cardarrone and Sunned both raced past him before the payoff station was reached.

Cardarrone has been a highly touted horse in Chicago throughout the season, but this was the first time he found out just what the winning post really looked like. He paid $18.60 in the betting and ran the six furlongs in 1:11 1-5.

Winner trained by R. McGarvey. Went to post at 2:20½. At post ½ minute. Start good from Bahr gate. Won easily; place driving.

MINSTREL SHOW, beginning fast and thus escaping the early crowding, always held ORIENTALIST safe and eased slightly after increasing his advantage in stretch, won with speed in reserve. ORIENTALIST worked his way clear quickly under strong urging, could not get to the winner, but held on well. PRAIRIE DOG, in a bad jam shortly after the start and much used before reaching the turn, held on gamely when racing on inside in stretch.

SECOND RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50. [Daily double, 1st and 2d races, paid $11.80.]

FAIR LEAD, sent into command under strong pressure and given a breathing spell on the turn, continued with fine speed following a shaking up soon after reaching stretch and pulled away fast as LEE HASTINGS weakened. Latter forced to lose much ground early, went to inside after shaking off THE TRIBESMAN entering stretch, mildly threatened the winner before reaching the final eighth where he weakened. SIAM, on inside early, came out in the stretch and closed well.

THIRD RACE—One mile. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $600; second, $100; third, $75; fourth, $25.

A. Jones. Went to post at 3:12. At post ¼ minute. Start good from permanent stalls. Won handily; place driving.

BOHEMIAN LASS, away fast but taken under restraint when outrun, had to be rushed to escape the possibility of being cut off by LOOKABOUT approaching the stretch, drew clear quickly when straight in the final three-sixteenths, but had little left. LOOKABOUT, raced wide and in hand early, responded readily when shaken up on the turn and continued in resolute fashion through the final quarter, though failing to reach the winner. MIN ORMONT, well up from the start, took a short lead on the turn and weakened badly after three-quarters.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse $1,100. Net value to winner, $800; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50.

CHIEF CHEROKEE, racing in his best form, but lucky, raced to the lead with a rush when getting through on inside on the turn, stood a drive gamely and but for bearing out slightly might have won by a larger margin. MICROBE, away fast but unable to keep up, moved up gradually on inside and fought it out gamely. RECOVERY, probably best, opened up a long lead quickly, bore out badly on the turn, and coming again when straight, finished fastest.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50.

Winner trained by L. Meripol. Went to post 4:04½. At post 1 minute. Start good from Bahr gate. Won driving; place same.

CARDARRONE, taken to inside soon after the start, began to make up ground when placed to pressure after reaching the final quarter, raced to the lead quickly as FOYOT gave way badly in the final eighth and holding on well withstood SUNNED'S bid. Latter, forced to lose much ground, bettered his position steadily and, closing resolutely under his impost, was wearing down the winner. FOYOT displayed keen speed from the start, saved ground throughout, and went gamely to the last sixteenth where he weakened.

FLYING WATCH took command easily, made a fast early pace under steadying restraint, was vigorously shaken up when entering stretch and continuing well held his lead safe, but pulled up lame. NAVANOD, under restraint for three-quarters, stood pressure gamely but did not menace the winner. CHASAR, under strong reserve for three-quarters and racing wide the final three-eighths, could not improve his position in the drive.

CITY'S GOLFERS FOR PUBLIC LINKS TOURNEY PICKED

Chuck Boywid, Big Oaks, Has Low Card of 154.

Chicago's representatives in the national public links golf tournament, which will be held at Farmingdale, L. I., July 20 to 25, were determined yesterday at the Waveland course in Lincoln park. The quartet includes Chuck Boywid, Mid City; Harold Mathison, Big Run; Elmer Freed, Big Oaks, and Tom Finn, Westgate Valley.

Boywid turned in the best card, shooting 78—76—154. Mathison had 77—82—159, Freed 80—79—159, and Finn 80—80—160. Members of the Chicago park district women's clubs served as scorekeepers.

The players will leave for the east on July 17 and they will be accompanied by Harry O'Hare, supervisor of beaches and golf for the Chicago park district, and Tom Walsh, director of golf.

The Chicago Women's District Golf association inaugurated its intra-district team matches yesterday at Beverly.

Led by Dorothy Gustafson of Midlothian, who had 83, the south side sextet took the lead with 25 points. North finished with 18 and west with 11.

Other low scorers were:

Rena Nelson, Exmoor	84
Virginia Ingram, Sunset Ridge	85
Eleanor Dudley, Ridge	86
Mrs. Melvin Jones, Flossmoor	88

TWO WISCONSIN BACKFIELD MEN FAIL IN STUDIES

Madison, Wis., July 1.—[Special.]—The scholastic axe has fallen on two veteran University of Wisconsin halfbacks, it was learned today. They are Johnny Wilson, Richland Center junior, fastest back on the 1935 team, and Emmett Mortell, Appleton, senior, best punter on the squad.

Both dropped five credit courses with resultant failures during the last semester and neither will be allowed to attend the summer session, which began yesterday, because their general scholastic record is deficient.

Eddie Jankowski, Milwaukee back, around whom Coach Harry Stuhldreher plans to build his first Wisconsin team, will have to attend summer school to regain his eligibility.

The squad in general came through in good shape. Several others have to attend the summer session, but Wilson and Mortell are the only first string players who have been counted out. Since the squad is none too well supplied with back field material the loss of these two players may be felt keenly.

26 Enter Auto Race at Roby on Saturday

Drivers began arriving yesterday for the automobile racing program Saturday at the New Roby speedway, 108th street and Indianapolis boulevard. Garages at Roby were rapidly filling with trucks and trailers carrying the racing cars.

Today some of the drivers will take trial runs at Roby. A number of the drivers are strangers to the one mile dirt track. Turns have been banked more for Saturday's races.

The entries now number twenty-six drivers. Two cars are still without drivers. Post entries are expected to bring the total to thirty-five. John Van Rosen and Ernest Brown filed entries yesterday. Van Rosen will drive a Hal Brecht Special and Brown a Dreyer Special.

The field now includes five of the first ten finishers in the Indianapolis race and ten of the eighteen drivers who have scored points in the national automobile championship contest. The Indianapolis money winners are Chet Miller, who finished fifth; Ray Pixley, who finished sixth; Wilbur Shaw, seventh; George Barringer, eighth, and George Connors, tenth.

In addition to this quintet, other national scorers in the race will be Babe Stapp, midwestern champion, who was second at Milwaukee; Rex Mays, the first Roby event; Frank Brisko, holder of the Roby track record; Chet Gardner, and Jimmy Snyder.

Winter Olympics Deficit Placed at 1,500,000 Marks

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, July 1. — The winter Olympic games cost the reich and Bavarian governments and the municipalities of Garmisch and Partenkirchen 1,500,000 marks.

The financial report of the winter Olympic committee, issued today, shows gate receipts of 946,000 marks and other income of about 200,000 marks. Expenses totaled 2,618,000 marks whereas it had been at first expected that they would reach only 1,000,000 marks.

The resulting deficit, was met largely through a Reich subsidy of 900,000 marks, to which were added subsidies obtained from the Bavarian government, the communities of Garmisch-Partenkirchen and other minor sources.

The debt of 202,000 marks that remains must eventually be paid through another government grant.

TRADE LEADERS RAP 'BLIGHT' OF NEW DEAL LAWS

Warned New Restrictions Must Be Met.

A thousand representatives of Illinois manufacturers were told yesterday at an open forum of their state association that despite feasibility the federal government is grinding out statutes regulating business and industry that generally are valid and enforceable, and American trade is confronted with impending governmental restrictions that must be met.

David R. Clarke, general counsel of the Illinois Manufacturers' association, who met in the Hotel La Salle, warned members that business and industry can no longer look to the Supreme court to protect their interests from the "blighting effect of legislation."

"All—whether owners, managers, or employés—are now for the first time confronted with realities," he said.

Assails "Panaceas."

J. C. Belden, president of the Belden Manufacturing company, who presided over the meeting, said the administration's groping for legislative panaceas reminded him of a comment of Voltaire, who said:

"Doctors prescribe drugs about which they know little for diseases about which they know less for people about which they know nothing."

Clark led the discussion on provisions of the Robinson-Patman price discrimination act—the anti-chain store act—signed by the President June 19.

"A great deal will depend on the character of the actual administration of the act by the federal trade commission," he said, "especially upon the construction or interpretation placed upon the words of the act, and upon the character and degree of proof required by the commission in proceedings against those charged with violation of the act."

Believe Walsh-Healey Act Valid.

On the new Walsh-Healey government contract law, giving the department of labor power to determine prevailing wages in an industry before government contracts are awarded, Clark said no basis for an opinion has been found that the act is invalid.

W. F. Mehrich of Arthur Anderson & Co., accountants, outlined the principal provisions of the new federal revenue act of 1936. Some of the major points he made were the differentiation between the tax schedule for a corporation and the schedule for an individual stockholder, the virtual necessity for safeguarding against possible "slips" in the first declaration of value and the infinite care required in planning dividends to escape the surtax on undistributed net income.

Glidden.

Investors' Guide: Will you please advise me if you think investment in preferred stock which the Glidden company now is getting out would be all right for a working girl's funds. Please tell me about the company.—A. L. H.

Answer: Long known as a leading manufacturer of paint, varnish, enamel, lacker, and allied products, the Glidden company has developed its food division since 1929 to the point where that division accounted for 55 per cent of business last year.

The food division produces cocoanut and vegetable oils, margarine, fillings and coatings for bakers and confectioners, salad dressings and condiments.

Dollar sales set a new record last year and profits were second only to the 1929 peak of $2,942,000, equal to $3.57 a share on stock then outstanding. Smaller profits in the first half of this year were attributed to lower vegetable oil prices, but President A. D. Joyce said possibilities are that earnings for the entire year will be better than in 1935.

For the six months ended April 30, 1936, net sales were $19,898,000 and net income was $868,000, or 80 cents per common share, compared with sales of $17,579,000 and net income of $1,217,000 or $1.52 a share in the six months ended April 30, 1935. The record by fiscal years:

1935	$39,529,000	$2,646,000	$2.91
1934	29,820,000	1,582,000	1.68
1933	24,846,000	1,433,000	1.54
1932	22,260,000	510,000	.06
1931	28,808,000	172,000	*.30

*Indicates loss.

Earnings per share are based on capitalization of 65,000 shares of 7 per cent preferred and from 638,659 to 670,000 common shares through 1934. In 1935 104,000 additional common shares were sold to stockholders to make a total of 754,000 outstanding Oct. 31, 1935. The total was raised to 800,000 on April 30, 1936, by sale of 46,000 shares to officials.

The company has just completed marketing 200,000 shares of $50 par 4½ per cent convertible preferred stock to retire the $6,500,000 outstanding preferred stock and the entire funded debt of $3,326,200.

The common stock was placed on a $2 annual dividend basis by a quarterly payment of 50 cents a share Jan. 2, 1936. It now deserves a good rating. The new preferred is high grade, but we are not sure that a low dividend preferred stock is the best form of investment for a working girl with a limited amount of funds.

New York, July 1.—[Special.]—Corporate bonds encountered nothing more than fractional price changes in today's market. Trading was dull and prices on the average were just a shade higher at the close.

Polish bonds expanded their recovery from a recent abrupt setback. The 6s of 1940 ran up 4¼ points and the 7 per cent loan maturing in 1947 spurted 6.

The market for United States government loans turned irregularly lower on a moderate turnover.

Selected public utility bonds attracted most interest in domestic corporate issues and responded readily to the demand with substantial gains.

Narrow and mixed price trends ruled elsewhere among the corporate issues, secondary rail liens holding steady.

South East National Has $1,135,000 Deposit Gain

A gain of $1,135,000 in deposits during the second quarter of this year was reported yesterday by the South East National bank, 1180 East 63d street. Deposits were reported at $3,700,000 as of June 30, compared with $2,565,000 on March 4 and $357,000 on the bank's opening day, April 6, 1935. C. A. Beutel, president of the bank, said that profits from operations are "following a steadily rising plan," that all organization expenses have been absorbed out of earnings, and that "substantial additions" have been made to the undivided profits accounts.

COTTON ADVANCES OVER $1 PER BALE; SPOT PRICES UP

Unfavorable crop reports from parts of the southeastern cotton belt and strong cables from Liverpool sent prices soaring yesterday. Distant deliveries advanced over $1 per bale at the extreme to around the highest levels of the season. Closing trades in leading markets were at the top, with gains of 12 to 21 points. Drouth reports are rapidly increasing from the southeast states.

Spot cotton closed 10 to 20 points higher, with New Orleans 12.60 cents, Houston and Galveston 12.25 cents, and New York at 12.50 cents per pound. Prices follow:

NOVEMBER BUTTER EQUALS HIGH MARK, BUT SLIPS BACK

November butter equaled the highest level of the season on the mercantile exchange yesterday in the early trading, only to react fractionally on profit taking induced by rain and cooler weather over part of the leading producing area. The close was 31¾ cents per pound, or the same as on Tuesday. Prospects that supplies in cold storage on July 1 for the country would be materially below those of last year had considerable influence early. Sales aggregated 52 cars.

Continued heavy receipts and an easy undertone in the spot market depressed October eggs ⅛ cent, with the close at 24¾ cents per dozen. Sales were 60 cars. Potato futures were unchanged, with sales of one car. Prices follow:

It was believed that refiners would pay 3.75c per lb for suitable August positions, or the last paid price, but there was nothing available below 3.80c. Price changes in futures were narrow and irregular. Near months held steady on trade buying and covering while aside from January, new crop positions were a shade lower under liquidation. Final prices were 2 points higher on January and unchanged to 1 lower on other months. Sales were 2,800 tons, of which 1,200 were in exchange.

START CAMPAIGN TO SELL OR LEASE CANAL FRONTAGE

Sanitary District to Woo Factories.

The sanitary district's campaign to attract more industries to Chicagoland by offering for sale or lease 7,000 acres of land along the drainage canal will start July 15 with the distribution of a 20 page illustrated booklet. According to Ross A. Woodhull, president of the district, lands available extend from Wilmette to Joliet and are valued at $45,000,000.

The booklet points out that manufacturing sites within the Chicago city limits are available between Damen and Harlem avenues, the zone set aside by the city. The other parcels fronting on the canal are suitable for warehouses, terminals, and storage centers.

Cites Water Transportation.

"Direct water connections with the Illinois and Mississippi rivers to the Gulf of Mexico, the Great Lakes, and the St. Lawrence river to the Atlantic ocean, and to the heart of the great Calumet industrial district" are chief advantages offered prospective occupants, the booklet says. Other attractions include rail service to 26 roads entering Chicago, access to paved highways, proximity to the Municipal airport, and the abundance of workers living near by.

The canal is 24 feet deep and its narrowest sections are 160 feet wide. It connects with the Chicago river, which is 200 feet wide and 21 feet deep. The Calumet-Sag channel branches from the canal, providing another connecting link with the lake through the Calumet river. The United States government is improving the Calumet-Sag by building passing basins to facilitate movement of barge trafic to the proposed Calumet harbor.

Served by Barge Lines.

"Federal barge lines and numerous private carriers now operate extensive services reaching all points on these waterways and handling all commodities at low cost," the booklet says. "The sanitary district offers 30 miles of frontage on each side of the canal."

Water for industrial machinery is easily available, the trustees say. Large quantities of clay and rock in the spoil banks of the canal may be had at low rates for manufacturing purposes.

Present leases held on sanitary district lands by 30 companies and municipalities bring the district $78,000 annually. Under the new campaign the trustees expect to swell the income to at least $300,000. All sales and rentals will be based on appraisals by the Chicago Real Estate board.

The properties available are shown on maps in the booklet to be distributed from the sanitary district offices at 910 South Michigan avenue.

MOLEY'S SPEECH CALLED ATTACK ON ROOSEVELT

Defends Business Against Radicalism.

Boston, Mass., July 1.—[Special.]—A warning to "prophets of politics" that their "habit of belaboring business with a big stick" will lead the public to intercede on the side of business was sounded today at the convention of the Advertising Federation of America by Raymond Moley, editor of the magazine Today, and one of the original members of the Roosevelt "brain trust."

RAYMOND MOLEY.

Moley's address caused a sensation because certain passages seemingly were direct and not too friendly answers to the speech made by President Roosevelt in accepting renomination as the Democratic candidate for President. The whole tone of the Moley address was such that speculation concerning his continued support of the present administration was unavoidable.

Finds Public Tired of "War."

The President's statement that he accepted enlistment "for the duration of the war," and other belligerent phrases in his acceptance address, contrasted sharply to Moley's assertions today that:

"People are tired of battle. They were weary of war in 1866 and in 1919, and to escape they plunged into the illusion of political reaction. They are getting tired now of war as a figure of speech."

More startling than that, however, was the general defense of business, which has come in for such harsh treatment at the hands of the New Deal campaigners, into which Moley's speech resolved itself.

The former "brain truster" declared that there are "two clear tendencies in the contemporary world; the first is an ebbing tide; the second, a rising one. The ebbing tide is what, in political life, is called radicalism."

Explains Changing Attitude.

"This tendency explains the immense reversal of public sentiment in 1932. It accounted for the temporary popularity of Townsend on a national scale; of Sinclair in California; of Long in Louisiana. For a long time, people have been in the mood to vote and to think against things. But if I am any judge of public opinion, there is a newer trend—a definitly rising tide of moderation."

He chose as the "text" of his speech the Browning quotation: "When the prophet beats the ass, the angel intercedes."

"The trouble with this country," he declared in developing his theme, "is that it is long on prophets and short on workers; long on prophecy and short on thinking.

"People will call business men names until the public realizes, as some of us realize, that modern business, through efficient production, is bringing closer to the average man not only the things that he needs in his daily life, but the things that make life more pleasant—may I say, more 'abundant.'"

Suggests Remedy.

"As I see it, the only way to save the house that we live in from fundamental conflict is to convince the American people by word and deed that our economic system is inherently decent; that it is capable of embodying not perfect but high and exalted standards of justice; that our business and industry are serving the public and that the interests of business and the interests of the public, far from being antagonistic, are inseparable."

A campaign against pseudo-scientific advertising, advertisments offensive to public decency, and paid testimonials by incompetent or indifferent witnesses, was launched when the advertising federation adopted a code designed to control unfair copy practices and to drive out unethical advertisers.

E. H. McReynolds, of St. Louis, vice president in charge of advertising and public relations of the Missouri Pacific railroad, was elected president of the federation. Edith Ellsworth of Roach, Williams & Cunningham, Chicago, was elected chairman of the Council of Women's Advertising clubs, and automatically made vice president of the federation.

DREDGE COMPANY PLANS 100 PCT. STOCK DIVIDEND

The 100 per cent stock dividend will be declared by the McWilliams Dredging company as soon as stockholders approve increasing authorized capital stock from 100,000 to 200,000 shares, the company disclosed yesterday. At the same time it filed with the Chicago Stock exchange notice of the calling of a special meeting of stockholders July 31 to vote on the necessary amendment of the articles of incorporation to increase its capitalization.

W. H. McDonough, secretary of the company said that 96,350 shares of common stock were outstanding with a stated capital of $1,100,383.33 and earned surplus was $2,070,284.27 as of Dec. 31, 1935. He said that $468,250 will be transferred from surplus to capital account and a stock dividend of share for share will be declared.

The stock dividend already has been approved by directors.

Bounties Paid Gold, Silver Miners Rise

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 1.—Bounties paid to domestic gold and silver producers, flowing from the New Deal's artificially boosted prices for the precious metal, increased by nearly 20 million dollars in 1935 over 1934, it was shown today with the publication of figures by Nellie Tayloe Ross, director of the mint.

A total of 3,609,283 ounces of gold, valued at $126,324,900, was produced in the United States in 1935, according to estimates received from the mints, assay offices, and private refineries. These figures were in contrast to gold production of 3,091,183 ounces, valued at $108,191,400, in 1934.

Price Boosted in 1933.

The government boosted the price of gold to $35 an ounce from $20.67 in 1933. The difference represents a bounty of about 40 per cent, which is paid to producers of newly mined gold, who must sell their output to the government under existing New Deal laws.

Silver production last year amounted to 45,923,454 ounces, valued at $33,008,201, while the 1934 output totaled 32,725,353 ounces, valued at $21,155,784. The average price per ounce paid for newly mined domestic silver was 71⅞ cents. The world level was about 40 cents an ounce.

The $35 an ounce high price paid by the New Deal for gold has not only attracted hordes of amateur prospectors to the outworn bonanza spots of the west but has also stepped up margin production in foreign countries.

Foreign Miners Active.

Foreign producers have been mining for gold that would be unprofitable under normal prices and have let the easily accessible metal "lie fallow."

The year of the largest production of the two metals in the United States was 1915. In that year, with gold valued at $20.67 an ounce, production amounted to 4,887,604 ounces with a value of $101,035,700. Silver production was 74,961,075 ounces, valued at $37,397,300.

California led in gold production last year with an output of 870,120 ounces.

The first three silver producers were Idaho, 7,413,438 ounces; Utah, 6,198,091 ounces, and Montana, 5,797,872 ounces.

PACKARD'S SIX MONTH EARNING EQUALS ALL 1935

In a letter accompanying payment of the company's dividend due July 1, Alvan Macauley, president of the Packard Motor Car company, yesterday said that in the first six months of 1936 net earnings of Packard will be approximately the same as for the entire year of 1935, when they were $3,315,622.

This indicates earnings for the first six months of 1936 will be about 22 cents a share. During the first half of 1936 Packard's sales totaled about 34,000 cars, an increase of 16,700 cars, or 97 per cent, over the first six months of 1935, Macauley said.

Packard's sales for cash are in almost inverse ratio to the industry as a whole, according to the letter. Whereas two in every three cars are generally bought on time, but one in every three Packards is bought on deferred payments.

Cuneo Press Increases Dividend to $2 Annually

Directors of the Cuneo Press company yesterday declared a quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share on the common stock, payable Aug. 1 to stockholders of record July 20. This places the stock on a $2 annual basis and compares with the previous quarterly payment of 30 cents. The regular quarterly dividend of $1.62½ a share on the preferred was also declared, payable Sept. 14 to stockholders of record Aug. 31.

Engineering Construction Awards Increase in June

Engineering construction contract awards during June, the "Engineering News-Record" reports, totaled $183,917,000 compared with $110,161,000 in June, 1935. Six months awards were $1,121,373,000 against $857,271,000 in the corresponding 1935 period.

FOUR BILLION DOLLAR REFUNDING BOND ISSUE PLANNED BY SOVIETS

MOSCOW, July 1.—(AP)—The soviet government tonight ordered issuance of consolidated internal loan bonds totaling 19,000,000,000 rubles [$3,800,000,000, figured at five rubles for one dollar fixed by the soviet] which will absorb seven outstanding industrial loans.

The interest rates will be cut 50 to 60 per cent. The order affects 50,000,000 bondholders, who were informed that the reduction in their interest payments will be made up to them in the form of strengthening the ruble and decrease in the cost of necessities of life.

It was officially stated that bonds of domestic loans placed abroad for foreign currency [interest bearing, not the so-called lottery bonds] will not be included in the consolidation and will be fully honored according to their original specifications.

The new bonds, to be issued Sept. 1, will mature in twenty years and will bear 4 per cent interest. Bondholders will be given until Sept. 1, 1937, to make the exchange.

In addition to absorbing outstanding loans totaling approximately 15,000,000,000 rubles, the consolidated issue will include a new industrial loan of 4,000,000,000 rubles.

The announcement said it is the patriotic duty of workers to subscribe to the new loan to the amount of two or three weeks' salary.

REINDICT SIX FORMER OFFICERS OF LOAN CONCERN

Six former officials of the Trustees System Service corporation, small loan concern, were reindicted yesterday when a federal grand jury returned a true bill in Judge John P. Barnes' court charging them with misuse of the mails in a scheme to defraud.

The original indictment was made on April 10, 1935, but was dismissed last May 5 on a technicality. Although the three year statute of limitations might have barred prosecution of these officials, the new indictment was made possible under another statute providing that a new indictment may be brought within the next succeeding term of court after an original indictment is found faulty for any reason.

The six men named are: John C. Corcoran, Birmingham, Ala., founder of the corporation; Dennis J. Corcoran, a brother of the founder and vice president of the company; Frank J. Gibbons, Chicago, president; Jacob G. Born, Birmingham, secretary and treasurer; Frank D. Nicholson, Chicago, auditor, and L. J. Medinah, general sales manager.

The Trustees System Service corporation was begun originally in Birmingham and expanded until it had thirty subsidiaries operating in ten states at the time of its collapse in 1932. Postoffice inspectors estimated the loss to investors at $20,000,000.

LAWYERS SEEK $222,750 IN FEES; AWARDED $18,900

New York, July 1.—[Special.]—Supreme Court Justice Alfred Frankenthaler today slashed claims of a group of attorneys in connection with the reorganization of the gigantic F-1 series of the New York Title and Mortgage company.

Eleven lawyers who asked for an aggregate of $222,750 for the services they described in some detail got $18,900. On the other hand, a number of attorneys close to the reorganization, who had left it to the court to determine the value of their services, shared $92,000 in fee awards.

Steel Industry Does Well in 1st Six Months

With producers attempting to make up the loss that will occur this week with the Independence day holiday, steel ingot production last week rose one-half point to 71½ per cent of plant capacity, the magazine Iron Age said yesterday.

In reviewing the first half of 1936, the journal reported that the steel industry enjoyed a relatively good period. With daily ingot output in June having been at practically as high a rate as in May, total production of steel in the first six months was about 21,800,000 tons, according to the magazine. This was above first half output in 8 of the last 15 years and compares with an average six months' production in that period of only 18,890,000 tons.

85 Per Cent of Boom Average.

"The total amounted to 85 per cent of the average first half production in the so-called boom years of 1926 to 1930, inclusive," Iron Age said. "It was far above the average for the last five depression years and exceeded average first half output in the 1921-'25 period by a comfortable margin. While the trend over the next six months is difficult to forecast, the full year seems certain to be the best since 1930."

The late season vitality of the automotive industry is a source of astonishment to steel sellers, Iron Age pointed out. Not only are orders from the Detroit area well maintained, but increases are reported in some instances and it is evident that production quotas on 1936 models have been stepped up because of heavy consumer purchases.

Composite Index Rises.

Third quarter prices on sheets and hot-rolled strip steel have been tested by spot demand since second quarter books have been closed, and as a result the Iron Age composite price of finished steel advanced 50 cents a ton to 2.1222 cents a pound, and it will move up an additional 74 cents a ton this week when higher prices on bars, plates and shapes will become effective. The pig iron composite remained unchanged at $18.84 a ton.

Urgent demand for scrap occasioned by the high rate of open hearth steel output has led to increased old material prices and the Iron Age composite scrap price rose 21 cents to $12.96 a gross ton. Increased prices are reported from both Pittsburgh and Chicago.

PRICES OF FOOD REACH HIGHEST LEVEL SINCE 1931

Washington, D. C., July 1.—[Special.]—Retail food costs rose substantially in the two weeks ended on June 16, the bureau of labor statistics announced today. The bureau's index, based on the 1923-'25 average, advanced to 83.8, compared with 82.1 two weeks before and 81.5 on June 18, 1935.

This advance brings food costs to the highest level since April, 1931. The principal factors contributing to the advance were continued increases in prices of fresh fruits and vegetables and higher prices for butter and eggs.

The first of the July 1 index numbers of average commodity prices, published by Dun's Review, reckons an increase of 3½ per cent during June. The Review states that this is the largest gain of any month since September, 1935.

MORGENTHAU DEFENDS HUGE DEFICIT OF U. S.

New Deal Ends Year 4½ Billions in 'Red.'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 1.—[Special.]—Payment of the veterans' bonus and invalidation of AAA processing taxes were blamed by Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. in an address tonight for the all-peacetime spending and deficit record chalked up under the New Deal during the fiscal year 1936, which ended yesterday.

SEC. MORGENTHAU.

Expenditures for the year were approximately 8 billion 500 million dollars, Morgenthau said, while the deficit was 4 billion 400 million.

The treasury secretary in his "annual" accounting address said the people of the country were "stockholders" of the government and he was reporting to them on his stewardship of their business. He used the phrase "you and I" in telling the public over the radio how the New Deal had spent the money.

Cites Unforeseen Events.

"You and I cannot always tell, when we make our business plans, what unforeseen and extraordinary events may increase our expenses or reduce our revenues," said Morgenthau. "The manufacturer whose plant is situated in a flood area may have his calculations upset by a disastrous flood. His income may be reduced. His expenditures may be increased.

"The business of the government also is subject to unforeseen and extraordinary events. Scarcely had the present congress met last January when two events completely changed the budget outlook.

"First, prospective revenues were cut down as a result of the decision of the Supreme court that the Agricultural Adjustment administration was unconstitutional. This meant a loss to the treasury, in 1936, of nearly half a billion dollars.

Bonus Boosts Expenses.

"Second, prospective expenditures were increased by an act of congress directing the immediate payment of the veterans' adjusted service certificates. To provide for the payment of these certificates which, under their original terms were not due until 1945, the expenditure program for 1936 was increased by 1 billion 700 million dollars."

Then Morgenthau touched on the public debt, which has been increased 13½ billion dollars under the Roosevelt administration and now stands at 33 billion 750 million dollars.

There were offsets against the huge debt burden, the secretary declared, naming cash on hand, "recoverable" loans and the stabilization fund, totaling 8 billion 750 million dollars.

Receipts Top 4 Billions.

Revenue receipts during the year exceeded four billion dollars, Morgenthau said, and there were 1 billion 800 million dollars in cash in the till at the start of the year.

"The other two and a half billion that we spent had to be borrowed," admitted the secretary. "As a matter of fact, we borrowed more than five billion dollars net, but we have two billion 700 million left in our cash balance to meet expenditures of coming months, including the redemption of the veterans' bonds."

Having dwelt at some length on spending, debt and borrowing, Morgenthau declared that in its refunding operations, or a postponement of meeting the public debt as it matures, the administration had reduced the interest rate on obligations nearly one fourth. He did not mention, however, that the debt reflected by these obligations had increased to a record peak.

Grains Soar on Drouth Reports; Wheat Up Nearly Four Cents

Grain prices advanced sharply yesterday on the crest of a wave of general commission house buying which lifted wheat futures nearly 4 cents and all deliveries of corn and oats to a new high level for the season.

Reports indicating that rapid deterioration to spring sown crops had developed in the more southern sections of the three Canadian provinces due to the continued lack of rain furnished the bullish incentive.

Closing trades in all markets were about the top. Gains on wheat ranged upward to 3¾ cents, with Minneapolis leading, while the dollar quotation was restored in the cash market in Chicago for the first time in nearly two months. Corn futures were up as much as 2¾ cents, with July 1 leading, while oats advanced nearly 2 cents and rye was up more than that amount. The Winnipeg market was closed for Dominion day.

Soy Beans Climb.

Soy bean prices continued their upward movement, which has been under way for a month, and sold at $1.01 per bushel on the Chicago Board of Trade, an advance of 1 cent as compared with Tuesday and 16½ cents above a month ago.

According to the dominion government weekly telegraphic crop summary, hot and dry weather has been responsible for general and serious reduction in crop prospects in the prairie provinces. An average yield of spring wheat in that area cannot be expected, said the reports, and declining prospects are almost generally claimed. Many of the reports showed serious drouth damage had already occurred. Messages received by the trade suggested a crop failure in parts of southern Saskatchewan.

With the spring wheat crop in the American northwest regarded as having been practically ruined, fears that a debacle might be witnessed in Canada which would materially change the world's supply and demand situation for the 1936-'37 season caused many traders who had taken the selling side of the market recently to reverse their position yesterday.

The Liverpool wheat market, which has been on the downgrade of late, closed as much as 2 cents per bushel higher yesterday, with the unfavorable Canadian crop reports the dominating influence. While North America is suffering from a lack of moisture the situation in parts of Argentina has been rendered unfavorable by too much rain and the completion of seeding in that country has been delayed.

September Closing Prices.

Closing prices on the September delivery of leading grains with comparisons follow:

Wheat	$ .97	$ .93⅜	$ .96⅛	$ .85¼

Oats	.32⅜	.30⅝	.30⅝	.28⅝
Rye	.65⅝	.63⅞	.65	.55¼

World's carry-over of wheat on July 1, as estimated by the department of agriculture, aggregated 635,000,000 bushels, the smallest in nine years, compared with 856,000,000 bushels in 1935 and 1,109,000,000 bushels in 1934. The United States surplus was placed at 125,000,000 bushels, the smallest since 1928. Last year it was 152,000,000 bushels, while at the peak in 1933 it aggregated 393,000,000 bushels.

ESTIMATE ARGENTINE WHEAT.

BUENOS AIRES, July 1.—(AP)—The government tonight estimated the 1935-'36 wheat crop at 3,800,000 tons and the flax crop at 1,330,000 tons.

HEARING ON GAS RATE INCREASE SET FOR JULY 15

The Illinois commerce commission has voted to begin formal hearing on the petition of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company to increase gas rates in Chicago by approximately $3,000,000 annually, James M. Slattery, chairman, announced yesterday. The hearing will be started July 15. The new schedule, which would have become effective July 27 if the commission had not acted, has been suspended until Nov. 24 pending outcome of the hearing.

The company asserts that present rates do not afford a fair return on the value of its property, and seeks an increase which would amount to 10 to 15 per cent on the average $2 to $3 monthly domestic bills. George A. Ranney, chairman of Peoples Gas, stated that if the commission does not grant the increase an appeal to the courts will be made. The commission recently denied the company permission to increase its rates by $800,000 annually to offset the 3 per cent state sales tax it now pays.

CHICAGO RAILROADS EXPECTING HEAVIEST JULY 4 TRAFIC IN YEARS

With Independence day falling on Saturday railroads are preparing for the busiest holiday trafic this week-end in several years. Extra equipment is being pressed into service. Many trains will operate in two sections out of Chicago Friday and Saturday. Extra cars will be attached to regular trains to take care of the anticipated rush of holiday vacationers.

R. Thompson, passenger trafic manager of the Chicago and North Western railway, said yesterday that seven of the line's regular trains would go out in two sections Friday.

The Milwaukee road reported similar prospects. The Hiawatha will leave Chicago Friday afternoon in three sections instead of the customary two. The road will put other extra equipment into service.

Definite figures on the volume of trafic expected were not available, but all roads canvassed reported that they looked for the heaviest travel out of Chicago that has been seen in several years.

JUNE BUILDING IN CHICAGO SETS RECORD FOR '36

Half Year Total Well Over Last Year.

BY AL CHASE.

The value of new construction in Chicago during June set a new high record for 1936, when for the first time this year the total climbed over the 2 million mark. Permits with an estimated value of $2,021,131 were issued by the city building department. This compares with $741,850 in June last year and $1,575,891 in May, 1936.

Comparison of totals for the first six months in number and value permits also show a large gain over the same period last year. There were 670 permits, with an estimated value of $8,518,560, issued in the first half of 1936. This compares with 392 permits, valued at $5,801,032, for the first six months of 1935.

Compare Monthly Totals.

	1936.	1935.
January	$ 489,120	$ 497,470
February	613,550	278,295
March	1,937,118	1,370,740
April	1,881,750	1,857,078
May	1,575,891	1,055,599
June	2,021,131	741,850
	$8,518,560	$5,801,032

For the fifth consecutive month building construction in Chicago exceeded the corresponding period of last year. The June total was 159 permits compared with 90 permits last year. The June value of $2,021,131 compares with $1,279,281 in June, 1935. This is a gain of 69 permits with a dollar value of $1,279,281.

Value Up Sharply.

Comparison of June totals with May, 1936, shows a slight decline in number of permits but a large increase in value. During May 165 permits were issued for projects costing an estimated $1,575,891. June exceeded May in dollar value by $225,240.

A feature of the June building figures was the gain of nearly 100 per cent in the number of permits issued for single family dwellings, compared with the same month last year. There were 94 permits taken out for residences last month, compared with 52 permits during June, 1935.

Other permits issued during June, 1936, were for 52 business buildings, four office buildings, five apartment buildings, and one each for the following classifications: Churches, schools, store and flats, store and offices.

UTILITY SHARES RISE SHARPLY IN MIXED TRADE

Gains and Losses About Evenly Divided.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 1.—[Special.]—Prices for stocks were again mixed today, although a few groups, notably the utility, electrical equipments and a number of miscellaneous industrials, were able to shake off the reactionary trend, and score sharp advances. Generally about half of the list gained, while the other half declined slightly.

Volume was greater than in any other day this week, transactions amounting to 965,460 shares.

Traders were reported to be extremely cautious as they watched the battle lines between labor and the leaders of the steel industry become more sharply defined. Another factor contributing to the conservatism of the speculative fraternity was the drouth in the west.

Reasons for Utility Gains.

Record figures for electrical power output and the prospect that second quarter earnings will be the best for some time touched off the buying of utility shares, some of which set new highs for the year.

Standard Gas issues were particularly buoyant, with gains in the issues of the company ranging from a major fraction to almost 5 points. American and Foreign Power issues also were strong, while Public Service, Peoples Gas, United Corporation, North American and Consolidated Gas recorded gains extending to more than a point.

Stepping into the rôle played in recent sessions by Chrysler, Westinghouse soared 7 points to a new high of 125 and closed at 123¾ for a gain of 5⅝ points. General Electric was also in favor, moving up a point.

Steel Shares Sluggish.

Steel shares continued to act sluggish, with many independent shares plunging downward on a few sales. Drouth news threw a shadow over the farm implement section, where losses of 1 to 2 points and more were in order. Declines were registered all along the line.

Individual strong spots were American Can, American Tobacco, Allied Chemical, Western Union, and Monsanto.

Motor shares were somewhat disappointing. Chrysler came to a halt as profit taking barred the way, and General Motors did little more than back and fill for the greater part of the session.

Rail shares lacked steam despite reports from leading carriers showing carloadings last week were about 15 per cent greater than for the corresponding period of last year. The group was just about steady.

Oil shares were mixed. Standard of New Jersey dropped a major fraction. Colonial-Beacon was strong.

JAMES M. LANDIS IS RE-ELECTED TO SEC CHAIRMAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 1.—[Special.]—James M. Landis, on leave as professor of legislation in the Harvard university law school, was re-elected chairman of the Securities and Exchange commission today. The chairmanship terminated yesterday but his membership runs until June, 1937.

Born in Japan 37 years ago, the son of missionaries, Landis was graduated from Princeton university and the Harvard law school. Then he served as secretary to Associate Justice Brandeis of the Supreme court.

Obtaining his leave three years ago from Harvard, Landis was one of the early brain trusters to arrive on the New Deal scene in Washington. He came here to help write the first securities act and was rewarded with a membership on the federal trade commission. Landis became a member of the SEC after the 1934 act was passed and its chairman, Sept. 23, 1935, following the resignation of Joseph P. Kennedy.

ELECTRIC OUTPUT FOR WEEK SETS ALL-TIME RECORD

Industry Seen Preparing for Labor Trouble.

With electricity production for the nation soaring to a new all time peak of 2,029,639,000 kilowatt hours last week, public utility executives yesterday saw in the contraseasonal expansion definite evidence that industry is piling up inventories in preparation for a feared spreading of dissension in labor ranks.

Last week's output, as reported by the Edison Electric institute, represented an increase of 24,396,000 kilowatt hours over the preceding week, which had also set a record, and was 257,501,000, or 14.5 per cent, ahead of the corresponding week of last year. Output in the Chicago district was the largest for the last ten weeks, continuing the contraseasonal improvement.

Prepare for Emergency.

The industry's concern over an impending epidemic of strikes was heightened this week when the American Iron and Steel institute, spokesman for the steel business, disclosed that all resources would be used to combat unionization. In order to gird for any contingency mills this week, usually the slowest, have stepped up their operations to a new six year top of 74 per cent for the purpose of building up their warehouse stocks.

Of last week's gain of 257,501,000 kilowatt hours over the same period last year approximately 25,000,000, or 10 per cent, can be traced to domestic service emanating from increased sales of refrigerators and miscellaneous household appliances.

Chicago's power output totaled 109,785,000 kilowatt hours for the week ended June 27, compared with 97,837,000 kilowatt hours in the corresponding period a year ago, an increase of 12.2 per cent.

Chicago District Output.

Output in kilowatt hours and percentage comparisons with last year for the Chicago district follow:

Week Ended.	Kilowatt-Hour Output, 1936.	1935.	% Inc.
June 27	109,785,000	97,837,000	12.2
June 20	109,057,000	99,021,000	10.1
June 13	108,681,000	96,642,000	11.2
June 6	107,697,000	97,163,000	10.9

Three of the seven geographical divisions of the country last week increased their percentage improvement over a year ago. The most significant expansion was in the central industrial region where the gain was lifted to 21 per cent, compared with 17.9 per cent in the preceding week.

MARGIN RULES CURB TRADING, REPORT HINTS

New York, July 1.—(AP)—The New York Stock exchange today issued its compilation of members' customers' accounts, which, brokerage circles said, showed higher federal reserve margin requirements had restricted stock market activity and hampered operations of large traders. The compilation disclosed 31.9 per cent of members' customers' margin accounts "restricted" on May 29 and about 39.4 per cent on April 30.

The report showed that approximately 29 per cent of the accounts were similarly affected on March 31, under the old margin requirements prior to new regulations which were promulgated by the federal reserve board April 1.

Stock exchange officials refused to interpret the figures, merely stating that the compilation, based on data submitted by 420 firms, had been forwarded to the federal reserve board in Washington.

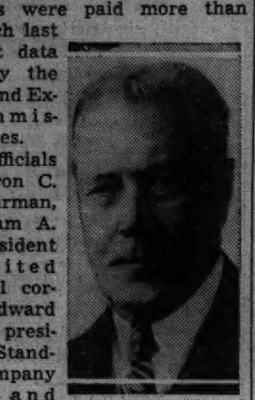
SEC REVEALS FOUR $100,000 A YEAR SALARIES

Report Includes Many of Nation's Leaders.

Four executives of large American corporations were paid more than $100,000 each last year, latest data revealed by the Securities and Exchange commission discloses.

These officials were Myron C. Taylor, chairman, and William A. Irvin, president of the United States Steel corporation; Edward G. Seubert, president of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, and Percy S. Straus, president and a director of R. H. Macy & Co.



MYRON C. TAYLOR.

U. S. Steel Salaries.

United States Steel corporation showed compensation of $166,786 to Taylor, $124,513 to Irvin, and $91,056 to William J. Filbert, chairman of the finance committee. Sixteen directors received $455,721; twelve officers, not directors, $399,893; ten employés, $248,681, and six counsel and auditing entities, from $20,750 to $118,494 each.

The commission reported that the Commonwealth and Southern corporation paid its president, Wendell L. Wilkie, $75,690 last year. E. A. Yates, vice president and a director, received $43,710; Jacob Hekma, vice president and director, got $41,037; ten directors were paid $236,282 and ten officers, not directors, got $97,988.

Hold Data Secret.

Socony-Vacuum held individual figures secret, but revealed $618,800 paid to nine directors, $71,000 to three officers not directors, and $459,650 to fourteen employés. Socony also withheld the names of nine foreign subsidiaries and the percentage of voting power of foreign subsidiaries on the ground disclosure would be detrimental to the company's interests.

Standard Oil Company of Indiana paid Seubert $111,650, instead of the $117,900 he received in 1934. Allan Jackson, vice president and director, got $62,100; E. J. Bullock, vice president and director, $57,600; eleven directors and officers, $534,000, and three employés, $64,425 each.

Chrysler Files Confidentially.

Chrysler corporation filed its salaries confidentially. The amount paid the Chrysler management trust as its proportion of the profits for 1935 was $1,229,087. During 1935 the plan was amended to extend the period of distribution over the years 1938 to 1942, inclusive, with progressive reduction in the rate of participation in the earnings and surrender by the corporation of its option to repurchase certain shares of Chrysler stock from the trust. The trust was formed to hold stock which it sold to executives at prices advantageous to them.

ORDER STOCKHOLDERS OF BAIN BANK TO PAY 70 PER CENT OF CLAIM

Stockholders of the defunct Auburn Park Trust and Savings bank, one of the former Bain chain, were instructed yesterday by Superior Judge Walter T. Stanton to settle their liability to depositors by payment of 70 per cent of the face value of stock in cash by Aug. 3. Alternate settlements will be a 72½ per cent payment witsin six months or 75 per cent within a year. Judge Stanton said he will sign an order to this effect today.

The decision was reached after a hearing during which the courtroom was jammed, mostly by various Bain bank depositors. The 70 per cent assessment is estimated to yield about $30,000, it was said, no collections being considered possible on the large proportion of the stock held by the Bain family and others. Total capital stock outstanding is $300,000.

To date, the Auburn Park bank has returned $92,000 or 17½ per cent of deposit liability.

William F. Stelzer, president of the Lawn Civic association, spokesman for a group of depositors in a number of closed Bain banks, said an appeal will be taken from Judge Stanton's order. The group regards it as establishing a harmful precedent for settlement of other Bain bank stock liability suits.

PALMER AWAITS ACTION BY COURT IN RATE DISPUTE

Ernest Palmer, state superintendent of insurance, indicated yesterday that he will take no further action in his effort to force eastern fire insurance companies to reduce their rates until the United States District court at Springfield has acted on a temporary injunction, granted on Tuesday, restrains the Illinois insurance department from denying renewal of licenses to the companies because they have not complied with Palmer's order for a reduction of fire insurance rates.

Palmer issued the following statement in Springfield:

"While practically all mutual fire insurance companies, a few nonboard stock companies and London Lloyd's agree to abide by the rate reduction, we will treat all companies alike and await the final decision of the federal court here."

The 176 companies granted the temporary injunction charged that Palmer exceed his authority in demanding their telegraphic assent to his order under threat of denying a renewal of their licenses. A hearing on a motion to make the injunction permanent will be held by Federal Judge Charles G. Briggle in Springfield on July 7.

TRUCKERS ASSAIL PICKUP SERVICE OF ROADS IN EAST

New York, July 1.—[Special.]—Dark prophecies of unemployment in the trucking business if the proposed complete free pickup and delivery of less than carload freight by eastern railroads is put into effect, were repeated today by truckers who testified at the interstate commerce commission hearing on the plan at the Hotel Pennsylvania.

New York and New Jersey local truckmen expressed bitter opposition to the plan, but a Philadelphia group expressed neither approval nor disapproval, merely asking that the trucking service should be performed for the railroads by local truckers at reasonable compensatory rates.

The New York hearings are expected to end tomorrow. They will be resumed in Chicago later in the month. Tarifs for the proposed service, which is already in effect on all railroads except the eastern group, were suspended by the commission, pending the hearings.

FARMERS TOLD BY U. S. TO PAY '35 CORN LOANS

Washington, D. C., July 1.—(AP)—The government in effect "called" its outstanding 1935 corn loans today.

Thousands of farmer-borrowers who have not already done so must either sell their sealed up grain at current market prices in coming weeks or repay from their own pockets the money lent them at 4 per cent interest.

The Commodity Credit corporation estimated today that $8,800,000 in corn loans remained outstanding on about 19,728,000 bushels.

LARD FUTURES ADVANCE; 5 TO 10 CENTS HIGHER

Lard futures advanced moderately yesterday as the result of deliveries of 3,600,000 pounds of cash lard on July contracts passing into strong hands. There was no material pressure, and liquidation by holders of July contracts was less in evidence. Warehouse interests bought July and sold the deferred future. Closing trades on the active months were 5 to 10 cents higher.

Local lard stocks increased 7,111,000 pounds during June, or slightly above trade expectations. Aggregate supplies are 53,409,000 pounds, compared with 40,389,000 pounds last year. Stocks of cut meats decreased 64,000 pounds and are 68,481,000 pounds, or practically the same as they were at this season in 1935.

Clear bellies [salt pork] closed nominally unchanged. Deliveries on July contracts aggregated 210,000 pounds. Cash lard was quoted at $10.57½; loose, $10.02½; leaf, $10, and clear bellies at $13.35 per 100 pounds. Prices per 100 pounds follow:

ABBOTT PLAN FOR CAR LINES TERMED 'STEAL'

More Witnesses Assail Proposal at Hearing.

The Abbott committee's plan for reorganization of the Chicago Surface Lines met further opposition before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday, one witness shouting "the sale and the plan is a steal."

This charge was made by James Fitzgerald, who described himself as an investment counsel, and as representing ten members of his family who are "car riders."

Fitzgerald, called as a witness by Attorney James F. Byrnes, counsel for an objecting stockholder, used the word "steal" although Judge Wilkerson sustained an objection from Attorney U. S. Schwartz.

Terms Provisions a Joke.

Fitzgerald testified provisions of the Abbott plan on the Chicago City and Connecting Railway collateral trust are "positively a joke." He added there should be some consideration of coördination of the surface lines and bus systems.

He objected to inclusion of W. Rufus Abbott and Bernard E. Sunny in the reorganization committee on the ground Abbott is a director of the Chicago Motor Coach company and Sunny is a director of the First National Bank of Chicago.

J. K. Newman, New York investment banker who testified Tuesday, yesterday testified he found fault with the Abbott plan for not containing a provision for alternate municipal ownership and operation of the surface lines.

Urges Income Bonds.

Newman echoed the claims of other witnesses that the plan should have provided for income bonds instead of prefererd stock for distribution to junior security holders. He protested creation of a voting trust whereby the stock of the new company is to be held and voted by trustees for ten years.

Attorney Herbert Pope, favoring proceedings under section 77B of the amended bankruptcy law, argued that under the 1907 ordinance and reorganization all securities are being held as a trust.

"If the companies are insolvent," Judge Wilkerson said, "the stockholders are out."

Objecting security holders will continue their arguments today.

REORGANIZATION OF ROSENBAUM UNIT SEEN NEAR

The bondholders' committee of the Chicago Elevator Properties, Inc., appointed by Federal Judge William H. Holly, has secured the necessary consents to file a reorganization plan, it was announced yesterday. A hearing has been set by Judge Holly for July 15.

The plan provides for the paying of a full year's back interest at 5 per cent in cash to the bondholders, together with a cash payment of 10 per cent on account of their principal. In addition bondholders will receive a first mortgage for the balance of their principal, due in 15 years, with a fixed rate of 5 per cent after the first five years, and on a 5 per cent cumulative earning basis during the first five years.

The Chicago Elevator Properties, Inc., was a subsidiary of the Rosenbaum Grain company, which went into bankruptcy in April 1935.

SUPREME COURT GETS FIRST TEST OF WAGNER ACT

Washington, D. C., July 1.—[Special.]—The first case affecting the constitutionality of the Wagner labor relations act reached the Supreme court today when the Bradley Lumber company of Arkansas filed a brief asking a review of lower court decisions and assailing the act as violating due process provisions of the constitution.

The Bradley Lumber company appealed in a suit brought against the NLRB in New Orleans seeking to restrain the board from holding hearings on two complaints. One complaint sought to perfect a system of collective bargaining, and the other proposed reinstatement with back pay of about two hundred employés.

VOLUME OF LIVE STOCK RECEIPTS CLIMBS IN JUNE

6 Months' Chicago Total Sets All-Time Low.

The volume of live stock receipts at the Chicago stockyards is rapidly increasing, the gain during June being the largest for that month since 1924. However, barring 1935, the current movement into the yards is the lowest for this time on record. Aggregate June receipts of cattle, calves, hogs, sheep, and horses, at 675,833, compare with 581,260 a year ago, the only smaller June total on records that date back to 1878.

The six months' total at 4,232,863, due to abnormally low supplies in recent months, established a new all time low for the first half of the year. The previous low was 4,731,060 received during the first half of 1935.

LAMB, HOG PRICES BREAK

Consumer resistance to high pork and lamb prices, coupled with an increased movement of hogs and lambs from the country, caused a sharp reduction in quotations at the stock yards yesterday.

Lambs led the break yesterday, falling 50 cents a hundredweight. Top natives were closely sorted by packers at $10, compared with $12 last Thursday.

Hogs declined 5 to 25 cents, "lard hogs" showing the greatest loss due largely to the sharp increase in lard stocks and the heavy proportion of extremely fat hogs in the receipts lately. The average, $10.15, was off 15 cents.

Demand for cattle favored the lighter and cheaper grades of stock at strong to slightly higher prices, but buyers held limited orders for the liberal run of medium and weighty long feds and these dropped 10 to 15 cents. The top was $10 and the bulk sold at $7.75 to $9.10. Most butcher stock held firm.

CAR LINES, 'L' REPORT HEAVIER TRAFIC FOR JUNE

The Chicago Surface lines yesterday reported 59,067,577 revenue passengers were carried during June, an increase of 11.07 per cent over the corresponding month in 1935. The preliminary figures included estimates of the number of transfers from Rapid Transit to surface lines.

For the first six months this year, Chicago Surface lines handled 363,953,291 revenue passengers, an increase of 8.38 per cent over the same period last year, and 20 per cent under the peak trafic volume in 1929. In the first six months of last year there were no elevated transfers.

The Chicago Rapid Transit company, in a preliminary report, placed the percentage increase for June this year over last at 23.55, including transfers. For the first six months the gain was placed at 19.06 per cent with transfers included this year, and 3.44 per cent without transfers.
